Capitol City Hardest Hit; Roofs Torn From Homes, Streets Flooded

Oklahoma City — A farm family of three was killed by an isolated tornado that spun in on their home during the night, Seminole county officers said today.

A spokesman in the sheriff's office said a motorist came across the scene early today. Details of the tragedy were not immediately known. Earlier, an Oklahoma City man died of a heart attack at the peak of the storm which contained tornadoes that churned straight down a 50 mile stretch of central Oklahoma.

The twisters were first reported over Anadarko before sundown and last reported over Oklahoma City. The farm family reported killed by the twister lived three miles west of Cronwell, 70 miles southeast of Oklahoma City.

Lloyd Walters, the heart attack victim, died as his house was damaged by the wind.

The sprawling Oklahoma capitol city was hardest hit. "It's impossible to make an estimate of damage at this time," said City Manager Sheldon Stirling early today. "Right now we are most

Children Help Dad in Fight

Eau Claire Family Destitute; Denied State Welfare Aid

Eau Claire — A 49-year-old unemployed father, joined by his six children in a fight with police, was charged Thursday with carrying a concealed weapon.

Police said the family did not have any food in the house. Janice, an 18-year-old daughter, said they had been denied welfare aid on a technicality.

A 16-year-old son, who reportedly provided the family's only income, was turned over to juvenile authorities. The father and son were taken into custody Wednesday afternoon following a melee in the family home. Asst. Police Chief Arvin Ziehlsdorff and other officers made the arrests.

Ziehlsdorff said the officers went to the home after reports that Duerkop had become despondent at his inability to find a job to support his six children.

Struggle Starts

Ziehlsdorff said that Duerkop reached for his pocket when asked to step outside, touching of the struggle. Officers said that other members of the family joined to help their father.

According to the assistant police chief, the 16-year-old son ran into the kitchen and picked up a .16 gauge shotgun. The weapon discharged as he knocked it from the youth's hands, Ziehlsdorff said.

Janice, was quoted by officers as saying that the family had returned to Eau Claire from Kansas City last fall and her father had been unable to find work. The family moved to Kansas City about 15 years ago. Duerkop's wife died about a year and a half ago.

Another event of unusual interest is the first annual "Good Neighbor" fair being held at the Valley Fair Shopping Center from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday. Over 600 volunteer workers representing 60 organizations will make this the largest charity bazaar ever held in the Fox Cities area.

Clark Asserts He Has Never Taken Payola

Famed Disc Jockey Claims His Case Has Been Prejudged

Washington — Disc Jockey Dick Clark swore to house investigators today that he has never taken payola.

Clark, making a long awaited appearance before a subcommittee, complained at the outset that he has been condemned before getting a chance to testify.

In a 34 page prepared statement Clark declared:

Cites Prejudgment

"Gentlemen, I feel that I have been convicted, condemned and denounced even before I have had an opportunity to tell my story.

"Further, there has been printed in the press what appears to be a prejudgment of my case."

Clark had been turned down on his requests that he be permitted to testify as the first witness at the committee's inquiry into his activities.

In swearing that he has never taken payola, the 30-year-old idol of the teenagers asserted:

"In brief, I have never agreed to play a record or have an artist perform on a radio or television show in return for a payment in cash or any other consideration."

Full Cooperation

Clark told the legislative oversight subcommittee that he had cooperated fully in investigations of his affairs and "I have given your staff complete and unlimited access to all documents, accounts, books and papers which they have requested."

Appleton's Population Up 37.6 Pct. to 46,810

County Now Over 100,000; Neenah 18,176, Up 46 Pct.; Kaukauna Reaches 10,071

BY JACK GLASNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Preliminary 1960 census figures show 46,810 people live in Appleton, a whopping 37.6 per cent rise over the 1950 census total.

Neenah showed the largest single percentage increase in the Fox Cities with a startling just-over 46 per cent, some 5,739 more people than 10 years ago—18,176.

Kaukauna hit 10,071, a near-20 per cent rise from 1950's, 8,337, and became a third class city. The change in class doubles road aid, doubles extra-territorial jurisdiction, hikes the size of the library board and sets 1,000 population as the minimum ward size.

Appleton becomes a second class city, since the dividing line is 39,000. The change in class means changes in the city's administrative structure, a change in street aid and other alterations not yet determined by City Atty. Don Jury. Jury said today that he was checking the statutes, but would not have a report until Wednesday.

Outagamie county went over the 100,000 mark by 1,700, a 24.5 per cent increase over 1950's 81,722. Winnebago county also went over 100,000, by a 7,868 total or an 18.4 increase over 1950's 91,103.

Brown county, exclusive of Green Bay, has 15,817 more residents than in 1950, or 61,386, compared to 45,579. Green Bay's total will be announced Monday.

The city of De Pere has 10,105 residents, compared to 8,146.

All the 1960 figures are preliminary ones, which may change. The enumeration has

Veto-Threatened Housing Bill Sent to Senate

Washington — A billion-dollar housing bill threatened with a presidential veto was the senate's problem today.

The house passed it yesterday, 214-163, a substantial vote still well below the two-thirds that would be needed to override a veto by President Eisenhower.

Much of the debate was on partisan lines, foreshadowing efforts to make a presidential campaign issue of housing and mortgage costs.

Republican House Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana has predicted a veto, saying the bill will never become law in its present form.

Byrnes Seeks New City Post Office

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington — Rep. John W. Byrnes today announced that he had asked the post office department to investigate the postal situation at Appleton with the view of making plans for enlargement or replacement at the main post office, and building an annex or branch station in the city's growing northside.

Association Makes Request

The congressman told Assistant Postmaster General Rollin D. Bernard that "population has more than doubled in Appleton since the present post office was built (in 1932).

In addition, the area around the city is becoming urbanized rapidly. The north side of the city has grown at perhaps the fastest rate. Mail service suffers from overcrowded conditions at the main office, heavy traffic in its vicinity and the increasing distance between it and newly developed sections of the city.

"Study of the need for action on the main building should be expanded to include the equipment for an annex station in the northside area, since this problem will remain in view of the urban spread which has taken place and continues at a fast pace," Byrnes informed Bernard.

A short time ago, Frank Gutreuter, president of the Northside Advancement association, wrote the congressman about "the serious need for better postal service" in the northside area.

He said that establishment of a new branch post office in the northside would "reduce the expense of tax and bus transportation of mail carriers and their costly waiting and travel time from downtown to outlying areas as well as reduce the expense of extra carriers who must relieve regular mailmen where they cannot complete their routes in the time allotted."

Byrnes, who had requested the post office department on previous occasions to study the situation in Appleton, says he hopes this time the department will take prompt action.

Bad Luck Haunts Man From Birth to Grave

Miami, Fla. — John Hinkle had a heart murmur in childhood.

But it didn't stop him from working in the tough coal fields of West Virginia.

In the years that followed, his luck turned even more sour.

Ten years ago his back was permanently injured in a mine cave-in.

Lived in Shanty

He moved his family to Sarasota where they lived in a shanty beside a pond — the invalid father, the mother and four children.

Then the Florida rehabilitation service said it would pay for open heart surgery at Jackson Memorial hospital in Miami.

A bacterial infection develops in only 2 per cent of such cases. Hinkle got it.

Patients who die from the delicate surgery usually go within 24 to 48 hours. Hinkle was getting along fine five days after the operation.

But he died yesterday.

And he died without knowing that his 15-year-old son Jerry had drowned Tuesday in the pond behind their house.

His oldest daughter, Barbara, almost drowned trying to save Jerry. Another son, Barthe, 8, fell into the pond and Jerry and Barbara leaped in to save him.

Jerry pushed Barthe to shore and then vanished under the water. Tex, 18, the oldest son, saved Barbara.

Nurses on Hinkle's floor at the hospital collected enough money to send Mrs. Hinkle back to Sarasota on a bus when she was told her son was dead.

She returned to Miami yesterday — anxious to see her husband again.

But John Hinkle had died — alone.

Explorer Team Reports Discovery of Biblical Cities of Sodom, Gomorrah

Amman, Jordan — A Baptist missionary-explorer south. He believes an earthquake collapsed the levee, and the sea engulfed the wicked biblical cities of Sodom and Gomorrah on the bottom of the Dead sea.

Dr. Ralph E. Baney of Kansas City, Mo., in an interview last night told of finding extensive underwater remnants of a civilization that flourished 4,000 years and then was inundated, apparently after an earthquake.

Discover Levee

He said he and his divers found a levee 15 feet wide and 8 feet high under the waters, morrah, and the neighboring head said he was giving a report of the inland sea between Jor-cities of Adama, Seboin and port of his findings to Jordan and Israel. The levee ran Bala (later called Segor) for from a southwestern point of the vices of their inhabitants, the Lisan peninsula due west Angels led Abraham's nephew, Lot, his wife and two daughters out of Sodom to the levee, he continued, in biblical times kept the salty waters of the sea from flowing back and was turned into a pillar of salt, according to the Bible story.

Baney said his expedition also found beneath the sea waters a clay viaduct 2 feet high and 3 feet wide, extending from the shore 1 1/2 miles into the sea; cisterns, some 70 feet deep and 6 feet in diameter, hewn out of rock, and small petrified forests.

Report of Findings

Baney has been exploring the sea bottom since early February with Viola Conway of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. Dean Ryther of Kansas City, Kan. The expedition head said he was giving a report of his findings to Jordan's department of antiquities and then would leave for home on Saturday.

Baney is executive director of the Christian approach mission which runs an orphanage in Bethlehem.

100 Injured in Turkish Riots

Unrest Mounts in Ankara in Spite Of Martial Law

Ankara, Turkey — Rioting against Premier Adnan Menderes spread to this capital city today in defiance of martial law.

At least 100 persons were injured as mounted police, swinging long riot sticks, charged into demonstrating students.

With tear gas, the police drove the students into the law and political science buildings of Ankara university.

About 9,000 students took part in the demonstration. Eyewitnesses told of seeing four students and a policeman killed but these reports could not be confirmed.

The demonstration began as the Ankara students massed to sing the Turkish independence anthem and to shout approval for the 10,000 Istanbul students who rioted against Menderes yesterday—some shouting "freedom" and citing the example of Korean students who toppled the Syngman Rhee regime.

Report Deaths

The Istanbul rioting also was reported to have caused deaths, but the military commander there said he received no such advices. Classes at Istanbul were suspended today.

The martial law declared yesterday to curb Istanbul's demonstrations extended to Ankara as well but failed to stop the politically minded students from speaking their piece.

The government controlled radio announced that all universities will be closed until May 29.

Authorize Smaller Down Payments on FHA Home Purchases

Washington — Smaller down payments were authorized today for people who use FHA mortgages to buy houses costing $15,000 or more.

Julian H. Zimmerman, federal housing commissioner, told a news conference the cut is being put into effect immediately. Congress gave permission for it last Sept. 20.

Zimmerman said the Eisenhower administration had not used the authority earlier because of tight money conditions. He said a recent easing of credit now holds out a promise that the lower down payments will "serve a useful purpose" in stimulating home-building.

S. Korean Cabinet Starts Law Revision

9-Man Committee Named to Draft Constitutional Changes In Setting Up Government

Seoul —(AP)— South Korea began tearing down the structure of Syngman Rhee's authoritarian state today.

The new cabinet under Acting President Huh Chung ordered the justice ministry to initiate measures immediately to void or revise undemocratic laws.

These include the national security law, local autonomy act and military government ordinances which Rhee's regime was accused of using to curb freedom of the press, assembly, speech and association.

The national assembly met briefly and named a 9-man committee to draft constitutional amendments establishing a cabinet system under which a premier elected from parliament will run the government.

The presidency will be retained but is expected to become a figurehead chief of state only.

Amendment Work

The committee went to work immediately, saying it hoped to have the amendments ready within 10 days.

No action was taken on Rhee's resignation, submitted two days ago, pending selection of a new speaker to replace Lee Ki-poong, who died in a suicide pact with his family Thursday to atone for the revolt that overthrew the

Elaborate Food For De Gaulle In New Orleans

French President To Make Three Caribbean Stops

New Orleans —(AP)— Charles de Gaulle, president of France, turns today from world politics to the lowly crayfish while Creole cooks try to convince him they have improved on French cuisine.

The comparison comes to the 68-year-old French war hero at one of those elaborate luncheons for which New Orleans is famed in this country.

A few hours later, De Gaulle catches a jet for three stops in the Caribbean before returning to Paris.

With proper modesty, hotel chefs termed today's luncheon "nothing elaborate"—perhaps in deference to the French president's simple food tastes.

Along with the crayfish, or "les crevisses dans leur" on the menu, will be pompano Pontchartrain, a tender white-fish prepared with buster crabs.

30,000 line streets

The big jet carrying De Gaulle and his party touched down at Moseley international airport. A crowd estimated by police at 500 yelled a welcome.

Later, crowds of 30,000 lined the streets on his way into the heart of the city.

Mayor DeLesseps Morrison, whose great-granduncle Ferdinand DeLesseps built the Suez canal for France a century ago, greeted De Gaulle with a brief speech in French.

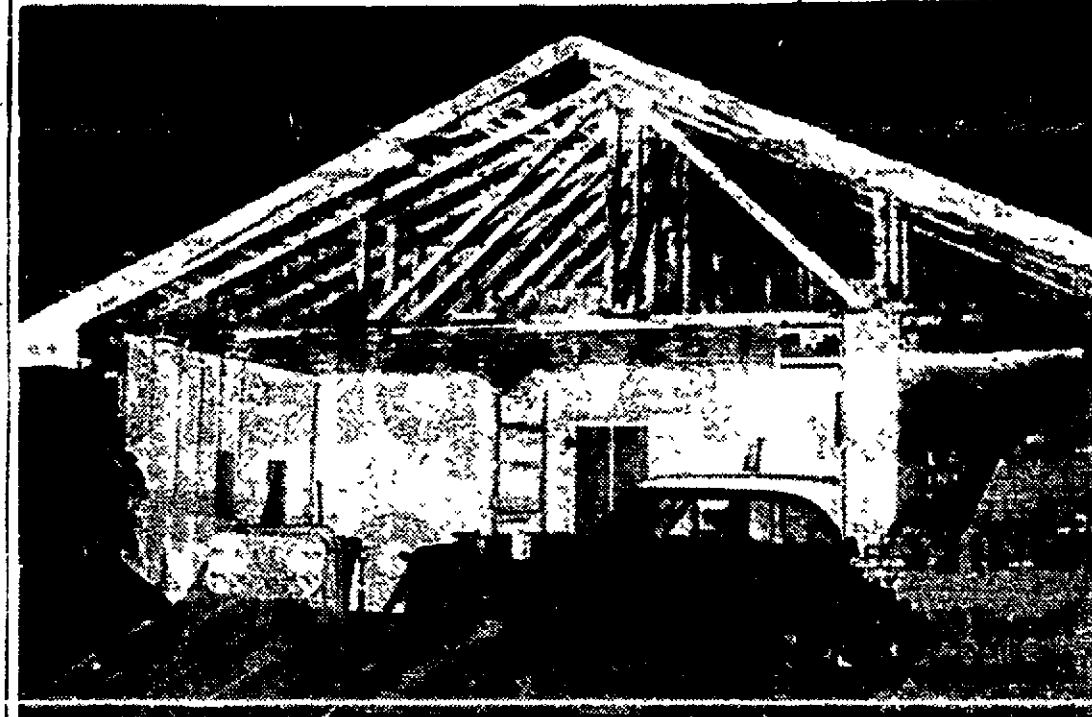

De Gaulle said he was happy to visit "nouvelle Orleans" because of the close bonds between France and the city, once the French capital of the New World.

Louisiana Gov. Earl K. Long, who attracted wide notoriety with his escapades last summer, stood at one side of De Gaulle during the military parade. Long tugged at De Gaulle's lapel, saluted as the troops passed in review and almost lighted a cigar during the playing of the national anthem, but thought better of it and didn't.

Long was a minor casualty during the night. He somehow managed to lose his automobile—or at least couldn't find it—and left Jackson square in another car.

The merger under a deal approved by directors.

The merger now will be submitted to shareholders.

Find American, Wife After 22-Day Search

Helicopter Will Attempt Rescue From Deep Colombian Jungle

Bogota, Colombia —(AP)— A helicopter today will try to rescue an American and his wife found deep in the Colombian jungles after a 22-day search.

Mark and Susan Cantrell of St. Louis, Mo., who became separated from a "lost expedition," were spotted from the air on a small rock beach near the Guayas river.

Searchers in a small military plane saw Mrs. Cantrell signalling with a white towel. Her husband with a mirror. Food and medical supplies were dropped to the stranded couple, along with a note telling them to stay where they were until rescuers arrive.

Infected Wound

Members of the expedition who straggled into the town of Puerto Rico earlier reported the Cantrells in bad shape, with Mark suffering from an infected machete wound in the knee.

They said Cantrell was carried on an improvised stretcher until the bearers fell from exhaustion. The group broke up when he asked to be left behind so as not to be a burden. Mrs. Cantrell remained with her husband.

Members of the search plane who sighted the Americans on the beach Thursday said they looked in better shape than some of the others who successfully made their way out of the jungles.

On Vacation

Cantrell, described as an oil company worker, and his wife came to Colombia for a vacation. They met another American, Robert Yates, who came here several years ago from Oregon and operates a sawmill here.

Start Campaign On Advertising Of Guarantees

FTC Publishes 7-Point Guide For Business

Washington —(AP)— The Federal Trade commission today announced a campaign to help protect the public against phony and misleading advertising of guarantees and warranties.

The FTC published a 7-point guide which tells business and the public exactly what kind of advertising in the area is legally acceptable.

Private enterprise was urged to abide by the new rules voluntarily. The commission said firms which refuse will be charged with using unfair methods of competition and deceptive practices.

Must Be Truthful

In general, the guides require that all advertising of guarantees spell out any strings which are attached. Also, if the guarantee makes an implied claim, this must be a truthful one.

For example, if a battery manufacturer advertises a "36-month guarantee" his batteries must have a normal life expectancy of at least 36 months. If a tonic is "guaranteed to grow hair or your money back," it must be capable of growing hair.

Robert T. Secrest, acting chairman of the FTC, said in a statement that the agency "constantly receives complaints from trusting purchasers who later discovered the actual guarantee was not what the sweeping and unqualified advertising statements implied."

Secrest said it isn't enough merely to describe an article as guaranteed.

"The advertisement should show clearly what is covered by the guarantee, who stands back of it, how it will be honored and any limitations or conditions."

Salt Lake City Mayor Seeks Convention Seat

Salt Lake City —(AP)— Supporters of maverick Republican J. Bracken Lee, now Salt Lake City's mayor, have begun a campaign to win him a seat as a Utah delegate to the GOP national convention.

Lee, who calls himself an independent, acknowledged that the effort was being made. He said he wants to go so he can fight for Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) as the party's presidential nominee.

Utah Republicans elect their national convention delegates tomorrow, in a meeting here. They read Lee out of the party in 1956, when he tried for a third term as governor. He ran as an independent anyway but lost to Republican George D. Clyde.

Negro Slapping White Girl Nearly Sets Off Race Riot at Miami

20 Carloads of Police Disperse Crowd of 200, Two Shots Fired

Miami, Fla. —(AP)— A husky Negro who slapped a white girl's face after their cars brushed bumpers was in jail in Miami, Fla., today charged with nearly touching off a race riot.

More than 20 carloads of police armed with riot guns and tear gas rushed to the scene, where white and Negro neighborhoods meet, to disperse a crowd of 200 persons.

Police said the 200-pound Negro, Morgan King, 25, slapped the face of Theresa Mahoney, 19, fought with her escort and then tried to flee when two unidentified white men leaped from another car and fired two shots at him. The white men sped off. Others in the crowd grabbed King.

Four Charges

King was charged with inciting a riot, reckless driving, vagrancy and aggravated assault.

A 63-year-old white minister campaigning against segregation on a Negro college campus at Marshall, Texas, was picked up and carried bodily to jail after he laid down on the grass to avoid accepting a warrant. He is the Rev. Ashton Jones of Los Angeles who travels the nation in a bus on which placards depict a white and a black hand clasped together.

In Nashville, Tenn., Charles Edward Wright, an 18-year-old Negro, was arrested for breach of peace on a charge by a 16-year-old white girl that he tried to date her. Three Negro students at Fisk university said four overlaid white men threatened them when they sought and were refused service at a bus terminal lunch room.

Brief Sit-In

There was no trouble in Chattanooga, Tenn., where 15 Negro students staged a brief sit-in at an F. W. Woolworth lunch counter. Street fighting had followed Negro demonstrations there several weeks ago.

A 4-four cross was burned on the lawn of a Negro family's home in a predominantly white Indianapolis, Ind., neighborhood. "I was surprised. I didn't know what to think," said Joseph M. Howard of the first incident, since his family moved into the home in January.

League to Study Economic Policies

St. Louis —(AP)— The League of Women Voters has approved an intensive study of United States economic policies for its agenda in 1960-62.

The league takes stands on various legislation after a year or more of study. Proposals to study farm policies and disarmament were voted down Thursday at the national convention attended by some 1,400 delegates.

One of the delegates said rejection of the disarmament item doesn't mean the league is against disarmament, only that the matter will not receive intensive study.

The convention ends today with election of officers.

Increased Diversion From Lake Michigan Will Cut Cargo Loads

Massena, N.Y. —(AP)— Increased diversion from Lake Michigan by Chicago will result in smaller cargoes for Great Lakes freighters, says a spokesman for lake carriers.

Adm. Lyndon Spencer, retired, of Hudson, Ohio, president of the Great Lakes Carriers association, which represents 309 vessels, testified Thursday at a hearing on a legal dispute over use of Lake Michigan water.

Chicago is asking to increase its diversion to 646,000 gallons of lake water a day for sanitary purposes. Six states, including Ohio, are seeking to compel Chicago to treat water and return it to Lake Michigan instead of diverting it into the Illinois waterway.

Resume Search for Baby Reported Abandoned With Boys in Georgia

Hahira, Ga. —(AP)— Search resumed today for an infant reported to have been seen with two little boys found abandoned in a briar patch not far from busy U. S. Highway 41 near this small south Georgia town.

The latest development in the strange case sent police and more than 100 persons tramping through swamps and woods half a mile north of Hahira Thursday night, however, no trace of a baby was found in the thick undergrowth.

The report of an infant came from John Ruth, a Negro yard man who said he was about 10 feet from the children Tuesday afternoon and that the older boy was carrying a baby.

Ruth explained he didn't say anything about it at the time because he thought their parents were fishing nearby.

Found Crying

The boys were found dirty, hungry and crying in the briar patch Wednesday night by Mrs. Grady Darby after she heard whimpering noises near her home.

The older boy identified himself as Tommy, 4, and his brother as Johnny, 2.

Tommy kept repeating, "There's no need to snatch 'Johnny baby' but investi-these little boys up and place them in a foster home at this whether he was referring to time," he said.

GOP Optimistic at District 2 Caucus

Tewes Tapped in Congress Race; 576 Attend Meeting

Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Fort Atkinson — The Republican state campaign for 1960 started under optimistic circumstances Wednesday night as the largest district party convention on record was held here to examine candidates for the state Republican ticket and to endorse an aspirant for the district congressional seat.

A part of the reason for the fact that an unprecedented 576 party workers rallied here was the spirited contest for the organization's blessing for the nomination for district congressman.

Donald Tewes, Waukesha, easily bested Ivan Kindschi of rural Madison. Tewes is a former congressman who will carry the party banner against Rep. Robert Kastner, Watertown Democrat, who won a surprise victory in 1958.

Postpones Announcement
Party men felt that an attendance three of four times the usual size meant something for the outlook for the GOP, defeated in the last election for the first time in a generation.

The district caucus left the crucial question of the Republican gubernatorial nomination unchanged. Philip Kuehn, Milwaukee and Jack Olson, Wisconsin Dells, turned up to make routine campaign speeches, without particular response.

Most delegates wondered why Ray Dittmore, a Milwaukee businessman who had intended to announce his widely known ambitions to become governor, failed to do so.

Dittmore sent a wire saying that he was tied up in Washington on a naval contract and had to postpone his announcement until tomorrow. He is a Milwaukee electronics contractor. He left the impression that if he gets the contract he wants he will waive his political ambitions in the interest of national defense.

"Positive Candidate"
The volume of applause suggested that Kuehn remains the favorite for the endorsement of the Milwaukee state Republican delegate convention next month.

Contrary to rumors, nobody asked Olson whether he would retire from the nomination contest if he fails to pass muster at the convention. Kuehn has said he will withdraw if he doesn't get the convention blessing.

Kuehn told the party workers that he believes Wisconsin voters want a "positive candidate" rather than one "who is all things to all people."

Olson, who has been heckling Kuehn as the favorite of the party machine, said he is the man who can win.

But he warned that "if the

Other developments of state-wide interest:
1. A message from Warren P. Knowles, New Richmond, former lieutenant governor, indicated that he wants to run again for his former office, and the applause of the convention indicated that he can have another party nomination.

2. The presence of George Greisch, Appleton and George Thompson, La Crosse showed that the district attorneys of Outagamie and La Crosse counties, respectively, will make a serious fight for the party convention endorsement and the party nomination for attorney general in the September primary.

3. State party chairman Claude Jasper, Madison, again attacked, Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds, Green Bay, for ignoring Republican complaints about illegal advertising in the recent Democratic presidential campaign. The district caucus adopted, without discussion a demand for the restoration of the so-called Catlin law, repealed by the Democrats last year, making illegal the use of labor union dues money for political purposes.

GOP Caucus Demands Stand On Sales Tax

Kuehn-Olson Battle Becoming More Bitter

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Elkhorn — The Republican district convention Thursday night virtually turned into a sales tax rally as local politicians of the minority party of the state demanded to know how gubernatorial aspirants stand on the principal issue in current state politics.

Philip Kuehn, Milwaukee, seemed to have the better of it among the district organization workers as he gave a qualified answer in favor of a new system of taxation for the state, while Jack Olson, Wisconsin Dells, declined to take a position.

Kuehn repeated what he said when he started his campaign for the Republican nomination — that he wants the sales tax as a means of reducing property tax burdens. Olson said in effect that he will follow the lead of Republicans in the legislature, who in turn will be guided by Democratic Gov. Nelson's current tax study commission.

Kuehn-Olson Battle
Republican state party officers were encouraged when the second of a series of 10 district rallies showed an unusually high attendance. About 350 delegates, the most in recent years, crowded the ancient courthouse here to cheer promises that the GOP will regain its power in the state election this year.

District party workers passed up a choice between three announced candidates for the congressional nomination in a district now represented by Democrat Gerald Flynn, Racine, the first representative of his party in two generations, who won a close election two years ago and is running again.

Center of interest was the continuing bout between Olson and Kuehn, which is becoming increasingly bitter.

Olson was asked last night a question he will be asked at succeeding district meetings—whether he will abide by the endorsement decision of the Republican state convention next month.

Puzzle Over Dittmore
He said he wants the endorsement, but he fell short of answering whether he will support another candidate if he loses it.

Kuehn said briefly that he will support the convention choice.

But Olson emphasized that he has never yet said that he will continue to run in spite of the convention blessing going to another.

Meanwhile the district politicians continued to puzzle about the plans of Ray Dittmore, a Milwaukee businessman who has been putting out press releases about his own gubernatorial ambitions.

But he is also wiring local party rallies that he is not yet ready to announce them at this time.

On the sensitive question of a sales tax, Kuehn said he would support a "realistic and sensible sales tax program for the benefit of property taxpayers."

Olson said he wants more evidence on the attitude of legislators and the people, but promised that if the people want a change in fundamental state tax policy he will join their wish.

A Monroe businessman impatiently interrupted the proceedings to talk about the need for a better tax climate for Wisconsin business, and got more applause than any office-seeker who turned up during the evening.

In their formal campaign pitches Kuehn repeated his claim that the party needs a "positive candidate and program" while Olson said again that he can appeal "to all classes" and that Kuehn cannot.

State GOP chairman Claude Jasper maintained that the party didn't lose the election in 1958. "We defaulted," he said.

He added that routine campaign methods won't do this year. "We've got to crusade because we're fighting a crusading group," he said of the state Democratic administration.

Wisconsin's Primary Law

People across the nation, watching the campaign by Sens. Kennedy and Humphrey during the past several weeks, and noting the outcome of the vote in Wisconsin, have found it difficult to put any meaning into the results because of Wisconsin's open primary law. The Wisconsin law permits voters to cast their ballot in either the Republican or the Democratic primary. Most states require voters to register with one party or the other. In many states it is possible for the voter to change his allegiance from one party to another merely by calling for the ballot he wants at the polls. But if he makes the change, it is noted on the record and it is known how many voters left one party for the other and who they were.

In Wisconsin, however, there is no record by parties and thus a primary becomes an open contest in which voters may cross over freely. For those reasons the results often are puzzling. Since the Wisconsin primary, some Humphrey enthusiasts have claimed that the Minnesota senator won a majority of the Democratic votes in Wisconsin but lost in most districts to Kennedy because Republicans had voted for the Massachusetts senator. The implication is that such crossovers are temporary visitors to the Democratic column and may be expected to go back to the Republican column in November.

On the other hand, many Democrats are jubilantly declaring that the Wisconsin Democratic party grew up to its present size because of the fine work the Democrats have been doing in government. They would have their listeners believe that the crossovers generally are independent voters who suddenly have become practicing Democrats and can be expected to remain Democrats at least through November.

There are many other inconsistencies. In fact almost any person can make almost anything he wants to out of the results of the Wisconsin primary. What to do about it is a difficult question.

During the campaign both Sens. Kennedy and Humphrey indicated they were happy to take advantage of the opportunity given them in Wisconsin to get their stories before the public. Wisconsin offered them a forum in which to speak and provided them with national publicity. But after the votes were cast and counted, no one could be real sure of their meaning.

Sen. Proxmire, who favors a national primary, thus eliminating the national conventions, is strongly in favor of continuing the Wisconsin primary regardless of what other states may do. He thinks the Wisconsin primary gives people the right to vote and thus express themselves on the choice of candidates for president. Furthermore, Sen. Proxmire defends the right of voters to cross over as they do in Wisconsin's open primary. He says "if a Republican wants to exercise his franchise by voting in the Democratic primary, that's all right and, incidentally, I think the overwhelming majority of our people don't consider themselves as rock-ribbed Republicans or rock-ribbed Democrats."

What the senator says is quite true but the purpose of an election is to find out what the people want. That is impossible to determine from a Wisconsin primary as the discussion since clearly shows. The only thing decided for certain in Wisconsin is the names of the men elected to go to the national nominating conventions.

Let's Welcome the Foxes

Despite, or perhaps because of, their wobbly start in 1960 Three-I league play, the Fox Cities Foxes baseball team is deserving of enthusiastic fan support when it opens the home season Saturday night. It's natural, and easier, to boost a winner. But the loser probably needs it more.

This is the third season for Class B Three-I league baseball here and all have been good for the Fox Cities. Some of the reasons have been mentioned here before but they bear repeating.

Fans from inside and outside the area, players, umpires and visiting baseball officials, have spent money here boosting our economy. A number of area residents get part-time employment from the baseball club.

The 72-game home schedule provides wholesome sports entertainment at close range. The 2-hour jaunt to Milwaukee County Stadium still can be undertaken, occasionally. But, many Fox Cities fans have found that, on the whole, Class B ball isn't too far below major league caliber. The number of former Three-I players in and near the big leagues testifies to that.

Dr. Upton's Proposition

When Chairman Upton of the Citizens Revenue Study Commission asked Madison state government correspondents to consent to a news "moratorium" on the deliberations of his group, he remarked that they might be "aghast at my arrogance, sagacity or naivete."

We are not going to indulge in fancy adjectives to describe his proposal — properly and unhesitatingly declined by the press representatives — except to say that it was not worthy of a man of his stature and experience in business, professional and political life.

There is perhaps no more interesting or significant continuing news story in Madison today than the diligent work of the Upton commission in examining the problems of Wisconsin state and local government revenues, and the challenge for a complete revision of our taxation structure.

To suggest that the newspapers waive this developing story is equivalent to suggesting that they abdicate their most important responsibilities and obligations.

Like many others, the chairman of this group is concerned, he says, because of the hazards of piecemeal reporting and the handicaps of free expression when reporters are present and the inhibitions upon frank and free discussion and comment

Honor for a Hero

As befits a war hero of some renown, Americans paused a few days ago to mark the birthday anniversary of Major Von Luckner III.

But this was something more than just an ordinary birthday observance, for the major is something more than an ordinary hero. The major is a German shepherd dog, the last surviving member of the U. S. Marines' famed K-9 corps and, as such, is one of a disappearing legion.

The major is 19 years old. His remaining years on earth are numbered, as are the years of all the dogs who were trained and served in those turbulent war years.

Now nearly blind, growing deaf and wearing a steel plate in his head, Major Von Luckner no longer is the snarling, whip-quick fighter who was credited with Several youngsters who have played for the Foxes are on the verge of making the majors. The term "Fox Cities" (which the ball club has helped promote) has received national publicity as sports writers report these boys' records.

These reasons for backing the Foxes have been selfish ones. An unselfish one is the importance of pro baseball to the youngsters of our community. Count the number of children at Goodland field during one of your trips there this summer and you'll see how much this wholesome activity means to them.

The 1960 Foxes showed themselves to be a clean-cut group of young men at last week's civic banquet in their behalf. A good percentage of them are college men. They've had winning records in the lower minors and their early troubles this season may be forgotten come the stretch run for the Three-I bunting.

Slow starters often are fast finishers. Let's welcome the Foxes here, both by our support at the gate, and when we meet them on the street.

that may be felt as a result of intensive press coverage.

While these may appear to be handicaps to some of the commission members, we would remind them that they are problems that confront all public officials, of whatever rank, that they are inherent in a democratic society, and that they are compensated for by fuller public appreciation and understanding.

Dr. Upton may not recall — or at least temporarily overlooked — the fact that his is a public agency too, that it is operating with tax funds, that it has employed state officers as technical workers, that it was commissioned by the legislature by a specific act, and that it is working as an agent of the governor.

Without intending to embarrass the commission chairman, it is relevant to note in passing that it was Gov. Nelson who was the author of the 1959 state freedom of information act which probably is one of the most restrictive in the free world with respect to outlawing the suppression of news and public information.

In all good spirit, moreover, we would suggest that the "inhibitions" cited are probably less than these members fear. There are citizens working on school boards and library boards and many other public bodies who are not professional politicians who manage admirably.

saving the lives of at least nine marine combat men. He lives out his last years in the peaceful surroundings of a quiet Los Angeles, Calif., suburb.

And, perhaps, as he dozes in the sun, he dreams of battles gone before . . . of how he won a silver star and a purple heart. Perhaps his nostrils burn again with the bitter-sweet smell of cordite and powder. And, as he dreams, the hair on the back of his neck may bristle as it did when he prowled the jungles and beaches of the South Pacific.

We wish Major Von Luckner a very happy birthday. We are grateful for what he has done for us. And we are sad, too, for knowing that when the major and those few remaining others of his era die, a part of a great and glorious military effort will die with them.

Menasha Man Has Questions for Representatives in Legislature

Editor, Post-Crescent:

For The first time since the early 1930's, Wisconsin will determine among other things, whether to retain a Democratic governor. Certainly a serious appraisal of this administration before the spring legislative season is completed is very difficult, if not impossible. There are, it seems to me too many irons still in the fire.

Only one definite, even though vague impression can be made at this time. We have had under Gov. Gaylord Nelson an administration which is willing and ready to examine old concepts and to seek out new ones, without regard for partisan advantage. Three facts, among others, support this statement:

1. Gov. Nelson, with the normal minimum of appointments available, has chosen persons with almost complete lack of consideration for party affiliation.

2. Largely through the efforts of Gov. Nelson a "Blue-Ribbon" committee is now studying revision of the whole tax structure in Wisconsin.

3. On the encouragement of Gov. Nelson, we now have a central administrative office for all state purchases. It was of some interest, therefore, to read in the April 22nd edition of your paper of the reaction by the Republican "Truth" squad to Gov. Nelson's program.

A comprehensive summation of their "truth" policy would reveal the following facts:

1. The people are worried about the tax problem.

a) There was no problem before Nelson.

2. The state purchasing agency is extravagantly wasteful.

a) There was no such agency before Nelson.

3. (By inference) The solution to the tax problem is a state sales tax. (A program suggested by Republicans for several years despite the fact that "there was no problem before the Democrats and Nelson came to office.)

It would seem to me there could be a little more "truth" from the "Truth" squad. To wit:

Assemblyman Arnold Cane: "The people are worried about taxes." Certainly. But, despite the fact that each successive administration has had increasingly high budgets, what legislative corrections has Mr.

Cane supported? Answer: The "on again-off again surtax" and transfer of funds from one fund to another to cover "anticipated" deficits.

State Sen. Wm. Draheim — "The purchasing agency is wasteful." Possibly. But, despite personal support of the program originally, what legislative action has Mr. Draheim proposed to make a good idea more reasonably workable. Answer: Abolish the agency. (No other solution.)

Despite the vagaries of public sentiment, it would not seem unreasonable to expect consistency, though not political conformity, from our elected representatives.

I would ask these questions of Messrs. Cane and Draheim:

1. Why haven't you actively worked for passage of corrective tax measures during the Republican period of control, in view of mounting budgetary troubles?

2. Accepting that the state purchasing agency is a good idea, why haven't you worked in the legislature to make the program less wasteful? Or, do you intend to do so in this spring session?

There remains, of course, but one question to be examined — a state sales tax.

Why, Messrs. Cane and Draheim, have you publicly and privately supported a 3 per cent straight across the board sales tax?

Granted, from a state point of view the program may be sound. It would possibly bring in, enough money to meet needs. But, can your constituents afford the program?

Conceivably, either of you may propose to make certain exemptions. If so, where and how far?

I ask these questions not to embarrass our representatives, but, to get a little more "truth" from the Neenah-Menasha members of the "Truth" squad. Certainly, it seems reasonable that the people of Neenah and Menasha, whose representa-

Democratic Convention News

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of April 28, 1860.

The debates were very animated on the third day of the National Democratic convention at Charleston, S. C., which opened April 23.

Considerable feeling was engendered and it is well understood that some kind of a bargain has been concluded between the supporters of Judge Douglas of Illinois and Sen. Hunter (the logician of the U. S. Senate) of Virginia.

A test vote, the only noticeable event of the third day's proceedings, was had upon the resolution requiring state delegations to vote as a unit. The measure was defeated by a two-thirds vote, and is considered indicative of the nomination of Stephen A. Douglas.

Still, it is by no means certain from the fact that there is a multitude of candidates and some opposed to Douglas may have voted for the Douglas measure.

On the fourth day, a series of resolutions were presented in favor of the fugitive slave law, protection of slavery in the territories and referred to the platform committee.

Chairman Upton's Tax Proposal Was Baffling

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Puzzle of the fortnight in this politically conscious capital city is what Chairman Miller Upton of the Citizens Revenue Commission thought he was doing when he offered his "bomb-shell" personal tax reform proposal to the members of the commission at its last meeting.

Some of the commission members were shocked; some were annoyed; others were perplexed.

There is a tendency in some quarters to believe that the commission chairman was shrewdly dramatizing, at a time when there is increasingly loud heckling about lack of progress in its task, that any concrete tax revision "package" will be unpopular and unwelcome in its impact.

Dr. Upton is entitled to the benefit of the doubt, beyond question.

There also is the possibility, it has been suggested, that this technician in the field of finance has worked out to his own satisfaction a program of tax reform — although why he should have kept it under wraps and then presented it so abruptly is a good question.

Finally, it seems to this corner at least, that Dr. Upton may not have been paying much attention to what has been going on, especially among the sub-committees or working groups chosen by himself.

THE SURPRISE

The commission had held 14 laborious meetings. Its sub-committees had held about 40 hard-working sessions. When Upton brought out his own plan embodying several revolutionary suggestions that never had been studied, or even mentioned, at any previous hearings or discussions the effect was to put it back where it started — almost as if it had been doing nothing whatever for the last year.

The sub-committees had proceeded on the assumption that the individual income tax on a progressive basis would be retained, although stabilized, and perhaps made a little less progressive through a flattening of the rate schedules. Upton brought in a plan for a flat income tax rate, which has not been seriously proposed in this state for 40 years.

The sub-committees had proceeded on the tacit assumption that the corporation income tax should not be increased (even the CIO unions don't want that) but that it couldn't be done away with either (even the Wisconsin Manufacturers association hasn't proposed that.) Dr. Upton proposed doing away with it.

There had been a good deal of talk about a better distribution of shared taxes, without a conclusion. Upton proposed doing away with local shares of state income taxes altogether, and substituting a local income tax program. And so it went. Perhaps the most far-reaching program of tax change ever seriously proposed in a public forum in this state, but not previously even hinted in the long studies of the commission were brought abruptly into the group's deliberations by its chairman. Small wonder that it was referred to by one incredulous member as a "bomb-shell."

PORTENT

The revenue study commission is in session again as this report reaches print. There is a chance that it will pull itself together and make an effort to come to agreement on a basic program of tax revision, although it seems unlikely.

Aside from the merit of Chairman Upton's specific proposals — which will require extensive examination by fair-minded critics — their immediate significance probably lies in the fact that the leader of this "blue ribbon" investigative body has no confidence in its directions thus far.

It has been clear from the start of the commission's work — during the months that the chairman was silent and even refrained from voting on minor questions — that its choice on a new revenue scheme would be a boosting of income tax rates, on the one hand, or the adoption of a sales tax, on the other.

His own proposal, which must be considered as a serious one in the absence of proof to the contrary, clearly, repudiates both alternatives.

Study Shows Monkeys Learn To Avoid Ulcers

From The San Diego Union

Dr. Harry F. Harlow of the University of Wisconsin has found that baby monkeys are far ahead of human babies in learning capacity during the first year of life. The monkey babies, he says, are more mature at birth and develop about four times as fast. During that period, it seems, they make monkeys out of human beings.

However, eventually the human baby learns to talk. That's when the monkey falls back in the race.

From that point forward, the human beings move swiftly through such stages as television, telephones, rock and roll, drag racing and the like. Finally they settle down to raising families of their own, getting ulcers and paying taxes, although some people don't get ulcers and others evade their taxes.

Meantime, the monkeys haven't learned much of anything since back there where the human beings learned to talk. The monkeys just don't do much of anything but eat bananas and play on the swings and not worry about anything.

That shows how much smarter human beings are.

'Good, Bad Guys' Among Russians, Veteran Recalls; Mongols Feared

BY CHARLES HOUSE

The average Russian fellow isn't much different from the average American fellow. There are "good guys" and "bad guys" in Russia just as there are everywhere.

That is the opinion of Amelio Palluconi, a former U. S. Army paratrooper who lived with Russian officers and enlisted men for 18 months during World War II. Palluconi is now a teacher at Iron Mountain, Mich.

In a recent conversation with the former army major at Eagle River, he told this reporter that people are the same everywhere, aside from doctrines and theories and beliefs.

"The average Russian soldier is a pretty good Joe," said Palluconi who had ample opportunity to observe the best and the worst in them.

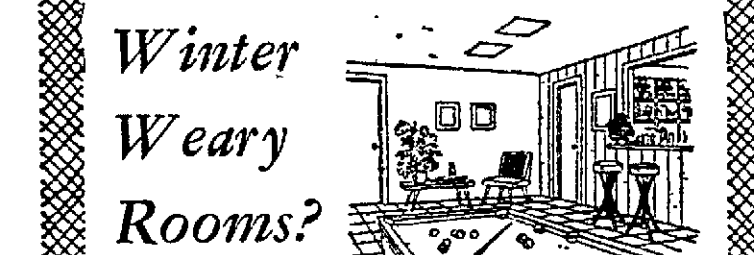

"But," he added, "the Mongols who were interspersed in segments of the Russian army were like animals. Cold blooded murder didn't seem to bother them at all. I had the feeling they'd just as soon kill you as look at you and I saw them murder people on the spur of a moment."

Palluconi, 45, was the commanding officer of Co. C, 505th Regiment, 82nd Airborne Infantry division. Following a wind-tossed jump into Sicily in July of 1943, Palluconi was captured by the Goering luftwaffe, German troops who were specially trained to combat allied paratroopers.

The Germans moved their captives to Capua, Italy and then to the Polish Corridor.

We Have The Best All-at-the-ear Hearing Aid Sonotone Ever Made

If you have a hearing problem, new or old, we invite you to learn about this totally new hearing aid at your local Sonotone office. Incredibly small and light, it is worn entirely at the ear, with or without eyeglasses. It has five times more power sensitivity than the previous smallest Sonotone.

We don't need to tell you here about its many features—you know any hearing aid offered to the public by Sonotone would have all the latest scientific advantages.

We would like to point out, however, that never before have all of its advantages (including our exclusive Automatic Volume Control) been available in a hearing aid so small or so powerful. It's the result of a 30-year search by the Sonotone laboratories for a hearing aid to provide such benefits.

Seemed Generous

"It was my feeling that we were being held to quarters for our own safety while the fighting was going on," Palluconi said.

"They seemed generous. They shared fairly with us, but they didn't have much to eat—just black bread and fish, and sometimes a little ersatz coffee. But they even shared their cigarettes with us."

Palluconi, who speaks several languages, managed to get on fairly well in conversation with the Russians. One enlisted man known to Palluconi only as Dmitri, often came to his box car quarters to talk with him, and to bring him little presents of food and cigarettes.

"Sometimes we would talk all night long. Dmitri was very interested in the United States, but he must have been led to believe that we had designs upon his country because he frequently asked if it was our intention to defeat Germany and then march upon Russia."

Mongols Brutal

Most of the Russian soldiers were pleasant fellows, Palluconi thought, though he greatly feared the brutality of the Mongols, descendants of the hordes of Genghis Khan.

"These fellows were crude and cruel and they wore long, droopy mustaches," he said. "In one town, Wugarten, Germany, they cleaned out all German males from 16 to 60 years old, and then they visited the women. All night long we could hear screams. The German men were taken to Russia and many of the women were simply murdered after suffering terrible brutality. I believe most of the rapine was done by the Mongols who seemed to have some special status with the Russians, and seemed also to be generally undisciplined."

The Russians often joked with the Americans, and found much mirth in the fact that their own troops were outdistancing the Americans in the march upon Berlin.

Funny Joke

They would say "American" and then indicate tiny hops with their hands, then they would say Russia and show great areas in hand movements. Then they would grin, Palluconi said.

But he chided them, too, and showed them that they couldn't make their advances without the American equipment which they had under lend-lease.

"The Russian is not stupid. It is a mistake to think he is. Of course, there are the yokels and the ignorant ones, but they aren't much different from our own hillbillies," he said.

Palluconi found that the American sense of humor was confusing. On one occasion

Whitewater Choir Performs at AHS

The 60-Voice Concert choir of Wisconsin State college, Whitewater, sang for Appleton High school students Wednesday afternoon. The choir, directed by Raymond E. Light, is on its annual spring tour.

Mary Hase, soprano, was soloist for the Appalachian carol "I Wonder As I Wander." In the Negro spiritual, "Set Down Servant" Linda Wyss, contralto, and Joe Monday, baritone, sang incidental solos.

The choir sang "Let Us Rejoice" by Tschernokoff-Howorth, "O Magnum Mysterium" by Tomas Luis da Victoria, "Exultate Deo" by Giovanni P. da Palestrina, "The Last Words of David" by Randall Thompson, "A Jubilant Song" by Norman Dello Joio, "She Walks in Beauty" by David Foltz, "Old Joe Has Gone Fishing" by Benjamin Britten and "Choral Scherzos" by Gail Kubik which includes such tunes as "Oh, dear! What can the matter be?" and "Polly-Wolly-Doodle."

Seymour Girl Among First Entrants in Green Bay Festival

The first entries for the Northeastern Wisconsin Music festival have been filed by two baton contestants, Miss Cheryl Mueller, 13, of 438 Foote street, Seymour, and Miss Linda Chickowski, 12, Sheboygan.

The festival, a preliminary to the Chicagoland Music festival, will be June 22 in Green Bay. Winners of the contests will be eligible to enter the Chicagoland Music festival later in the summer.

All entries must be on file in the Green Bay park and recreation department office by 5 p.m., June 1. A $1 entry fee is required of vocal solo, popular vocal, instrumental solo and baton entrants. A $10 fee is required of accordion and band entries. There are no fees for choral or concert band entries. Fees must accompany the entry blank.

When he was in charge of feeding the allies within the Russian forces, he jokingly included on his menu some high-sounding European names for foods served.

Looked Suspect

"It was enough to make the Russian commander angry enough to want me both disciplined and investigated," Palluconi said. "He thought my knowledge of foreign words made me suspect and it was only with great difficulty that the ranking American officer, a colonel, convinced him that I was a loyal and dedicated ally. I didn't make that joke any more. I kept thinking about Siberia," Palluconi recalled.

It was difficult for the Russian to believe that Palluconi owned an automobile back home. "Capitalist?" they would ask, and he assured them that he was nothing more than an average citizen. They simply couldn't believe it, he said.

Palluconi observed no prejudices among the Russians. If their eyes were slanted or their skin yellow, it made no difference. All were equal, he thought, and the lower classes had a strong feeling of equality, even with officers.

Diet Astonishing

The Russian's table manners were good—equal to our own, Palluconi said, but their diet was sometimes shocking to him. They especially liked greases and readily consumed great quantities of lard—even to putting it on bread to a thickness of several inches before eating it with relish.

Generally they seemed to be proud people and had the strong Oriental urge to try to "save face," Palluconi said, and this made the Russian somewhat sensitive.

They held their cigarettes between the thumb and the forefinger with their palm upwards when they smoke, Palluconi noted, but except for this odd difference, most Russian soldiers he met and knew were not very much different from the average American GI.

Prison life with the Germans and a restricted life with the Russians along with a slim diet was enough to reduce Palluconi's weight from his normal 175 pounds to only 110, but after he was put aboard ship to freedom and home, then in Milwaukee, he gained 40 pounds in a month.

But Palluconi's belief is like a philosophy: People are the same.

thankful there were no deaths."

Most of the damage here was from roofs torn from buildings and homes by the twister, which apparently passed over at rooftop level. Two homes were destroyed and the trailers in a trailer court overturned.

In the tiny farm community of Pocasset, 50 miles southwest of here, two homes were flattened by a tornado and two others heavily damaged.

"That's an awful looking cloud," Mrs. C. F. Norvell commented to her husband as they ducked into a storm cellar. "Do you suppose the house will be here when we come out?"

House Gone

It wasn't. The Norvell's home, their dairy barn and work shop were splintered by the twister.

Haskell Shipp and his wife Mildred, both 48, were slightly injured when the storm damaged their home at Pocasset.

At Tuttle, 10 miles northeast of Pocasset, a twister clipped a side off the high school gym, wrecked a cotton gin, a school bus garage and three houses.

Mrs. Lizzie Baughman was the only injured person reported in Tuttle. Ironically, the U.S. weather bureau bore the initial impact of the storm here. The last message transmitted over its teletype printer told the story: "Severe hail and damaging winds are moving across Oklahoma City at present."

The rest was silence. The weather bureau wire was dead. Wind and hail shattered windows at the bureau and the buildings at Will Rogers airport.

Terrific Winds

John Hamilton, chief of the weather bureau here, said "even aloft the tornado would cause winds of 100 miles an hour or more."

The tornado winds lifted the roofs from the Hillcrest country club house and a fire station in southwest Oklahoma City. Windows were shattered, homes unroofed and big signs twisted by the wind and golfball sized hailstones. Countless cars were stranded in suddenly flooded streets during a torrential rain.

Most of the 13 persons hospitalized here were treated for cuts and bruises. Fifteen others were treated and released.

Chessman Having Final Talk With Two Attorneys

San Quentin, Calif. —(AP) Caryl Chessman prepared for a "final" talk with two of his attorneys today on what more can be done to prevent his execution in the gas chamber, scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday.

The attorneys, A. L. Wirin and Rosalie Asher, got nowhere with a new plea to Gov. Edmund G. Brown in Sacramento Thursday.

They will meet with Chessman at 1 p.m. today.

Brown told them that he stood firm on his statement of last Tuesday — that he is powerless to act unless there is some unexpected development of a critical nature. None is in sight.

Nevertheless, Wirin told reporters "we are confident that when all the chips are down the governor will do the same thing that he did last time."

The last time was Feb. 19, when Brown granted Chessman a 60-day reprieve.

The governor said nothing to give him that impression, Wirin admitted. Plans for the execution went ahead.

added, "I feel certain that there is no aspect of my professional and business activities which had not been thoroughly explored by your staff investigators. I point this out only because I want to make it clear that I have nothing to conceal."

Tracing his television and radio background and explaining his successful TV career which has won him a following of tens of thousands of teenagers for his two nationally televised disc jockey shows, Clark said:

"I seek to provide wholesome recreational outlets for these youngsters whom I think I know and understand."

Telling of his daily network show on the American Broadcasting company, Clark declared:

Play Records

"On this program, I play records and interview recording stars, the recording stars perform and teenagers dance."

Clark also discussed at length his outside interests — a major subject of the committee's inquiry.

Clark at one time was reported to have had an interest in 17 record and music companies in addition to his nationally televised (ABC) weekday American Bandstand and Saturday night before disc jockey shows.

He said that in making his outside investments he followed "normal business practices under the ground rules that then existed."

Clark then declared: "As your investigators are aware, I have recently completely divested myself of all interests in the music publishing, record manufacturing, record pressing and record distribution fields."

He cited the uncertain future of television performers in explaining his reasons for outside investments.

Tests to Shift To New Titan

Cape Canaveral, Fla. —(AP) The air force has successfully fired the last of its limited range Titan missiles and now shifts to tests on a more advanced model of the intercontinental range weapon.

The last of the "C" series Titans flew more than 3,000 miles down the Atlantic missile range Thursday. The air force announced the 98-foot missile achieved all major test objectives and dropped a dummy nose cone in the intended impact area. It was the ninth successful flight in 14 Titan launches.

Testing now will concentrate on the "G" series Titan, which covers a range of 5,000 miles or more and carries a tactical-type nose cone. The first of 14 Titan squadrons, each with 10 missiles, is scheduled to be operational in June, 1961, at Vandenberg air force base, Calif.

Hard Fight Ahead, Kuehn Group Writes

Appeal Sent Out by Green Bay Chairman Of Campaign Unit

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The task of driving the Democratic state administration out of office will not be an easy one this year, a campaign committee representing Philip G. Kuehn, Republican gubernatorial aspirant, told prospective Republican state convention delegates today.

Colburn Cherney of Green Bay, chairman of the Kuehn for governor committee, addressed an appeal for support of Kuehn to several thousands of delegates who will take part in the endorsement of a state Republican ticket at the Milwaukee convention next month.

Kuehn faces one and probably two competitors for the Republican gubernatorial nomination and the right to face Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

"We must have a candidate who has the energy, the ability and the will to devote all of his time and talent toward regaining control of the state administration next fall," the local party leaders were told in the Cherney letter.

Among the vice chairmen of the Kuehn campaign group listed are John P. Gofrin of Green Bay, John N. Kramer of Fennimore, James Kress of Green Bay, Robert Marotz, formerly of Shawano, now living in Madison, Foster B. Porter of Bloomington, Tom Skog of Green Bay, Jack Steinhaber of Oshkosh and Charles Wildermuth of Berlin.

Among members of the committee are Stanley Brown of Shawano, Mrs. Max Carpenter of Omro, W. L. Chopin of Appleton, Alfred D. Cookson of Green Bay, Charles Ebert, Sr., of Gresham, Lewis Emich of Green Bay, Robert H. Flatley of Green Bay, Mrs. Carl E. Forsgren of Menasha, J. Will Gates of Wittenberg, Merle Hales of Manawa, John Hollo-way of De Pere, Rudy Jaeger of Green Bay, Mrs. S. F. Jennings of New London, Ray Kleiber of Brillion, C. K. Mace of Neenah, Leo Martin of Crandon, Norman Moe of Appleton, Mrs. Al Murray of Green Bay, Leonard Pasek of Appleton, Mrs. Talbot Peterson of Marinette, Max Stieg of Clintonville, Malcolm Veitch of Seymour, Oran Wall of Green Bay and John Whitney of De Pere.

FBI Nabs Man After Children

Tampa, Fla. —(AP) An ex-convict was in jail today charged with trying to extort $11,000 from three families with the threat he would gouge their children's eyes out with a barbed hook.

Frank W. Brooks, 47, was arrested by FBI agents Wednesday night in a payoff rendezvous set up by one of the persons he threatened.

Mrs. Otis Tennant, mother of six children, told the FBI she received the first letter April 18. Inside the envelope was a 1 1/2 - 2-inch long metal barb — "something like a fish hook" — plus the message demanding cash.

"The note said our children's eyes would be stuck with something just like this if we didn't pay," Mrs. Tennant said.

UW to Grant 2,500 Degrees

Commencement Set for June 6, Right After Exams

Madison — More than 2,500 students will be given their first and higher degrees at the University of Wisconsin's 107th commencement ceremony in Camp Randall stadium June 6, according to estimates by the UW records office.

The commencement ceremony is again being held right after final examinations, as it has been since 1958, in order to save graduating students time in getting their diplomas.

This year's commencement will be at 9 a. m. June 6 in the stadium if weather conditions permit. It is rainy, the ceremony will be moved into the Wisconsin fieldhouse adjacent to the stadium where it will begin at 10 a. m.

Like Last Year

The number of graduates will be about the same as last year. Approximately 1,700 will get bachelor's degrees, about 750 will get master's and Ph.D. degrees, and about 130 will get law and medical degrees, according to records office estimates.

The university has granted a total of 124,788 degrees through April of this year. At its first commencement in 1854, two graduates received the university's first bachelor degrees.

The exercises will climax the university's 107th commencement — reunion weekend, June 3 to 6. Other highlights include the Half-Century club luncheon June 3, Alumni day reunion exercises June 4, and All - University Honors convocation June 5.

Catholics Riot Over Refusal to Build Church

Warsaw —(AP) Communist attempts to block the building of a Roman Catholic church in the model steel town of Nowa Huta set off a riot Wednesday, according to reliable reports here.

Several thousand persons turned out to stop workmen sent by the city government to remove a cross from the building site supposedly reserved for a new church.

Fighting broke out when police intervened. Some reports said about 15 policemen were hurt by rocks thrown by rioters and up to 50 persons were arrested.

Police used tear gas to disperse the hymn-singing crowd gathered around the cross, one source said.

The city of 100,000 population, near Krakow in southern Poland, was reported calm yesterday.

Communist authorities' refused permission for building a church in Nowa Huta, contending there was more need for other buildings. The church site has been earmarked for a school.

Kimberly Man Placed On Probation for Public Intoxication

Kimberly — Police Justice Albert J. Van Alphen ordered Harold Newhouse, 58, 338 Birch street, to pay court costs and placed the man on conditional probation after Newhouse pleaded guilty of public intoxication when arraigned in justice court Wednesday.

A charge of permitting a dog to run at large against Gerald Reetz, 416 S. Joseph street, was dismissed when Reetz told the court he had disposed of the animal.

Church Council Terms Summit Red Plan to Destroy Free World

Kansas City, —(AP) The American Council of Christian Churches says the forthcoming summit conference is part of communist strategy to destroy the free world.

The 18th spring convention of the council Thursday issued a statement that: "It is morally wrong to trust the Godless communists and to enter into agreements with a power whose word has proven worthless."

"Our tragic concessions and losses at all previous summit conferences should tell freedom-loving nations that the road to peace and freedom is a different path to peace from one dealing with the most diabolical force the world has ever seen."

Police Move to New Quarters

Basement of Hall At Little Chute Now Being Utilized

Little Chute — Village police are in the process of moving into their new quarters in the basement of the village hall and persons wishing to see police now, must use the east entrance to the building.

Offices are located down a flight of 18 steps. Persons enter a foyer with a semi-counter separating patrons from the main police desk and filing cabinets. A separate interrogation room is located off the main police room.

Space is also provided for a justice court with a raised platform and desk in one corner for the justice of the peace. Another feature of the new station are the small windows looking into various offices.

Persons inside the office can see what transpires in the other rooms although when trying to view through the opposite side the window gives the appearance of a mirror. Locker and washroom facilities have also been provided for police.

Jail cells on the second floor of the hall will be abandoned and police will confine prisoners in the county jail.

Actor Charlton Heston Wants to Play Comedy

Tired of Heroic Figures That Won Him Fame, Seeking Lighter Roles

BY JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

Hollywood —AP— Charlton Heston, whose classic portrayals of heroic figures have made him one of moviedom's most seen actors, wants to be a comedian the next time out.

"I've got my agent looking for comedy scripts on a top priority basis," says Heston. "I must have it for a change of pace."

By next year, Heston will be the star of three of the top five boxoffice movies. "The Ten Commandments" and "The Greatest Show on Earth" are already there and "Ben Hur" is a cinch to make it.

"Have toga, will travel" could well be Heston's slogan.

"I have been offered Charlemagne," he confides, "and I will probably do it but I must have something light in between."

Even before his recent Academy award for best actor, Heston was on the comic kick.

With Oliver "I was all set to do 'Let's Make Love' with Marilyn in my 10 years in the movies. That was 'The Private War of Major Benson.' Out of Picture

"I wanted to do that so bad six or seven years ago that I instructed my agents to tell Universal that I would work for nothing, take only a cut of the net. If the picture had turned out to be a flop, I would have worked for nothing but it did well. I get a check every month from it. It's still playing around the world."

Unfortunately, he does not have a piece of "The Ten Commandments" or "Ben Hur." Else he would be a millionaire.

Heston is finally living in the hilltop mansion he built more than a year ago. During 1959, he lived only three days in it. Had his play been a hit, he would have had about as few days in it this year.

The house is one of the movie colony's showplaces, commanding a sweeping view of Coldwater canyon. One luxurious touch is a private steam room for Heston.

The Stage Faces Donned by these chorus girls in Copenhagen, Denmark, really put them into their roles, clear down to their knees. They wore the barrel-like masks topped with wigs or hats in the new "ABC Theater Revue."

Greer Garson To Play Role Of Mrs. FDR

With Ralph Bellamy
In Film Version of Broadway Stage Hit

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

Hollywood —AP— Mrs. Miniver, Mrs. Chips, Madame Curie, Caesar's Wife, Mrs. Parkington, and now it's Mrs. Roosevelt for Greer Garson.

"They're always thinking of me as Mrs. Somebody or other," says the actress, Greer Garson who is actually Mrs. Buddy Fogelson.

In a controversial bit of casting—"the column reaction has either been that it is wonderful or that it is awful"—Miss Garson has signed to play Eleanor Roosevelt in Dore Schary's filming of his hit play, "Sunrise at Campobello."

Campobello Scene
They were just starting the picture out at Warner Brothers, it being the first new film to begin after the actors' strike. There were Franklin D. Roosevelt, played with awesome fidelity by Ralph Bellamy, his wife Eleanor and the five Roosevelt children on the porch of their summer home on Campobello Island, N. B.

Miss Garson was darning the children's clothes. She seemed not as tall as Mrs. FDR, nor was there much facial resemblance. But with the aid of a blonde wig and an athletic looking outfit including sneakers, the actress managed to create an illusion that comes down from early photos of Mrs. Roosevelt.

"I'm not in any way trying to make a music-hall imitation of Mrs. Roosevelt," said the actress in her dressing room. "I am just trying to convey the impression of a very remarkable woman."

Quiet in Character
"She was and is quite remarkable. I have always admired her greatly, as every woman does. I am playing her at a time when she was intensely devoted to her family. It was not until later that she went into public life—to act as the eyes for her husband."

"It is a quiet kind of character, unlike Auntie Mame and some of the other showy roles I have played. But she is persuasive in her own way. I am sure that she was the major influence in getting her husband to return to politics."

Majority Rule On Delegates Is Explained

Madison —AP— Wisconsin's two-thirds majority rule on the release of presidential convention delegates applies to groups pledged to a particular candidate and not to the delegation as a whole, Atty. Gen. John Reynolds says.

Reynolds' opinion replied to Gov. Gaylor Nelson's request for an interpretation of the newly-enacted statute.

The governor said his request was prompted by a desire to skirt difficulties posed by Wisconsin's split delegation to the 1960 Democratic convention.

Of the 31 delegate votes ascribed to Wisconsin, 20 are pledged to Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and 10 to Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota. The state's 30 Republican delegate votes are pledged to Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the unopposed GOP candidate in the April 5 presidential preference primary.

Wisconsin delegations are bound to their pledges on the convention's first ballot. They can be released after that by consent of the candidate, or by two-thirds majority vote.

Obey Rules Before Moving to Florida

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Miami Beach — All over this country there are millions of Americans in every income group and age bracket who are hoping to pick up stakes one day soon and migrate to Florida, a world — publicized state of sunshine, comfortable living, inexpensive living. This well may include you. Don't do it unless and until you've obeyed the fundamental rules!

Porter

The get-rich-quick era of Florida is dead. The years when almost any small businessman or wage-earner could come to Florida, open a shop or get a job and make a decent living have passed. There are risks if you now go into a little business here matching risks in most other areas. There are disadvantages as well as obvious advantages to living in Miami Beach, for this has become a buyer's market. While a buyer's market is swell for the casual vacationer with cash to spend, it can spell disaster to the man in business and his employees.

Warns Migrants
In 1926 Joseph Weintraub settled in Miami and began his climb to his present position as one of Florida's leading citizens, chairman of the American Title Insurance company and of the Mercantile National bank of Miami Beach. When I last interviewed Weintraub six years ago he was highly enthusiastic about Florida's future. When I interviewed him again the other day he still was enthusiastic, but almost every sentence was underlined with a warning to a would-be migrant.

"Give me the rules, then," I asked Weintraub. "Tell your warnings through me to all the older citizens, small businessmen and wage earners who want to migrate here." This he did and here are his guides:

1. If you plan to migrate here, don't do it until you first have spent some money on a short vacation to the area of your choice to see exactly what you would be coming into. "Use this vacation to explore," emphasizes Weintraub. "Don't be blinded by the sun. Check ways of living, costs, look carefully at who'll be your new neighbors."

Don't Rely on Words
2. If you do decide to buy a home in Florida, don't rely on glamorous ads and words describing what it will be like. Spend some of your savings to visit the community, see the home for yourself. "You must not dare risk your future without making this prior investigation."

3. It would be wise to rent a small place for a period before you buy so you really can explore at your leisure. The purchase of a home should come only after you feel sure your move is right for you.

4. Under no circumstances give up your job back home or sell your business until you have examined in person the opportunities in the area in which you're planning to settle. "The small businessman without the cash and know-how to carry him through the rough periods that will occur in this state from now on can be quickly wiped out. The worker whose skills aren't needed can be backed against the wall."

Speculate With Caution
5. Be extremely cautious in speculating on land now. In Weintraub's words, "For the average person, the purchase of land for which you have no use is distinctly not a good investment unless it's next to a growing community. Buying land which produces expenses (taxes, carrying charges) but no income is the poorest of risks now."

6. Check if your experience or skills are needed in the community in which you want to live. Visit the region to be sure you want to settle there and you can fit in happily.

"We've been growing at an enormous pace and now we must catch up with our own growth," says Weintraub. "We'll catch up, but there will be phases of adjustment. People coming here should be aware of this."

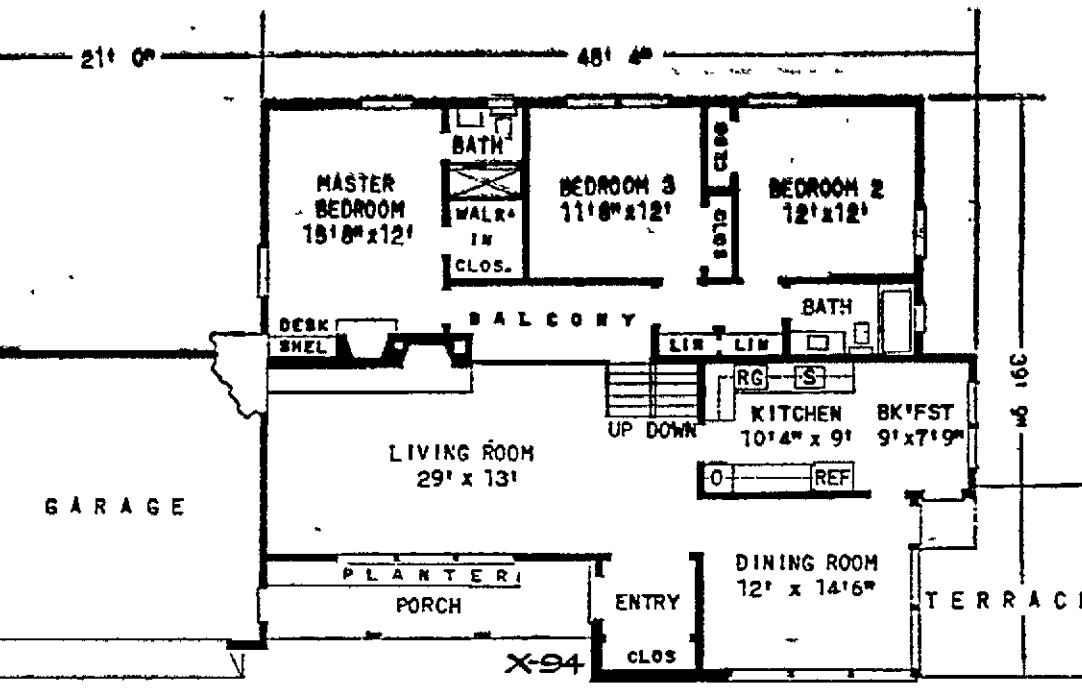

What is true of Florida in 1960 is or will be true of other climate-blessed areas into which you may want to move. Study these rules, obey them. (Copyright, 1960)

Cut Expenses by Saving Trees

If there are trees on the property, try to save them. It will save a great deal of expense later. Before leveling your yard for improvements be sure to call an arborist and have him make a thorough inspection of the trees. Through his experience, he can designate those trees that should be saved, recommend measures for saving them to give your home that extra value, so—be sure to "spare those trees."

This Front-to-Back Split level has a spectacular living room below a high sloping ceiling. There are four bedrooms, 2½ baths, plus large kitchen, dining room and playroom.

Three of the Four bedrooms are in line across raised rear half of house. Master bedroom has a private bath and main bath is hidden from living room.

Home of the Week

This Big Family House Comes In Small, Low-Cost Package

BY DAVID L. BOWEN

Split-level designs fall into two basic classes: side-to-side or front-to-back.

The standard version is side-to-side. This home is one of the less common front-to-back splits and the fresh, dramatic room arrangement it produces makes you wonder why split levels are not handled this way more often.

The most spectacular effect occurs in the living room, which has luxurious length, a high sloping ceiling, a 14-foot raised fireplace hearth, and a glamorous upper level balcony. The balcony hall leads to three well-shielded bedrooms. There's a fourth sleeping room on the ground level, which also contains a large playroom adjacent to the rear terrace.

"Splitting the house this way makes possible an attractive solution to the problem of the extra bedroom and playroom without increasing the perimeter of the house," says Architect Alfred H. Ryder, designer of X-94 in the House of the Week series.

Low Cost
"Perimeter expansion is always expensive," he adds. "The arrangement of this house makes possible low cost expansion space. It could be used to provide growing youngsters with a well insulated recreation area or to give grandparents a spacious and private garden apartment."

Another advantage of the front-to-back split is exterior appearance. From the front, the house has the popular ranch look and would not appear out of place in a neighborhood of low houses.

X-94 has a total of eight rooms, with generous dinette space in the long kitchen and a separate dining room. There are 2½ baths. The habitable area of living and bedroom levels is 1,637 square feet with another 808 on the ground level. The two-car garage is attached and connected with the front door by the covered front porchway.

Additional Details
The dining room projection at the front provides space for a roomy foyer, with large entrance closet. It's 24 feet from the kitchen wall to the opposite end of the living room. The stunning fireplace faces a wide front picture window. The dining room is to the right of the entry with window walls on two sides.

Counters, cupboards and appliances are arranged "pullman" fashion in the long kitchen. A door which slides into the wall closes off the kitchen effectively from the reception foyer area and another of the same type opens into the dining room. The breakfast end of the kitchen is open and uncluttered and provides access to the side entrance.

Bedroom Privacy
The bedrooms across the back on the upper level are divided into two zones. The

Room Divider Idea Utilized Out-of-Doors

Screen Sand Boxes Or Garbage Cans From Patio Area

Home-owners often think of building a room divider to separate kitchen from dining area, front entryway from living room or, perhaps, the shower and tub area from the rest of the bathroom. They can do the same thing to advantage outdoors.

A divider can screen the children's play area from the garden. Thus sand boxes, swings, bicycles and the like can be hidden discreetly from the rest of your patio or lawn area. It can also cloak garbage cans, an unsightly garage wall, or a back door.

Lumber is an excellent material for such a screen because with it you can create an attractive design that perhaps matches or complements a wood fence. A good choice would be one of the 10 species from the western pine region since, with a preservative, ordinary lumber will stand up to contact with the ground and will stay handsome and solid for years. Once the preservative has dried you can either use a wood stain or paint your divider.

There are many design possibilities to choose from. You might construct a divider of open blockwork, with your blocks nothing more than uniform lengths of two-by-four stock. Another thought is a basket-weave design or perhaps a louvered divider with your boards set into the frame vertically. A straightforward divider of planks can be given added dimensional interest by installing the planks alternately on the front and back of your framework.

Man's Interest Used in Design Of New Kitchens

Tremendous strides have been made recently in combining style, beauty and convenience in the modern kitchen. Where once the kitchen was considered the woman's exclusive domain, today the husband's interests are also considered.

For example cabinet manufacturers announce an ingenious fold-away bar and beverage cabinet. It contains a complete bar service with all needed accessories, with stainless steel, cork-covered work surfaces. Its base has a partitioned, slideout storage unit to accommodate a variety of beverage bottles. Among other striking new features is a kitchen sewing retractor that slides out of a place guarantees a cheerful atmosphere all winter long. On one side of this big room is the fourth bedroom, with its own half-bath. On the opposite side is a heater room of ferrous extra space for shop and hobbies. Over-all dimensions are 65' 8" by 30' 9". Exterior is distinguished by tasteful use of shingle, stone, veneer and wrought iron columns.

Termites Suspected of Undergoing Changes

Winter-Hardy Relative of Southern Pest Thought Developing in Northern States

Northern home owners may be facing a serious insect problem. University of Wisconsin entomologists suspect termites may be undergoing evolutionary changes resulting in a winter-hardy relative of the traditionally southern pest.

A good clean-up campaign against these invaders, the research men say. They have advised people in infested areas to clean up wood and paper debris, and to remove wood from buildings, sheds and garages where it is in contact with the earth. Such clean-up methods are particularly important for preventing the spread of termites into new areas of a city.

Applications of commercial insecticides dieldrin and chlordane are being used to protect dwellings against termites. Recent laboratory tests suggest it may be possible to use sprays for controlling the winged form of the insect and thus hinder further spread of the infestation; formerly soil poisons were advocated. Termites behave much differently than other insects. They eat wood for its cellulose content, so they attack books as well as fence posts and building materials. Protozoa organisms live in the intestine of termites and help digest the cellulose while termites feed the protozoa and keep them moist — a system of mutual existence called symbiosis.

More social even than man, termites display a highly developed system of division of labor in colony living. "Soldiers" protect the colony, "workers" tunnel into wood to build the living quarters, and feed the three reproductive forms which lay eggs.

Answers so far aren't very definite, since the research started only in January, 1959. But there is evidence that termites can become cold-hardy — the first time such an occurrence has been observed for insects of this class. Termites collected during the summer enter "cold stupor" or immobilized sleep at 38 degrees. However, those the researchers collected in late August and September survived temperature near 38 degrees for almost two months longer than those collected earlier in the summer. The entomologists are also relating winter soil temperatures to termite survival. They buried temperature recording devices and termite-infested posts in the ground. At monthly intervals throughout the cold months, they removed the posts, recording

Lawn Mowers Need Periodic Checking

Here's How To Put Unit Into Shape

BY ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

That power lawn mower won't stay in good running order unless you take care of it. That means periodic maintenance checks to prevent serious trouble before it occurs.

You can make most of these checks yourself. But be sure you disconnect the spark plug before working on the engine or cutting blade. This will prevent any accidental starting of the motor should the magneto flywheel be revolved inadvertently. Bend the wire away from the terminal so the spark can not jump a small gap.

Drain Oil

Drain oil from a four-cycle engine (which takes the oil and the gas separately) by removing the oil filter plug and oil drain plug. When completely empty, replace the drain plug and refill with fresh, clean oil.

Fill the fuel tank with regular gasoline. Do not use high-test or white gas.

Remove the air cleaner. If it is a dry-element type, tap the element to remove dust and dirt, or replace if filled completely. If it is of the oil-bath type, remove the cleaner and dispose of the oil by cleaning the cup with a solvent. Refill with fresh oil.

Check for loose nuts and bolts that may cause damage if not tightened. Also, tighten all screws.

If the mower is a direct-mount rotary type, check clutch, clutch adapter and the bolt holding the blade, making sure everything is secure.

Riding Type

If the unit is a self-propelled or riding type, check the belts for fraying and tightness. Make sure the pulleys are free, lubricating if necessary.

Check the wheels and wheel bearings to be sure nothing is loose.

Remove the spark plug to make sure it is clean, not fouled by soot or oil.

Before starting the machine, turn the engine a few times by pulling the "starter" rope. This allows lubrication to coat the bearings and cylinder walls prior to high speed operation.

If you have an old power mower and think perhaps the engine should be replaced, have a dealer check it. If the cost of the replacement engine is 3 or more of the price of a new mower, better get a new mower. Most dealers will give you a trade-in allowance on the engine.

It's Your Landscape

Stones are Commonly Misused Near Homes

BY GEORGE E. CREED

Some common examples of the misuse of stones in residential landscapes are illustrated today. One sketch shows stones placed to serve as driveway entrance markers. Fortunately, this practice is dying out but it is still far from extinct. Although such stones are usually painted white and are glaringly conspicuous during the day, at night they are harder to see and are easy to stumble over.

If they project sufficiently above the ground to be effective as markers they can be a menace of a different kind in winter when snow covers them. Then the edge of a driveway itself is not well-defined and it is easy to drive an automobile over one of the stones and do considerable damage to the underparts of the car. If a marker is required it is advisable to install slender steel posts with reflectors on them. These are less conspicuous during the daytime and much more effective at night.

Small boulders used to outline a walk can also present problems. Besides being stumbling blocks at night they add to the difficulties of maintenance.

Sketch B shows how weeds and grass usually grow around an isolated stone. Since it is impossible to get close enough with a lawn mower to cut this growth it becomes necessary to hand clip it if you want the yard to look neat. In the case of the walk there is no need for stones at all. As for the flower bed, though it is an outmoded and not very attractive way of growing flowers, its appearance could be improved by eliminating the edging made of stones and substituting steel curbing.

If you unearth stones while digging a garden or preparing a lawn, don't be tempted to use them in the ways described here. Dig a deep hole and bury them or have them hauled away. You'll be glad you did.

Planner Quits Regional Firm

Clarence Hammond Ends 4 Years With Fox Valley Unit

Resignation of Clarence A. Hammond, local planner for the Fox Valley Regional Planning commission for four years, was announced at the planning commission's executive committee meeting Thursday evening.

Kenneth L. Schellie, regional planner, read Hammond's letter dated March 15.

"In view of our divergent philosophies I deem it expedient to submit my resignation effective April 30, 1960," Hammond wrote.

Schellie said the resignation had been accepted without prejudice. Hammond had been the Fox Cities first and only planner until the Schellie firm took over last Jan. 1.

Schellie promised planning would continue at full pace in the Fox Cities. The office, Schellie said, probably will not have a full-time resident planner for 30 days. Schellie and an associate, Wayne DePew, will work in and out of the office several days a week until a replacement for Hammond is found.

Schellie told the executive committee base maps of member municipalities have been completed. Rough drafts of the resource report also are done, he said, and the final draft should be ready by May 26. A land use survey is underway and a utility system survey is to be started, he said.

Painting Floor Will Change Room's Effect

Wooden floors that have lost their original beauty can be bright and shining again with a coat of quick-drying floor enamel or floor and deck enamel. Both types come in a variety of colors. If your carpet is a solid color, painting the floor the same hue will make the room seem larger. If your carpet is a multi-color pattern, select one of the colors for the floor. The "painted border" provides a most attractive effect.

Lawrence Says U.S. Action Contributed to Rhee Ousting

Korean Reprimand Could Also Apply To French Strife

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—When is a problem "internal" and when is it "external"? Governments, including our long reserved own, have the right to determine the answer to that question for themselves and they have resented any outside interference or dictation.

Korea pre-Lawrence sends a paradox in the history of international affairs.

President Eisenhower told his press conference on Wednesday that the United States had not intervened in Korean governmental matters. He said:

"To charge America with interference in the internal affairs of Korea is not correct. . . .

"No interference of any kind was ever undertaken by the United States and we had no part in inciting or know anything about the inciting of this difficulty."

But the president also said that he had previously expressed the hope that irregularities in connection with the recent election in Korea "could be stopped." This, as Mr. Eisenhower remarked, was published. All the Korean newspapers printed it with large headlines. Whether the state department considers that its advice given at a critical moment in the history of the Korean republic was or was not "intervention," the fact remains that the Korean people were publicly advised through the press that the Washington government and the Rhee government were parting company.

Dissident factions needed no further stimulus. The American government had spoken. In the last 24 hours, the department of state went a step further. It summoned the diplomatic representatives of the 13 countries allied with the U. S. in the Korean war and told them about the situation. The state department didn't keep this in the confidential realm of diplomacy. A formal communique was issued to the press after the meeting, which said:

"Those present joined in expressing the hope that there would be an early resolution of the situation in a manner which would permit the orderly functioning of democratic government in the Republic of Korea."

Coincident with this, newspaper dispatches from Seoul related that the American ambassador was putting heavy pressure on President Rhee to resign. The Korean public needed no further word of encouragement to carry on bigger and bigger street demonstrations.

Whatever the eventual outcome of the disorders, America exerted pressure to secure a change of regime. It helped to force President Rhee out of office. The purpose, it is argued, was benevolent—the end justified the means.

The United States has set a precedent. It is said that this is logical because Korea owes her independence to the sacrifices made by American troops, along with those of other nations, in the war to repel communist aggression. But after the Korean republic was set up in 1948 by elections held under U.N. auspices, Korea became free and independent.

But there is as yet no uniformity of application. A serious violation of the French constitution has been pointed up. An opposition party in the French parliament has just signed a motion of censure.

Not long ago 200,000 farmers in France demonstrated in protest on this same point. Yet President de Gaulle is welcomed as a hero in America. Doesn't the Korean precedent now justify a "word of warning" to President de Gaulle, too?

Foxes Accent Bonus Talent In Bid for Good Season

'59 Showings of Oriole-Provided Players Offer Encouragement

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The Fox Cities Foxes are putting the accent on wealthy youth in an effort to make the biggest splash in their 3-year history in the Class B Three-I league.

Approximately one-third of a million dollars of "bonus" talent—provided by new major league affiliate Baltimore—will be on display at Goodland field this spring and summer. In becoming associated with the Orioles—after a 2-year tieup with Washington—the Foxes have become part of one of baseball's most vigorous building programs.

Baltimore has the youngest roster in the majors and is fourth high among the 16 clubs in the payment of bonus money.

New Approach
The Orioles, without a Class B affiliate last season, were so anxious to hook up with Fox Cities that their assistant farm director (Harry Dalton) spent five days here last fall completing the negotiations.

Foxes fans hope the new, 1960 approach will produce a contending ball club—such as Green Bay, Des Moines and Topeka were in the 1959 Three-I league race. In each of those cases, the teams—which finished 1-2-3 last year—were stocked with bonus talent, much as the '60 Foxes are.

Past performances of 1960 Fox Cities personnel offer encouragement for a good season. Most of the members on the Foxes roster played last year at Aberdeen (S. Dak.).

Gillick Played In College World Series

Lawrence "Pat" Gillick, curve-balling Fox Cities Foxes lefty, has a college degree to fall back on if his baseball career runs into road blocks.

The 6-1, 185-pound Van Nuys, Calif., resident, was graduated from the University of Southern California in 1958. He plans to attend Loyola (Los Angeles) law school in the winters.

At Southern Cal, Gillick won two varsity baseball letters and played in the college world series in Omaha in 1958. He was a 9-letterman in football, basketball and baseball at Notre Dame High school in Van Nuys.

Last year at Stockton, in the Class C California league, he compiled a 9-5 won-loss record with a 3.78 earned run average.

Shortstop Bob Saverine, who won the Class D Appalachian league batting title last year, is a member of the Fox Cities Foxes' cast in 1960.

Stockton (Calif.) and Bluefield (W. Va.).

Aberdeen finished second in the Class C Northern league. Stockton finished a close third in the Class C California league. And, Bluefield, which was fourth in the Class D Appalachian circuit, set the pace most of the way until hit by injuries.

Third in Winter League
Additionally, seven of the current Foxes played on the Baltimore club which took third place (one game out of second and seven out of first) in the 8-team Florida Winter league.

Earl Weaver, the Foxes' third manager in as many seasons, has never known a sub-first division finish as skipper.

After a long famine, Fox Cities baseball patrons had a taste of heads-up, winning baseball in the final six or eight weeks of the 1959 season. The Foxes won 20 of their last 29 games at home to finish fourth in the second-round race and fourth (by one game) in the season-long standings.

The spurt, however, came too late to attract the kind of gate attention it should have. Fans began staying away in droves after an unsettled line-up played lackluster ball for the first month and a half. The Foxes wound up seventh in the first-half standings with a 26-39 record.

Total attendance for the season dropped to around 52,000. But, the Foxes' management was encouraged and Baltimore was impressed because the team finished in the black, financially, for the second straight year despite another below-500 ball club.

Bright Spots
Foxes' fans were treated to a number of bright spots last year in addition to the club's strong finish. Hernan Villa gave the Foxes their second straight batting champion ("Potato" Pascual had won it in 1958).

In Fred Bruckbauer, the Foxes had the league's "rookie of the year." The Foxes also had two of the four earned-run leaders in the circuit—Bruckbauer, No. 2; and Hector Maestri, No. 4.

And, for the second straight season, the Foxes led the league in opening-game attendance. They'll shoot for No. 3 Saturday night.

As fans watch the same eight teams perform at Goodland field as in 1959, they'll be a part of a pro baseball venture which (along with Green Bay) is second only to that of the Milwaukee Braves in all of Wisconsin.

Fastest Three-I League Games Played at Goodland Field
Fox Cities fans saw the Three-I league's fastest games at Goodland field in 1959.

On the average, games were played here in 2 hours, 19 minutes. The slowest (2:35) league games were played in Topeka.

The Foxes tied Burlington for the fastest single 9-inning game at home—1:41. The Foxes reeled off the fastest 7-inning game by far—1:15.

Power Shortage

Rousing Pro Debut

Saverine Credited With Aparicio-Like Qualities

Shortstop Bob Saverine received Baltimore's biggest bonus ($72,000) in 1959 and immediately set out to prove that the Orioles made no mistake.

The young hitting and fielding flash led the Class D Appalachian league in five departments for the 70-game season: average (.353), hits (89), runs (70), total bases (150) and stolen bases (36).

The switch-hitting Darien, Conn., athlete who was sought after by every major league club, also hit 11 homers.

Termed by Lum Harris his (winter league manager) as "another Luis Aparicio", Saverine appeared as a pinch runner in one American league game for Baltimore last September—and scored. In the winter instructional league, Saverine batted .278 and led his club in stolen bases.

Javerine, who is now 19 years old, won seven varsity letters (baseball, basketball and football) in high school. The 5-foot-9 youth was an all-state basketball choice two seasons.

For the biggest thrill of his career to date, Saverine picks the time he initially played before major league scouts. He was only 15 and he went 3-for-4 and drove in seven runs in an American Legion tourney game.

3-I League Is Biggest Class B Circuit in Nation

The Three-I league, only 8-club Class B circuit in Organized Baseball, is one of 20 minor leagues to be operating in 1960.

The all-rookie Nebraska State league is the only minor league which abandoned operation after the 1959 season.

The two other Class B circuits—the Carolina and Northwest leagues—are operating with six teams apiece.

Making up the rest of the minor league structure are: American association, International and Pacific Coast, AAA; Southern association, Texas and Mexican leagues, AA; South Atlantic and Eastern, A; California, Northern and Pioneer, C; Alabama-Florida, Appalachian, Florida State, Midwest, New York-Pennsylvania and Sophomore, D.

Weaver Is One of Youngest Pilots

His Clubs Have Never Finished Out of the First Division

Though Fox Cities' Foxes Manager Earl Weaver was in the major leagues only long enough for a "cup of coffee", he's had considerable baseball experience for a 29-year-old.

Weaver, one of the youngest—if not the youngest—pilots in the Three-I league this season, is beginning his thirteenth season in organized baseball, his fourth as a manager.

He has been called one of the more colorful pilots in the minor leagues and is a fiery type. (Last season, Weaver was ejected by umpires from seven games.)

Red Holds Out
Then in the St. Louis Cardinal farm system, Weaver was brought up by the Cards in 1952 when Red Schoendienst was a spring training holdout. But, the day before the season opened, "Red" came to terms and infielder Weaver went back to the minors.

His baseball career began in 1948. He has played in every classification, performing with Omaha, Houston, New Orleans and Denver in the high minors.

In 1957, his first full season of managing, Weaver led the Class D Fitzgerald, Ga., club to a fourth-place finish. In 1958, Weaver's Dublin, Ga., outfit finished third. Last summer he led the Aberdeen club in the Class C Northern league for Topeka last season, will be playing for Lincoln this son's beginning but then injured.

Earl Weaver

ies struck and Aberdeen finished second. Earl's overall managerial record is 206 wins and 185 losses. He is married and the father of three children. He makes his winter home in Richmond Heights, Mo., a St. Louis suburb and works for a loan company.

Alvarez Changes 3-I Uniform

Al Alvarez is back for a second season in the Three-I league, but he has changed his uniform. The catcher, who hit .255 for Topeka last season, will be playing for Lincoln this year.

Slugging Powell Is Hot Prospect

All-Round Athlete Picks Pro Baseball Over Grid Career

John "Boog" Powell bears a physical resemblance to Johnny Mize, and soon Fox Cities Foxes' fans will start finding out if he can look forward to a slugging career like the "Big Cat's."

Powell, recently tabbed by The Sporting News as the "hottest young prospect" on the Baltimore roster, will play first base for the Foxes this season.

Powell has played only 102

Cal Ripken Is Strong Defensively

Catcher Starts Fourth Season Of Pro Ball

The sort of "old hand" that every manager likes to have around, especially as a catcher, er handling a young pitching staff, is the Fox Cities Foxes' Cal "Rip" Ripken.

In his fourth season of pro ball, Ripken is known as a solid defensive catcher. He played 24 games without error in the Class AA Texas League last season to finish at 1,000 in fielding (121 chances). He batted .203 at Amarillo.

At Pensacola in the Class D Alabama-Florida wheel he was second in the league in fielding with a .986 mark in 48 games. He batted .292 there.

Cal is one of the few, if not the only, all-state soccer players ever to play pro baseball here. An Aberdeen, Maryland, Md., native, he played the sport and baseball in high school.

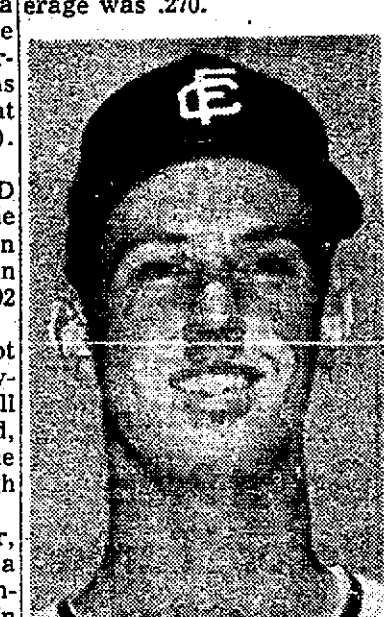

A 170-pound right-hander, "Rip" is married and has a 1-year-old daughter. His family is living in Appleton. In the off-season he's a drug store manager.

Slick-Fielding Ray Youngdahl Is Sinquefield's Successor

Ray Youngdahl bids fair to provide Fox Cities Foxes' fans with center fielding in the tradition of Bennie Sinquefield.

Youngdahl is tall (6-foot-3) and graceful like Sinquefield, whose strong arm and ground-covering ability cut off many a potential run by 1959 opponents of the Foxes.

Youngdahl has a similar defensive reputation and may prove a better hitter than Sinquefield (who finished at .233). Last year, with Stockton (Class C California league), Youngdahl hit .313 for the last 85-90 games after getting away to a miserable (seven hits in his first 78 trips) start. His season's average was .270.

Hugh Springer Is Collegian

Oregon Hurler Had 10-6 Mark In Pro Debut

One of the college boys on the Fox Cities Foxes roster is left-hander Hugh Springer. Springer, a 6-2, 205-pound bonus pitcher, is a senior history major at the University of Oregon.

Springer was signed last summer after posting a 7-2 record in college ball. He spent a half season at Stockton of the Class C California league, finishing with a 10-6 record and a 4.50 earned run average.

Hugh Springer

Hit on the pitching hand by a lone drive earlier this spring, Hugh changed his pitching motion and developed a bit of arm trouble. He seems to have shaken it off, however.

Hugh, 20, was all-city in basketball and baseball in his home town, Portland, Ore. He is interested in insurance sales or the steel industry as possible vocations during the off-season or when his baseball career is over.

Upon graduation, Powell had to choose from among 13 major league baseball offers and a number of college football scholarship offers. Powell chose baseball as a career and the Orioles offer in particular because "I felt Baltimore was in a building program with lots of opportunities for young players."

Baltimore figures on Powell as its first basemen of the future—and not too distant future, either. Orioles Manager Paul Richards has already lauded Powell's competitive zeal and his ability to adapt to a new position.

Chance Outstanding in Prep Ball, Pro Debut

A prep record even more outstanding than that of Fond du Lac's "Hub" King brought major league scouts hurrying to Dean Chance's Wooster, Ohio, doorstep last May.

Chance cast his lot with Baltimore (Hal Newhouser and Harry Dalton presiding at the signing ceremony) and went on to an impressive pro debut with Bluefield (W. Va.) in the Class D Appalachian league.

The 6-3, 195-pound right-hander compiled a 10-3 record (finishing nine of 14 starts) and posted a 2.94 earned run average—second best in the league. Chance struck out 83 and walked only 35 in 107 innings.

All-State Cager

Chance, who received an estimated $40,000 bonus payment, pitched 17 no-hitters in an amazing high school career that saw him produce a record of 51-1.

He led the Northwestern (Ohio) High school prep team to the 1959 state tournament title after being named an all-state basketball player.

In the Florida Winter league, the 18-year-old Chance compiled a 7-4 record and a 2.65 ERA.

Chance's debut with the Foxes has been delayed because of the extensive dental work he had done in Miami.

Jim Carver, the Foxes' heftiest hitter in spring training games, is counted on to lend punch to the attack during the Three-I league season.

Tippery Has Been Soldier and All-American Baseball Player

The Fox Cities Foxes' Ken Tippery has crammed lengthy terms as a student, soldier and baseball player into his 24 years.

The quick-handed second baseman was recently discharged from the army after serving just under two years. He's 15 hours short of receiving his master's degree in business administration at the University of Michigan.

He's played in both Class A and Class B ball during part of two pro seasons, and played service baseball after being an All-American as an undergraduate at Michigan.

Student in Marketing

The 5-10, 175-pounder is a right-hander all the way. A marketing student, he's interested in going into sales work or advertising. Ken is unmarried.

He hit .429 during his All-American (senior) season at Michigan. He finished that 1957 campaign at Knoxville in the Class A Sally league, stroking an impressive .299 in 69 games. He entered service after playing a total of 59 games at Knoxville and Wilson professional career. Last season, he divided his time between Class A Albany, Class AA Amarillo and Class AAA Vancouver. Most of his time was spent at Albany where he hit .261.

In 1958, the 6-3, 208-pound Barth was voted the most popular player for Class B Wilson of the Carolina league. He had 25 home runs that season, second in the Baltimore Orioles' farm system, and drove in 68 runs, while batting .259.

As a pitcher for Wilson, he turned in a 2.93 earned run average and a 7-5 won-loss mark.

Signed by Oriole Manager Paul Richards, Barth was a football - basketball - baseball star at St. Louis' Beaumont High school.

Jerry Alford

Great Prep Record Earned Alford Bonus

Right-Hander Has Pitched in D And C Baseball

Fox Cities right-handed pitcher Jerry Alford had a sensational record as a Mississippi high school and American Legion hurler.

During his final two seasons of prep and Legion hurling the 6-1, 170-pound Alford rang up a 39-5 won-loss record. He pitched a pair of high school no-hitters and hurled his Jackson, Miss., club to the state championship in 1958.

In 18 innings during the state Legion playoffs, he allowed only three hits and two walks while striking out 25.

Signed For Bonus

The kind of performance earned Alford an estimated $45,000 bonus contract with Baltimore.

The 19-year-old youngster had a 5-6 mark for Class D Pensacola last year (.399 ERA) and a 1-1 record (.284 ERA) with Class C Stockton. He struck out 87 in 79 innings while at Pensacola.

He was signed by former major league Eddie Robinson and attended Mississippi college (Clinton) last fall.

Former Teammates

Cedar Rapids Manager Jimmy Brown and Lincoln Manager Ira Hutchinson were St. Louis Cardinal teammates in 1940-41.

Ken Tippery

son of the Class B Carolina wheel in 1958—hitting .221 at Knoxville and .273 at Wilson. Ken's average was around .340 at Fort Dix last summer.

Carver Hopes To Continue Batting Rise

Catcher Hit .282 In Class C After Poor Mark in 'D'

Catcher Jim Carver, who hit far better in Class C baseball than he ever had in the D ranks, hopes his average will continue to climb as he progresses.

Carver, a 200-pound 6-footer, is the first-string catcher for the Fox Cities Foxes, of the Class B Three-I league.

Playing for three Class D clubs in 1958 and 1959, Carver was unable to bat higher than .240.

Finds Himself

But in the final half of the 1959 season, the Waynesville, N. C., resident found himself. He compiled a .282 mark for 51 games at Stockton (Class C California league). A line-driver hitter, Carver tied a league record with four doubles in one game.

The 19-year-old Carver has a good throwing arm. He won four high school letters in baseball. He was an all-state selection in 1958, when he hit .650 — the highest in North Carolina prep circles. In American Legion hall, the right-handed hitter batted .380 and .500, slamming 12 homers in the two years.

Carver played in the Florida Winter league during the last off-season, hitting .214 for 131 at-bats.

Montgomery Has Knack of Reaching Base

Frank Montgomery, a popular home club player and a nuisance for opposition pitchers, got on base an average of twice a game in 1958.

The Foxes' 5-foot-7, 155-pound infielder - outfielder coaxed Northern league pitchers for 136 walks (one short of the league record) and socked 134 hits (including 21 doubles) last season. His batting average was .305.

Base - stealing (he chalked up 30) was another factor that made Montgomery one of the two most popular players on the Aberdeen club.

University Student

The left-handed hitting 23-year-old lives in Pittsburgh and attends the University of North Carolina during the off-season.

In his rookie year (1958), Montgomery hit .284 in 20 games for Wilson of the Class B Carolina league and .250 in 76 games for Knoxville of the Class A Sally league.

Last year, he failed to make the AA Amarillo, Texas, club and was sent to Aberdeen, since the Orioles had no A or B affiliations.

Foxes' Openers Have Drawn Top Crowds

The Fox Cities Foxes sold more opening-game admissions than any other club in both their first two seasons of play.

Last year's inaugural game drew 4,121. The 1958 league-topping total was 4,382.

John Papa Bids For Fast Start This Season

Bonus Pitcher Finished Strong in Rookie Campaign

Pitcher John Papa hopes his strong 1959 finish is a harbinger of a fast 1960 start with the Fox Cities Foxes.

After experiencing quite a few difficulties in his rookie season, Papa came into his own during the final month or so of the Aberdeen campaign. He helped Manager Earl Weaver's team clinch second place in the Class C Northern league with three straight standout games at the end of the season.

Overall, the 5-foot-11 right-hander had a 6-11 record and an earned run average of around 3.90. He struck out 148 in 130 innings.

Papa admits he made the mistake of trying to throw the ball past every hitter early in the season—then began mixing up his pitches.

After compiling a fine high school and American Legion Junior record, Papa turned down 12 other major league offers to sign with Baltimore for an estimated $60,000. He traveled with the Orioles for three weeks but didn't get in any major league games.

Besides playing baseball (in which he compiled a 16-3 record in two years, with three no-hitters), Papa was a football player and a swimmer in high school.

Now 19, Papa lives in Stratford, Conn., and attends the University of Bridgeport (industrial relations) during the off-season. He is ready to begin his sophomore year.

Jim Lehw Is 'Submariner'

Pitcher Has Recovered From Back Trouble

Probably the most unorthodox pitching delivery seen in the Three-I league this summer will belong to Fox Cities Foxes right-hander Jim Lehw.

The 6-0, 184-pounder uses a "submarine" delivery also featured by Dick Hyde of the Washington Senators. Lehw's fast ball is a natural sinker.

Lehw, who left school after the ninth grade, compiled a brilliant 20-9 won-loss record in 1958 at Pensacola of the Class D Alabama-Florida league. His 3.11 earned run average was fifth best in the league.

He was 6-4 last summer with a 4.55 ERA at Pensacola when he developed back trouble and left the club in mid-season. A spinal fusion was performed and Jim was in a cast two months and in a brace for six weeks more. His back now feels okay, he says. Lehw is married.

Anthony Back In 3-I League

Had Brief Stint With Quincy, Posted .301 Mark in 1959

Photios "Photi" Anthony, Fox Cities Foxes infielder, will be making his second appearance in the Three - I league this season.

The first time represented a stay of only one week, however, it was at the end of the 1955 season when Quincy called Anthony up to replace Tony Kubek, who had been sent to Denver.

Anthony got his start with Owensboro, Ky. in the Class D Kitty league and stayed in the New York Yankee system for four years. He was signed off the William and Mary campus after hitting .394 in his freshman collegiate year.

After the 1958 season, Anthony was drafted by Baltimore. He started with the Class AA Amarillo team in 1959 but was optioned to Stockton, of the Class C California loop.

In 98 games for pennant-contending Stockton, Anthony hit .301—the top mark of his pro career. A right-hander all the way, Anthony played second base and third base.

The 23-year - old Norfolk, Va., resident, who is single and an engineering student at Lewis and Clark university in the off-season, weighs 175 and stands an even 6 feet.

John Papa

Topeka Pitcher May Be Pinch Batter

Pete Ward Looms as Power Hitter

Won 'Most Popular' Accolade as 1959 Handy-Man

The large dimensions of Goodland field don't figure to frighten Pete Ward, Fox Cities third baseman, this season.

The left-handed hitting Ward led Stockton (of the Class C California league) in homers last year, with 16. And, he had to fire at a distant target—the right field wall was 360 from the plate.

Ward, voted the "most popular" player on the Stockton team, batted .321—fifth best in the league—during his inaugural season in pro ball. He drove in 78 runs, scored 97, hit 22 doubles and walked 83 times.

At one time or another, Ward saw service at every position but catcher and pitcher last year. He played half of his games at third base. Ward was runnerup in

The 19-year-old youth lives in Portland, Ore., and attends Lewis and Clark university in the off-season.

Fox Cities' Home Record Is 60-68

In two seasons, the Fox Cities Foxes have a home record of 60 wins and 68 losses.

Last year, the Foxes compiled a 32-31 home record, while in 1958 they were 28-37.

Three-I Rosters Include Such Familiar Names As Williams, Howser

Bonus Stars Overby And Sinnerud Play For Cedar Rapids

BY MIKE DREW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The rosters of most of the Fox Cities Foxes' Three-I league rivals contain the names of several fellows who have previously performed at Goodland field.

A number of top prospects, in some cases, high-priced-rookies are included in these early-season lineups. However, many of the rookies will subsequently be sent down as higher-classification clubs trim their rosters.

2 Have Changed

This process of trimming down will also result in more Three-I veterans playing another season in the circuit. Only two clubs, Fox Cities and Burlington, have changed major league affiliations.

Since the Foxes' parent Baltimore Orioles and the Burlington's Pittsburgh Pirates haven't been in the Three-I, at least during the past several years, most or all of their performers are new to the circuit.

A team - by-team rundown:

Green Bay — Don Williams, the shortstop of last year's Three-I champions has again been assigned to the Dodgers. Nate Oliver, shortstop who divided his time between Fox Cities and Green Bay last season, could be shipped down to handle a utility role.

Bonus catcher Gene Conaway may be the youngest receiver in the 3-I. He caught his first pro game last June at the age of 17. Ric Warren, stocky lefty who hurled for the 1958 Green Bay club, will be back in Green Bay flannels again.

Sy Bonem, who hit .340 in the Class D Midwest league two seasons ago and Dale Reichert, who slugged 30 home runs in the same loop last summer (with 116 RBIs) should add some punch.

The Dodgers are working with the world champion LA Dodgers.

Cedar Rapids — Hortonville pitcher Larry Huebner will start out with the Milwaukee Braves' Class B farm.

A couple of well-publicized Braves' bonus babies on hand include southpaw hurler Dennis Overby, from Chetek, Wis., and Mickey Sinnerud. Overby was 8-2 for McCook, Neb., last year.

Here too is Tommy Aaron, younger brother of Henry Aaron of the Milwaukee varsity. Tommy formerly played for Eau Claire in the Class C Northern league. Joe Trenary, a pitcher-outfielder, and hurler John Huda are former CUR performers who are back.

Des Moines — The Demons had their club "set" early last year but it appears that this isn't so this season. None of the 20 players currently on the roster was with the 1959 outfit. Philadelphia is again the parent club.

Among the leading prospects are: outfielder Dick Haines, who hit .319 at Class

D. Elmira last year; pitcher Jack McCracken, 11-4 at Elmira; pitcher Jim Farland, a lefty, 12-8 at Class C Bakersfield; and pitcher Bob Bush, 10-14 at Bakersfield.

Burlington — It appears that the Bees will have more power than any other Burlington club in several seasons. The composite batting average of players on an early-season roster was .302.

Included in the group is: Emiliano Telleria, who had a .358 mark with Roswell, N. M., in the Class D Sophomore league, good for the batting title. Roberto Sanchez, veteran Idaho Falls infielder, whacked .320 with 17 home runs and 78 RBIs last year.

Other home run hitters of some repute include: Gene Alley, 15 at Dubuque, and Ed Montgomery, 15 at Roswell. Bill Jackson, 13, for Gastonia of the Class A Sally league.

Lincoln — Manager Ira Hutchinson, a veteran of several Wisconsin State leagues and the 1958 and 1959 Three-I campaigns at Goodland field, expects only a few 1959 Chiefs to return.

Two of them appear to be Jim Lynn, one of the circuit's top players for several seasons, and "Pug" Williamson, both outfielders.

Another fairly certain performer for the Chicago White Sox farm is center fielder Gene Duffy, a diminutive former Notre Dame baseball and basketball star. Ed Filicchia, a pitcher who starred in the Nebraska State league last season may also be with the club.

Sioux City — Manager Bob Hoffman has been optimistic about his club's showing thus far and says his lineup is "set."

At first base is Leroy Scerrey, in the Three-I during both the 1958 and '59 campaigns. Scerrey finished the 1959 season at Class C Pocatello where he whacked 21 homers.

Other Three-I vets on hand include Dick Howser, shortstop; Ron McCutcheon, utility infielder; Mel Wright, outfielder; and right-handed pitcher Gordon "Ernie" Neviers. Kansas City is the parent club.

Topeka — Manager Johnny VanderMeer says "We'll be as strong, or stronger, than when we opened last year." (The Cincinnati Redleg affiliate finished third.) Topeka

At one time, practically all relief pitchers were long-term veterans who no longer could go the full nine innings.

Today, a new crop of young relievers is being cultivated in the minors. One of these is 19-year-old Dick Hunt, of the Fox Cities Foxes.

Last year at Stockton, Hunt was summoned from the bullpen 36 times in addition to starting 19 games. His 55 appearances set a Class C California league record.

The rubber-armed youth, in compiling a 16-14 record, worked 198 innings, striking out 182 and walking 84. His ERA was 3.45.

Hunt, who pitched eight complete games, prefers relieving to starting.

Foxes Manager Earl Weaver says that the Elk City, Okla., lad may get both kinds of assignments this season.

The 5-11, 170-pound right-hander signed for a Baltimore bonus in excess of $20,000 after pitching over 20 no-hitters in high school and Legion ball.

In Hunt's first year (1958) at Bluefield, he compiled a 4-4 record for a partial season.

Stepanovich Eyes Career Like Conley's

Southpaw Pitcher Also Seeks Place In Pro Basketball

George Stepanovich, one of the two left-handed pitchers on the Fox Cities baseball club, hopes to be able to do a "Gene Conley" this year.

That is, play both professional baseball and basketball. The 6-foot-4, 222 pound forward-center was one of the standout players on several strong North Carolina State quintets. When he was a sophomore, NCS played in the NCAA tournament — losing in four overtimes to Canisius.

When he was a junior and senior, the team won Atlantic Coast conference titles. His final season was 1958-9.

Drafted By Celtics

Drafted originally by the Boston Celtics, Stepanovich stayed out of basketball last winter. He is due for a try-out with the New York Knickerbockers next season. If that doesn't pan out, he hopes to play in the Eastern professional league.

The lefty pitched college ball in his sophomore and junior years, compiling winning records. He signed with Baltimore for a bonus consideration.

However, in his rookie season (1959), Stepanovich was hampered by arm miseries and had a composite 0-5 mark for class D clubs Pensacola and Bluefield. He sustained a torn shoulder tendon in spring training, and he tried to work it out during the season, without too much success.

Stepanovich said his arm feels good this spring. But, in order not to hurry the arm recovery too fast, he is being groomed for relief duty at the start of the season.

The 21-year-old Stepanovich, who is single, lives in East Chicago, Ind. He will finish a semester's work for a BA degree at the University of Indiana and will start work on his masters there. His major is recreation administration.

'Buster' Narum No Longer Is a 'Thrower'

Les "Buster" Narum, one of the Fox Cities Foxes numerous bonus players, was signed two years ago for about $24,000.

He had a 3-10 record, but a good 3.91 earned run average for a weak Bluefield club in the Class D Appalachian league that summer. His 115 strikeouts led the league.

Last year, Narum played with a winner at Aberdeen of the class C Northern wheel and rang up a 14-9 mark with a 4.45 ERA. He was 0-1 at Amarillo in the Class AA Texas circuit.

The 6-1, 195-pound, 19-year-old will be a sophomore at Florida State University next fall. He was an all-state baseball and basketball player at high school in Clearwater, Fla.

He says that "in my first year in pro ball I was a thrower. Now I'm learning to pitch." Narum is a right-hander.

had a partial working agreement with Cincy. This year it's a full agreement.

Three - I veterans include catcher Al Suarez, third baseman Marty Rosell, outfielder Billy Joe Dasher and pitchers George McWilliams, Grant Halse and Marvin Fodor. (The veteran Dasher, and several of his teammates, were involved in several torrid rhubarbs with the 1959 Foxes.)

Fodor, a bonus youngster, broke in with a 3-3 mark at Topeka last summer. McWilliams, idled much of the season by a bad back, was 4-5 at Topeka.

George Stepanovich

Arnold Palmer, Collins Lead Houston Meet

Ragan's Boner Puts Him One Stroke Back

Houston, Texas — Arnold Palmer and Bill Collins led the $35,000 Houston classic golf tournament into the second round today but a boner by young Dave Ragan had the gallery talking.

Ragan calls the boner a "blackout or something," but whatever it was it cost him two strokes.

As a result, Palmer, the big money winner of the year, and Collins, 1959 New Orleans open winner, held 66s that put them one stroke ahead of Ragan and Billy Maxwell.

Fourteen other players were within three strokes of the leaders. The par 72 at the 7,122-yard Memorial park course had a rough first round. A record 15,000 first day gallery swarmed onto the course as 33 out of a field of 139 broke par and 15 others were even.

The field was to be cut to the low 80, plus ties, after today's 18 holes.

Sixth Title

Palmer, the 1957 Houston winner who is after his sixth title of the year, collected his 66 with a front nine 30 and a par 36 on the back nine.

Collins, playing in the same threesome with Ragan, went out in 31 and came in in 35.

Ragan, a 24-year-old from Orlando, Fla., had a 36-31—67 but his putting on the first green made him the most talked-about player of the day.

Gophers Bid For Third Title in Row

By The Associated Press

Minnesota, perking with a 14-4 pre-season record and a 12-game winning streak, opens its quest for a third straight Big Ten baseball championship in a full round of conference games this weekend.

The Gophers were to open today in a home game against Michigan State and play host to Michigan in a doubleheader Saturday.

Red, Ted, Stan and Yogi

Gallant Old Pros Get Off to Good Starts

New York — All those old fears for Red Schoendienst, Ted Williams, Stan Musial and Yogi Berra were unfounded, it appears today.

Before the season's start, professional weepers were writing obituaries for these gallant old pros. It turns out they're premature.

Schoendienst, a kayo victor over tuberculosis, looks like his old self in the field at second base for Milwaukee and his .341 batting average is sufficient proof that he hasn't lost his eye at the plate.

Musial, to the delight of all except opposing pitchers, is batting .333 with three home runs and nine runs batted in all impressive outputs in the view of his limited number of games. The same for Berra, who is batting a lousy .545 with seven runs batted in in only three games.

Williams has been sidelined most of the infant season with a pulled leg muscle, but he indicated he is on the way back by poling a pair of home runs in the only two starts he's made with Boston.

Record 1-Sided Triumphs in Little Nine Tilts

Freedom and Denmark Stay Tied for Lead

Freedom and Denmark stayed tied for the Little Nine conference Eastern division lead Thursday with 1-sided triumphs. The Irish bombed Hilbert, 19-8, while the Vikings crushed Wrightstown, 16-6.

Vern Bowers and Jim Brockman divided Freedom pitching duties. Bowers yielded five runs (three unearned) on three hits and no walks, over the first four innings. He struck out four. Brockman gave up three runs on two hits.

The Irish went on top in the first on just one hit—Dick Brown's single, three walks and three errors, for five runs. They scored five more in the second when Jim Springstroh rapped a 2-run triple, and added four in the third and five in the fourth.

All 19 Runs

Ron Harder allowed all 19 runs on nine hits in the first four innings. Clare Ott finished, yielding no runs on two hits in the last three frames.

Denmark's Paul Shusta toiled all the way. The right hander gave up five hits and six walks, fanning nine. Dick Menozzi and Richie West divided Wrightstown chores. Menozzi, the loser, gave up all 16 runs on 10 hits and three walks in the first six stanzas.

West retired the side on four pitches in the seventh.

The Vikes went on top to stay in the second with three runs on singles by Paul Shusta and Gerry Piescher and two errors. Jim Schumacher jolted a 3-run Denmark double in the third and "Buddy" Gerrits hit a 2-run 2-bagger for Wrightstown in the fifth.

Program Set for Foxes' First Home Game Saturday Cedar Rapids Tilt Postponed; Team Ends Road Trip Tonight

The Fox Cities Foxes, who ran into their first postponement of the season Thursday night in Cedar Rapids, will conclude their initial road trip of 1960 tonight against the Braves. Last night's game was called because of rain.

The Foxes return here Saturday for their home opener at Goodland field.

Saturday night's program will get under way between 7:30 and 7:45. The Foxes' game against Burlington begins at 8 p.m.

Foxes President Ray McCone will make the welcoming remarks. Among those to be introduced are the managers and players of both teams, mayors and other municipal leaders, recreation department and Little league representatives.

The Catholic War Veterans will raise the flag. Len Handstet will be soloist for the singing of the national anthem.

The assignment of the "first ball" pitcher and catcher has not been made, but at least two municipal chiefs will participate.

The Appleton city band will entertain at the game. Colorful bunting and signs will decorate the park.

Frank Briske, special events program chairman for the Foxes, is in charge.

Only add program set 236-3 Sp.

If rain forces postponement of the home opener Saturday night, booster buttons will be honored at either Sunday afternoon or Sunday evening's games.

Business Manager Bob Willis said today. Sunday's tilts are also with Burlington.

NOTES and NOTIONS John L. Rusten

Here's the first report for Green Bay Packer officials and fans on Dale Hackbart's baseball progress. And, it's not too encouraging—that is, from the Packer viewpoint.

In 10 pre-conference games, the lanky outfielder hit .383, with 17 RBIs and four home runs. He also used his considerable speed to steal five bases. If Dale continues at this kind of pace, he, of course, will be a good bet for a major league contract, with an attractive bonus rider. That, in turn, would likely strap Packer efforts to sign Hackbart as a defensive backfield specialist. Of course, it remains to be seen how Hackbart will hit against Big 10 pitching (the Badgers open against Northwestern this weekend), which figures to be a little better than that he faced in exhibition play.

Cornell college's Ron Altenberg, who showed Lawrence basketball fans some spectacular shot-making in the last three seasons, was picked by the Cincinnati Royals in the recent pro draft.

When Green Bay visits Goodland field this season, fans will get a chance to compare the base-stealing artistry of the Dodgers' Willie Fox and the Foxes' Bob Saverine. Fox led the Class A Sally league, with 29 steals last year. Saverine's 36 topped the Class D Appalachian league. In addition, the Foxes have Frank Montgomery who pilfered 30 in the Class C Northern league.

Four former Foxes started for Charleston of the American association in its opening 1960 game. They are "Zorro" Versalles, shortstop "Sandy" Valdespino, centerfield, Jimmy Hall, left; and Hank Marockie, right.

George Phelps, all-Midwest conference fullback from Cornell, says he'll decide by June whether to give pro ball a try. He has been drafted by St. Louis of the NFL and Denver, of the AFL. Phelps, who's also quite a hurdler, reveals that his father has watched him compete only once in three years. George says he doesn't resent this seeming indifference, adding "Dad just doesn't believe in making a big thing out of athletics."

It's been all or nothing for Cedar Rapids baseball fans lately. In 1957, the club fished last in the Three-I league cellar. . . In 1958, the Braves won the championship. . . Last year, it was back to the cellar. Could mean another big season in '60.

It's improbable now that Tommy Aaron will play in the Three-I league this year—unless he fails to hit with Jacksonville of the Class A Sally league. The Braves moved him from Cedar Rapids to Jacksonville after a great spring training. . . There is also little likelihood that Dave Nicholson will be sent here by Baltimore. The latest word on the $100,000 bonus youth is that he will be recalled by the parent club if he fails to hit triple A pitching in the first month. His third, and last, option could then be saved till next year. But, if he solves international league hurling, "Nick" would stay at Miami.

Neenah Re-enters Valley Legion Loop Replaces Little Chute; Season Slated to Begin June 11

After a 2-year absence, Neenah has re-entered the Fox River Valley American Legion Junior Baseball league.

The berth granted to Neenah here Thursday night was the one vacated by Little Chute. The league voted to grant Little Chute a leave of absence.

This will be the first season in five that both Menasha and Neenah will have Legion entries the same year. In the interim, the "inactive" city provided some of the players for the "active" franchise.

Rounding out the 16-team league will be Appleton, New London, Kaukauna, Winneconne, Kimberly, Clintonville, De Pere, Sturgeon Bay, Algoma, Kewaunee, Oshkosh, Mayville, Fond du Lac and Green Bay.

League play will begin June 11. Each team will play 14 games. The champions of the Northern and Southern divisions will meet in a best-of-3 playoff for the overall title.

The all-star game will be played in Oshkosh July 17. Last year's all-star contest was held in Kimberly.

Frank Warner was reelected to his fourteenth term as league president. Bob Beltrone was re-named league statistician.

Starr Signs For Fifth Bay Campaign Parallel Exists Between His Career And John Unitas'

BY ART DALEY Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — When Bart Starr started to puzzle enemy defenses during the Packers' season ending 4-game winning streak, last year he was compared to John Unitas, Colt phenom.

That was a high compliment, indeed, since general Starr John had led the Baltimore Colts to two consecutive world titles.

Thus, it is fitting today—the day Starr has signed a contract for his fifth Packer campaign — to emphasize a parallel between Unitas and Starr.

The two, who are built along the same lines, 6-1 and 195, got their official recognition start in the same place—Chicago's Wrigley field, home of the Bears.

Called Off Bench On Oct. 21, 1956, the Bears' disoriented George Shaw, then the Colts' QB ace, and Unitas was called off the bench. John hasn't lost the football since—other than missing a couple of games with injuries the Colts lost that game 58 to 27.

On Nov. 8, 1959, the Packers' Lamar McHan injured his leg just before the half. Starr was yanked off the bench and he hasn't been replaced since. The Packers lost the game, 27 to 17, but Bart moved the club downfield three times, only to be stopped on the 1-yard line twice.

Starr came face to face with Unitas in Milwaukee the following Sunday and the Colts came off with a thrilling 28-24 victory. That game "made" Bart and Coach Vince Lombardi pointed out, "now I know I have two good quarterbacks."

Starr won the next four games — Redskins, Lions, Rams and 49ers. Right now, he shapes up as the Bays' big hope at QB for '60.

Bart is back for his fifth season. He broke in under Tobin Rote in 1957 and shared the job with "Babe" Parilli in 1958.

Appleton Legion Baseball Squad Grows to 54 Ten more boys signed up Thursday for the Appleton Legion Junior baseball team —bringing the total of candidates to 54.

Existing records show this is the largest turnout in local Legion history, according to Manager Bob Beltrone.

The team's next practice will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the American Legion grounds. Additional registrations will also be accepted at that time.

Beltrone is seeking more coaching help because of the large turnout of players. He asks interested persons to contact him.

Giants Win, Stay Game Behind Bucs

Spahn, Burdette Still Work Hard Despite New Rotation Policy

Buhl Gets Starting Call Tonight Against Phillies Milwaukee — (AP) — Braves Manager Charlie Dressen has installed a new pitching rotation for his Milwaukee moundsmen but it adds up to the same thing for his veteran aces—Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette.

They are getting as much work as ever.

With 11 games played and Milwaukee holding a 6-5 mark, Spahn and Burdette who had identical 21-15 records last year, are being used in the key mound roles for the Braves.

They are getting more rest between starting assignments but they are being called upon for relief roles more often than they have in the past. As a result, between them they have worked in eight of the 11 games played.

Three Days of Rest Manager Fred Haney, Dressen's predecessor used Spahn and Burdette with three days rest between games. Dressen has been giving them four or more days rest between games but has them in the bullpen ready for what he calls "long relief duty."

"This way they won't get dull with all those days off

Bob Friend Blanks Phils On 4 Hits

By The Associated Press The Pittsburgh Pirates have made it seven, extending the season's longest winning streak behind Bob Friend, the missing winner of last year's failure.

The right-hander who lost his first seven and wound up the biggest loser (8-19) in the National league when the Bucs flopped to fourth last season, pitched his second 4-hit shutout and won his third without defeat Thursday as the Pirates beat Philadelphia, 3-0.

Cepeda Injured That left the Pirates, matching their longest success string since 1953, when they, finished second, a game ahead of San Francisco. The Giants beat Los Angeles, 7-5, in the only other NL game scheduled, but lost slugger Orlando Cepeda.

The big outfielder was struck behind the right ear by shortstop Maury Wills' peg to first on an attempted double play. Cepeda was carried off on a stretcher, but X-rays showed no fracture.

Friend, 29, struck out seven.

Packers Say It's Too Late To Add Seats

Green Bay — (AP) — The Green Bay Packers Thursday rejected an invitation to resume negotiations for construction of an additional 5,000 seats at City stadium.

Dominic Olejniczak, Packers president, told the City Stadium commission in a letter there was not sufficient time to add the seats before the 1960 season.

He suggested that negotiations be considered "far in advance so as to provide sufficient time for 1961 construction."

The commission proposed to pay $100,000 for the seat construction, but asked the Packers to pay additional rental of $20,000 for 10 years. The Packers refused to pay more than $140,000 in extra rental over a 10-year period.

Other 3 Teams on Road Viking Trackmen Play Host to Beloit, Ripon

All four Lawrence college spring sports teams turned in promising debuts last week end but only one — the track unit — found the victory combination. Another full weekend for all four is on tap Saturday.

The trackmen, winners in a quadrangular with Ripon, Stevens Point and Oshkosh State, are home for the second straight Saturday. They welcome Beloit and Ripon for a triangular at Whiting field. The field events will start at 1:30 p.m. and the track events at 2.

The tennis, golf and baseball clubs are all on the road Saturday. The netters and the golfers visit Beloit. The baseball team opens its Midwest conference season with a doubleheader at St. Olaf.

Beloit will probably be favored in the track meet. The Bucs defeated Lawrence, 55-45, in an indoor dual meet a month ago, but needed a victory in the final (relay) event for the triumph. Beloit captured the Monmouth relays last weekend.

Ace Half-Miler The Bucs' Rick Chase is a half-miler in the 1:55 class and will be a heavy favorite to win. Beloit quarter-miler Flodin, the defending conference champion, has broken 50 seconds and may shatter the Whiting field record (49.2). His chief competition will likely come from Ripon's Jim Tichy, who triumphed here last weekend in 51.7.

Craig Miller of Beloit coped the high jump, broad jump and high hurdles in the indoor meet with Lawrence.

Other Threats Among the other outstanding individuals due to compete here are: Ripon's Carl Wurl (of Clintonville) in the shot put and discus; and Law-

Sloppy Weather Can WEAR OUT YOUR CAR

It's a good idea to lubricate your car more often during sloppy weather. Moisture and grit get into vital parts and can cause excess wear. Regular lubrication forces the moisture and grit out of bearings and fittings and keeps your car running better — longer. Why not make a date to have your car greased today?

The Lawrence college "L" club is doing its bit towards keeping the college well represented in athletics after current members of the letter-men's organization are gone. Under the direction of Rick Ramsey and John Dunning, the group has sponsored a couple open house-type affairs in which about 40 high school athletes have visited the campus. The first one, held this winter, was on a weekend in which both the basketball and wrestling teams had home contests. The second, last Saturday, included attendance at a quadrangular track meet and tennis match here.

Ungrödt Here Among the athletes here Saturday were Mancer Cyr and Joel Ungrödt of the state champion Wausau High school basketball team. Incidentally, Ungrödt once lived in Appleton—when his father was headquartered here with Employers Mutual. Other prep stars who toured the Lawrence campus last weekend included: Tom Kottke, Dick Heiss and Cal Klues of the strong 1959 Appleton High football team, and Bon-duel's Steve Nault. Pete Jacobs, Lawrence quarterback-end in the early 1950s, had a prospective student-athlete up for the day from Janesville and several youngsters came here from as far away as Chicago and Minneapolis.

California QB Crow Quits College Ball, Signs With Oakland, Calif.—Wayne Crow, considered the top man in the University of California backfield, gave up college football Wednesday and signed with the Oakland Raiders of the American Football league. The 22-year-old senior, quarterback on last year's squad, said he asked for a contract because he needed the money. He received a 1-year pact and left the Bears with the blessings of new Coach Marv Levy. Y. C. Soda, Raider president and general manager, said the club tried to persuade Crow to finish school and put a clause in the contract stipulating that part of his salary will go for furthering his education.

Kimberly native Bill Wood, former basketball - baseball player at Lawrence, had a rough debut in the coaching field during the past basketball season. Here for the Easter weekend with his wife, the former Carol Hoffman of Menasha, Wood related that his Gladstone, Mich., quintet won just one game. Bill was forced to cut a couple of regulars early in the season for disciplinary reasons, and that hurt. Almost his entire squad is returning and Wood looks for brighter results next year. He's seeking a summer job in this area.

Walking around punching his own stopwatch during the Lawrence track quadrangular Saturday was former Appleton High mile star Don Loker. AHS school record-holder Loker, a freshman pointing for a mathematics degree at the University of Wisconsin, hadn't done any running outdoors, he said, up to this week.

Win Jones, the great Lawrence distance runner of four seasons ago, has had several of his hilarious cartoons published in Esquire and other magazines with national circulation. Jones is now teaching art in Barrington, Ill.

Jerry Grunski's successor as Clintonville High school basketball coach, Carl Bruggink, captained the Grunski-coached Oostburg High school basketball team four seasons ago. Carl, now a senior at LaCrosse State college, has been basketball manager there three years.

Appleton High grad Grunski isn't sure yet whether he'll be head coach or assistant at a school of 3,000 students in Highland Park, Ill.

Appleton's Bob Goemans, coach of the Green Bay University of Wisconsin extension basketball team, will study towards his doctorate degree at the UW's Madison campus this summer. Bob, Terror basketball star in the early 1950s, now lives here on weekends and in Green Bay during the week.

He was a concessions vendor at Goodland field last summer—before and after the UW summer session—and may do the same thing this year. Bob already has a master's degree.

Wittenberg High school is seeking football games on Sept. 9 or 10 and Sept. 23 or 24. The Maroons would like home games next fall and are willing to play a return in 1961, according to Principal James LaPlant.

Missoula (Mont.) of the Pioneer league, the class C farm of the Washington Senators while the Nats were working with the Fox Cities, have also switched working agreements. Missoula is now in the Cincinnati farm system.

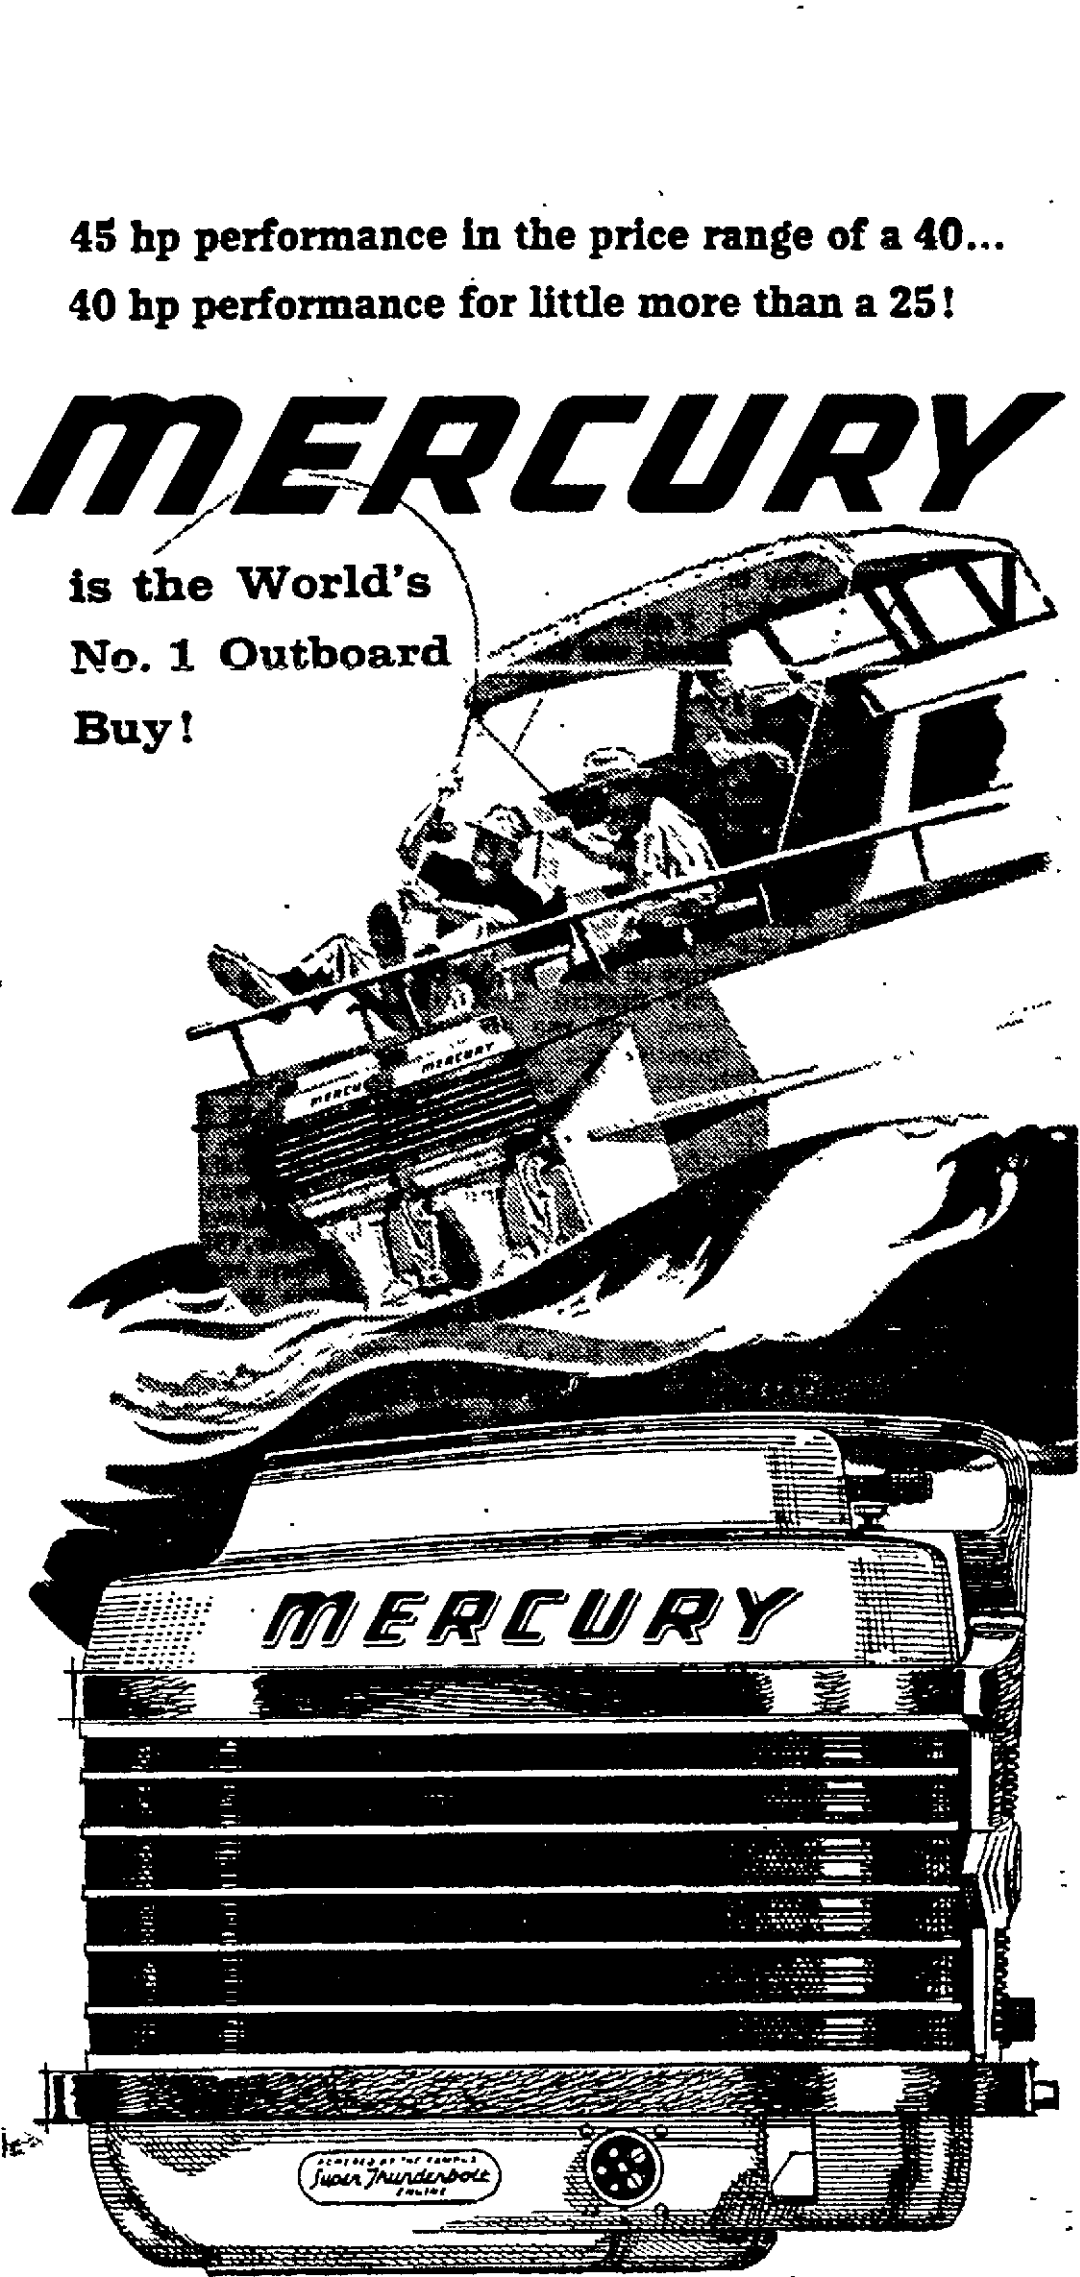

The Three-I's Lincoln Chiefs plan some promotions in the tradition of Bill Veck of the parent Chicago White Sox. The Chiefs' names will be on the backs of their home uniforms. Lincoln outfielder "Pug" Williamson had a horrendous fielding average as Chiefs' third baseman last year. Williamson committed 42 errors for a .791 mark. In 31 games as an outfielder, he fielded .855. His batting average was .263.

Two former Green Bay Bluejays had impressive season debuts the other day. Frank Howard whacked a homer in his first plate appearance for Spokane of the Pacific Coast league. Doug Camilli thumped seven hits in his first 10 at bats for Atlanta of the Southern association.

Catholic Settlers in Greenville, Stephenville Date From 1850

Now Includes New Grade School

By Mrs. Clarence Schueler
Greenville — The exact date of the first religious services in Greenville and Stephenville is not known. It is said that about 1850, the first Catholic settlers came here. These early settlers walked to the nearest Catholic church at Little Chute and later to Appleton to attend divine services.

As the number of Catholic families increased to about 50, priests came to Greenville. The first mass was said in Greenville sometime during the summer of 1855. The celebrant was either Father Kane or Father Fusseder at the home of a Mr. Woods. Later the services were held in a log school house located across the road from the present John Knapstein residence. At times, the mass was celebrated in the A. Becher home.

At times it was almost impossible to obtain the services of a pastor. One of the early settlers, Michael Wolter, recorded that he had made painful and hazardous journeys through the woods to secure a priest.

Priests who visited these people during the earlier years were Fathers Kane, Fusseder, DeBecke and Dale or Dehl.

Land Donated
In 1858, Andrew Strupf donated three acres and 18 rods of land to be used for church site and cemetery purposes. Mathias Knapstein purchased an additional acre of land from Andrew Strupf, and presented it to the parish.

On May 31, 1869, the Rev. Andrew Seubert was appointed pastor of Greenville and Stephenville. He also attended Center as a mission.

The congregation of St. Patrick church at Stephenville was organized in 1860 by the missionary priest, Father Joseph R. Hermon. The church was dedicated in 1867, the first mass being celebrated after its completion by Father Hermon. The first regular pastor was Father Seubert.

On March 29, 1869, Easter Monday, Bishop Melcher, assisted by Father Nussbaum and Father Wilkens consecrated and dedicated the church in Greenville to the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

Father Seubert boarded at the home of Michael Wolter. The rectory was completed in 1869 for $785. At the same time he furnished the church with many necessary articles. In May, 1870, he was transferred to Maple Grove.

The second pastor at St. Mary was Father Untereiner from May 26 to Sept. 4, 1870. Father Untereiner had not succeeded Father Froehlich. His generosity prompted him to donate the piece of land north of the rectory to the parish. It is on this piece of land on which the present new school is built.

Build Rectory
It was during this pastorate the present rectory was built.

Many of the trees on the property and especially all the trees on the cemetery and those on the west property line were planted by Father Huitink. Father Huitink was transferred to Coopers-town in October, 1899.

The Rev. J. Schwartzmeyer ministered for about one month and then the Rev. A. Garthaus was appointed pastor.

It was during this pastorate the original 1-room school was enlarged to a 2-classroom building with the addition of a second story which was used as a hall. The building was completed in 1904 and served the parish until last December when classes opened in the new school.

In April, 1907, the Rev. John Rohlinger became pastor. He was succeeded by the Rev. Edward Schimberg in October, 1910.

There are a great many converts in St. Mary and St. Patrick parishes today who were received by Father Schimberg.

In 1913, Father Schimberg hired a Mr. Scherer of Appleton to decorate the church. The painting of the ceiling as well as the stations as seen today in St. Mary are those of Father Schimberg's ideas and Scherer's work. In 1914, Father Schimberg hired the School Sisters of Notre Dame to teach. The rectory was remodelled also.

Priest Dies
On Jan. 30, 1926, Father Schimberg died. His funeral was February 3, in St. Mary church. He is the only priest buried in St. Mary cemetery.

The Rev. Leonard, O. F. M., Cap., of Appleton, took charge of the two parishes until the Rev. Raymond Schauer arrived June 15, 1926. Father Schauer served St. Mary and St. Patrick longer than any other priest. He remained in Greenville until May, 1942, when he was transferred to St. Mary parish of Brillion and the Rev. Peter Skell became pastor.

Father Skell remained in Greenville until April, 1945, when the bishop transferred him to St. Boniface parish in West De Pere. For the next five years St. Mary and St. Patrick were under the guidance of Father Lawrence Loerke and a new entrance was built onto St. Patrick church to include an ushers' room and a mothers' room.

On Sept. 7, 1950, Father Loerke was transferred to

Off-Street Lot Offered City

Propose New Meter Arrangement in Kimball-Alton Lot

A new off-street parking lot, offered to the city Wednesday, and a rearrangement of meters to gain 11 more stalls in the Kimball-Alton-Morrison lot will be recommended to the city council by the public safety committee.

Offered to the city for off-street parking is a 63 by 120-foot lot at 127 S. Walnut street, for $22,734. The city is to assume 1960 taxes and raze an old building.

The property is part of the Liethen estate, owned by Mrs. J. P. Kline, Kaukauna, and her sister-in-law Mrs. Liethen.

Committeemen figure 26 cars could be parked on the lot, making the price per stall $875. The city has paid as high as $1,800 a stall, it was pointed out.

One Drive
Only drawback to the property is that it has only one driveway into it, which would have to serve as both entrance and exit. Separate entrances and exits are preferred for off-street lots, but committeemen thought some adjoining property might be obtained in the future so separate points of ingress and egress could be had.

Financing the lot at this time poses a problem, committee members said, because nothing is provided in Shawano and the Rev. James Kelly came from Florence. From September, 1951 to the following January a new addition to the school was made.

Indoor toilets were built for the children and a passageway leading from the school to the convent.

The Rev. Mathias Alt was appointed in June, 1953, when Father Kelly was transferred to Two Rivers. On Thanksgiving day, 1953, Father Alt, as the bishop's representative, blessed the sisters' chapel, and on the following Saturday, mass was offered for the first time in the chapel.

Father Alt also had the interior of St. Mary church repainted and the paintings and the stations were cleaned.

Father Alt asked the bishop to relieve him of active duties and on Sept. 4, 1957, Father Alt moved to his home in Surging.

The Rev. Norbert Vande Loo was appointed and has directed the building of a new school.

this year's budget for new lots. Owners of the land said they would accept a reasonable down payment and the balance on time payments.

Mr. and Mrs. Kline attended the committee's meeting, accompanied by Fred Eustice, chairman of the chamber of commerce parking committee.

Les Van Roy, parking meter supervisor, proposed the new arrangement on the Kimball-Alton-Morrison lot. He said there is seven feet of unused ground between the south edge of the lot and the street.

If all meters were moved south the drive into the lot at the middle of the block could be widened, gaining back seven stalls which had to be eliminated to provide turn lanes from the narrow drive into the northeast part of the lot.

Friday, April 29, 1960 Appleton Post-Crescent A20
Four more stalls could be gained, he said, by adding one at the end of each of four north-south rows in the northeast section of the lot.
A low bid of $16,835 by Duncan Parking Meter Company, Chicago, for 310 new meters was accepted.

Union President Sees No Reason

For Any Strikes

Pulp, Sulphite Union Head Speaks to Labor, Management

Menasha — Pride that the pulp and paper industry in this area has not had a strike of any consequence for a long time was expressed by John P. Burke, president of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, in his talk at the 10th annual labor-management dinner at the Elks club Thursday night.

Speaking to the 360 at the dinner, comprised of union members and the top management who were taken out to dinner by the workers, Burke said he saw no reason why that policy could not continue.

"What has the worker got to strike for?" he asked. He read the pay scale for 1933 set up in the NRA codes for the pulp and paper industry which called for a base pay of 38 cents an hour for men and 33 cents an hour for women.

Cites Gains
"We have just renewed an agreement with Marathon here which sets the base rate at $2.05 an hour for the 8-hour workers and $2.15 an hour for the 6-hour workers. Men who work six hours — that's just setting up exercises," Burke joked.

"We have secured vacations with pay, paid holidays, old age pensions, group and hospital insurance in the last 27 years. There is nothing to strike about with such conditions as these," the international union president declared.

He mentioned that workers with 25 years of employment at Marathon get four weeks of paid vacation and seven at paid holidays. "That's five home, and Orrin, Tampa weeks' pay for no service rendered."

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday at the Westgor Funeral home with the Rev. John C. Hanchett, pastor of the First Congregational church, in charge. Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Sunday. Survivors include one daughter, Miss Lela Johnson, at home; two sons, Ward, at home; and Orrin, Tampa Fla.; two grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Clergymen Shared in the Labor-Management dinner program and spoke briefly. Left to right are the Rev. John C. Hanchett, pastor of First Congregational church, Menasha, the Rev. Lawrence Stingle, pastor of St. Gabriel's Catholic church, Neenah, and Robert Huebner, labor council vice president and dinner vice chairman. Greeting each other below are John Shank, Sartell, Minn., international representative of the Pulp, Sulphite union, and Roy J. Sund, American Can company vice president and director and general manager of its Marathon division.

Upsets Rule Of Insurance For Sports

Judge Arps Gives Decision in Case Against Menasha

Oshkosh — Compulsory accident insurance, as required by the Menasha board of education of all students taking part in competitive sports, has been ruled unreasonable and beyond the board's power by Circuit Judge Helmut F. Arps.

Judge Arps' decision in the case brought Nov. 18 by Atty. Thomas A. Woodrow, Palsades road, town of Menasha, on behalf of his wife, Joyce, was filed Thursday in the circuit court office in the courthouse here.

Judge Arps' conclusion states: "It appears to the court that the rule of the board of education . . . is unreasonable and clearly beyond its power to prescribe as a condition of permitting pupils of the Menasha public school system to engage in competitive athletics."

His decision further stated that the city of Menasha and board of education must accede to Woodrow's demand that his children be permitted to engage in the sports if they wish but without being required to carry an accidental injury policy issued by

Sanitary District Meet Set for May 11

Town of Menasha Board Picks May 23 for Water Supply Hearing

Menasha — An informational meeting to advise residents of the eastern or Maplewood section of the town of Menasha about what lies ahead regarding sewage disposal has been set for May 11.

The informational meeting will be at 8 p.m. that evening at the Fox Cooperative auditorium, the town of Menasha board decided Thursday night.

Possible solutions and the costs will be outlined so residents can decide the course they want to follow. Both the cities of Neenah and Menasha have advised the town board that they are declining to receive the town's sewage at their jointly owned sewage disposal plant.

Inadequate capacity to handle this sewage was cited as the reason by the two cities.

Water District Hearing
The board set 8 p.m. May 23 at the Spring Road school for a formal hearing on the petition to create a sanitary district to provide water service to the Spring Road school and the area immediately north of it.

Gravel bids were awarded to both Courtney and Plummer, Inc., and Badger Highways, Inc., which submitted a price of $4.85 per cubic yard each.

The town board also set May 9 for a zoning meeting their work in the hospital expansion drive and also for their work in the Community Chest, which labor started.

Highlighting the 10th Annual Labor-Management dinner sponsored by the Neenah-Menasha Labor council Thursday night at the Elks club was the talk by John P. Burke, center, president of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper mill workers. With him are Rufin Skibba, left, Labor council president and dinner chairman, and Henry J. Young, right, toastmaster.

Union Workers Took Their Bosses out to dinner Thursday night. Attending from John Strange Paper company above were, seated, left to right, L. A. Blume, company treasurer; John Sarnowski, Local 273 president; and J. H. Levandoski, company president and general manager, and standing, Joseph Kubicka, general superintendent, and Delbert Schultz, union vice president. ## Clergymen Speak Begin, End Negotiations With Prayer, Unions, Employers Advised Menasha — The importance of the individual and the need for reliance upon God was stressed by the two Twin City clergymen who spoke briefly at the 10th annual Labor-Management dinner sponsored by the Neenah-Menasha Labor council at the Elks club Thursday night.

The Rev. John C. Hanchett, pastor of the First Congregational church, said the emphasis today is on the individual and we can no longer say that the individual be damned whether he is labor, management or the consumer.

Calling attention to the relations between union and management as symbolized by the dinner, he said they are united around togetherness and no longer use clubs against each other but use love.

The Rev. Lawrence Stingle, pastor of St. Gabriel's Catholic church, said a dinner such as this could not happen in Russia. "They can brag about their shots to the moon but they cannot brag about something like this."

He urged both management and union in their deliberations and negotiations to begin and end with prayer, even if only a silent prayer each according to his own creed. "If labor and management pray together, they will stay together."

Extends Welcome
The welcome to the unions and management guests was extended by Rufin Skibba, Labor council president and chairman for the dinner. "We live in a community where people are neighbors and respect each other as such. I don't know of another community where labor and management get together and accomplish the things we have done for the 10th annual event."

The idea for such a dinner began with Al Kass and John Arnold, former Labor council officers, Skibba commented. Up to now speakers have represented both labor and management, but beginning this year both labor and management committees will agree on a subject and labor will select the speaker.

Henry Young, vice president and treasurer of Harwood Products corporation, who served as toastmaster, praised labor for constantly helping to promote and inaugurate ideas for civic betterment. He thanked them for

Rockets Sweep 4 Events; Topple Bluejays 87½-30½

Stilp, Schaefer Cop Double Wins; Latter Sets New Mark In Lows; Hots Take Dashes

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY

Menasha — Scoring grand slams in four events, including both weights, Neenah's track squad rambled over Menasha 87½ to 30½ Thursday afternoon at the Calder field track.

The Rockets who meet strong Two Rivers at home Monday afternoon, now have a dual win and a third in a triangular for their 1960 efforts. The Jays have two dual losses and a third place in a 3-way meet.

The Rockets swept all three places in the shot put, discus, mile and 880. They won 11 firsts and tied for a 12th. Menasha, always strong in the dashes, continued its domination of the short events by winning both the 100 and 220. Neenah speared both relays. Neenah produced the only double winner in Jerry Schaefer, who topped the high and low hurdles, and Mowry Stilp, easy winner in the shot and discus.

Neenah Winners
Schaefer set a new school record in the 180-yard low hurdles, winning in 21.5. His previous record was 21.55 set last year and tied last week. Schaefer won the lows in 15.5, which is just a tenth of a second off his school standard.

Other Neenah winners were Dale Howe, 440; Mike Lintner, 880; Len Peterson, pole vault; Joan Powell, mile, and Dave Burton, high jump.

Menasha wins went to Bill Gerhard in the 100 and Dave Ristau 220. Freshman Dave Neubauer of Neenah and Menasha's Dexter Belot tied for a win in the broad jump, both going 19 feet. Below also garnered seconds in both hurdles and the high jump.

The closest race of the afternoon was registered in the 220, won by Ristau in the good time of 23.9. Neenah sophomore Winn Zimmerman was just a tenth of a second off Ristau's time. Gerhard was third.

Zimmerman also was sandwiched between Gerhard and Ristau in the 100, won by the former in 10.6.

Stilp pitched the shot 50 feet, 9 inches, the best effort ever turned in at the Menasha field and a throw which just was 2½ inches off the school mark set by the Rocket junior last week. Dick Koehn was second and Jim Winters third.

Stilp won the discus with a fine toss of 138 feet, 2 inches. Lintner took second with a 132 foot, 8 inch-throw and Zimmerman was third at 115 feet, 11 inches.

Both hurdles races ended the same. Schaefer won handily with Below second and Neenah's Winters third.

Below, who had been shuttling across the field all afternoon from the high hurdles, to the broad jump, to low hurdles and then to the high jump, tied Neubauer for first in the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet on his final try. Ristau finished third.

Easily Wins 880

Lintner easily won the 880 in 2:04.8, the best mark ever registered in the Neenah-Menasha series. Tom Catlin was second and Tom Farin, third. The mile went to Powell in 5:14.2 by a goodly margin over Marshall Anderson. Here the battle was for third place where Jay Hoover edged Menasha's Jim Swiechowski by a whisker.

Burton won the high jump with a leap of 5 feet, 6½ inches. Howe won a close race in the 440 copping in 57.8. Menasha freshman Bob Klapper was a close second. Peterson's winning hoist in the pole vault was 9 feet.

Relay Victories
The Rockets won both relays without too much difficulty. Quarter-miler Steve DenDoooven got the winners off to a good start in the medley and the rest of the Rocket back was able to maintain the advantage. The winning time was 3:57.9.

The teams were almost even after the first 440 of the spring relay but Lintner had a big lead at the three-quarter mark and Zimmerman managed to hold it over Ristau, Bluejay anchor man. The time was 1:37.9.

A Red Brick, White siding and redwood exterior, adequate outside lighting and many wide windows give the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Merkley, 513 Chatham court, Neenah, an air of gracious hospitality.

Post-Crescent Plans

Years of Planning Went Into Ronald Merkley Home in Neenah

BY MARION DREW

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Neenah — Plans for the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Merkley, 513 Chatham court, were chosen from plans shown in the Post-Crescent five years ago. The Merkleys had been planning on build-new houses. Three large openings on the left of the front door provide lighted at blueprints until they for the foyer and gives a found the particular plan uniquely attractive appearance.

The brick and redwood exterior, with its unusual en-flourishing planter separate terrace is beautifully situated on a large lot surrounded by room. Large and light, with square openings on the left of the front door provide light-

Tennessee stone at one end of the wall when not in use. The room is flanked by two fireside chairs of green with silver threads. The stone has a grain very much like wood and is not often seen in this area.

Serenity

With a brown sectional sofa, placed against the planter at the other end of the room, attractive tables and a comfortably upholstered gold-colored chair, a hi-fi and pictures of French street scenes, the room gives an impression of serenity.

A dining area off the living room has another large window. The kitchen, done in tones of creamy beige and dark red has completely modern equipment, a desk, telephone and another dining area used for breakfasts.

The family room, down a shallow stairway, has an entrance onto a large grassy patio. A powder room, done in lemon yellow, is also off this room. With one wall equipped with shelves and cabinets, with sliding doors for storage, TV, a comfortable davenport upholstered in dark red, a grey leather chair and large lamps, this is the most "lived-in" room in the house. The floor is a stunning terrazzo tile, which also is used in the kitchen and entrance hall, and is "no trouble to take care of."

At the top of the stairway to the second floor is a recessed gun cabinet, with concealed lighting, holding Merkley's gun collection.

Walk-in Closets One of the Merkley's requirements was ample closet space and the house has many walk-in closets as well as a tremendous cedar closet off the master bedroom. This room, done in Bermuda Turquoise, is large and light, with views of the countryside in two directions.

Bill Merkley, 16, the son of the house, has another large airy room, with desk and typewriter and tremendous closets. The guest room is smaller but adequate.

One of the unusual features in the shell pink bathroom is the clothes chute built in under the washstand, concealed by sliding doors.

Among the many conveniences are the aluminum window frames. Screens and storm windows are exchanged on the inside of the house, with the one sliding up into

Winneconne League Chooses Officers

Winneconne — Mrs. Paul Steinpreis was elected president of the T and W Women's Bowling league at the dinner Wednesday night at Robin's restaurant at Oshkosh.

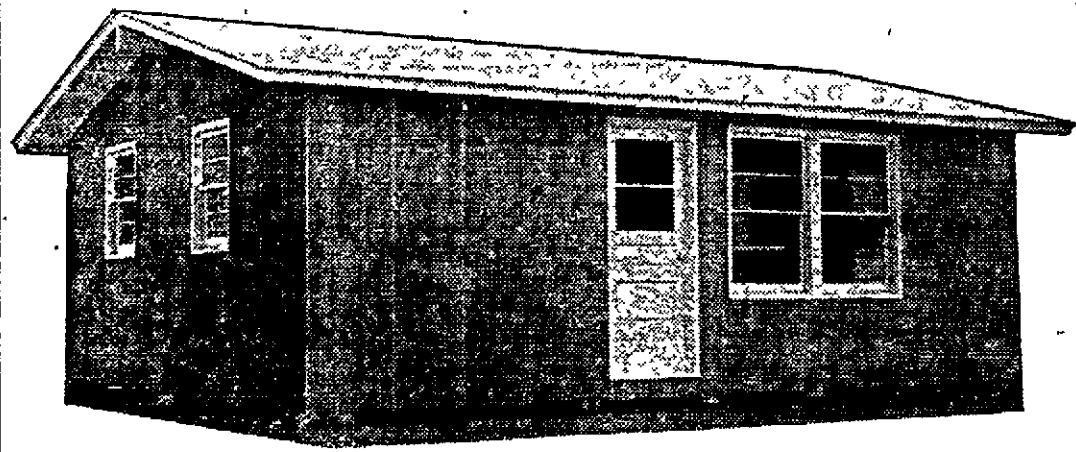

Other officers are Mrs. Letha Westphal, vice president; Mrs. Reinhold Reetz, secretary; Mrs. Rosemary Milner, treasurer; and Mrs. Jo Ann Behm, sergeant-at-arms.

The Holz team won the championship for the sixth consecutive year. About 70 persons attended the dinner.

A Fireplace of Tennessee Stone, with a grain resembling wood, in tones of beige, tan and brown, geometric patterned draperies in the same tones and a beige carpet are highlighted with green fireside chairs, a yellow lounge chair and a brown sectional sofa. Mrs. Ronald Merkeley was her own decorator.

Map, Cards or Chalk Marks Used for Hiking Adventure

BY CAPPY DICK

If the members of a hiking party are not told where they are going, but will follow a blazed trail, the hike will be an exciting adventure.

To blaze the trail, some one must go over the route a day ahead of the hike, or at least a few hours ahead. With thumbtacks, he attaches small, red cards to trees and fences along the way. These cards give directions to the hikers. Where the trail turns, an arrow should be drawn on the card to show the direction of the turn. When the hikers come along, they remove each card.

Another way to lay out a trail is for some one to draw a detailed map of the route, showing unusual landmarks for which the hikers must watch. He indicates such things as a creek, an old windmill, a fallen tree, rail fence, sharp turn in the road, a bridge and so on. The hikers are given the map when they start out and check off the landmarks as they proceed. An "X" on the map will show where they are to make camp and eat.

A hobo hike, following a trail blazed with chalk marks on the sidewalks, is also fun.

Around the campfire the hikers can pretend to be big game hunters, each telling of his desperate struggle to capture some huge wild animal. The "animals" may be a mosquito, a burr, or a thorn from a bush, but the stories of the "captures" can be wildly imaginative.

Your Problems

Clyde's Wife Plays Truth or Consequences With Questioner

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: The other afternoon I was at home with a bad cold. The census taker came to the door and my wife asked him in. I heard their conversation from the next room. It was all I could do to stay in bed and keep out Ann Landers of it.

My wife told him one lie after the other. He asked her age and she blithely knocked off four years. She told him we have four children. We have two. She lied about my occupation (said I was an attorney).

After the man left I asked her why she did it. Her answer was "I hate people who ask personal questions. This is a free country and I don't have to answer if I don't want to."

Was my wife obliged to give the correct answers to the census taker or was it O.K. to have a little fun? — Clyde

Dear Clyde: The penalty for refusing to answer census questions is a $100 fine or 60 days in jail, or both. Any person who willfully gives false information can be fined $500, given a year in jail, or both.

Tell your wife she may not have heard the end of this. It's not smart to play Truth or Consequences with representatives of the federal government. The questions asked by the census taker are for the official record and it is essential that they get correct information.

DEAR ANN: My sister and I both have 16-year-old daughters. Rita, my sister's our responsibility. We love you and are going to do everything possible to see that you get off to a good start in life. We don't care what other parents decide is best for their kids. In our home we make the decisions. Nobody can set standards for us."

DEAR ANN: I'm no letter-writer, so please have patience. I met this girl at the plant where I work. She's married, has two kids and is unhappy at home. She says the kids drive her nuts and her husband is a lemon.

We've had a few long talks (no dates) and she's made it plain she could go for me in a big way. I find her exciting; in fact, downright fascinating. She said her husband would give her a divorce if she'd let him have the kids. (And she would.)

I'm 31, nobody's fool and I know the ropes. Could it work? — Lyle

Dear Lyle: What good is knowing the ropes if you wind up getting hanged? A married woman is off limits. Shorten those talks to "hello" and "goodbye."

Two events in May will assist the library program. At 8 p. m. on May 18 in the school commons a fashion show will be given, with mod-

Teach Children to Obey, Abide by Sports Rules

BY ANGELO PATRI

We in this country are sports lovers. We play if we can and if we can't we watch those who do and cheer ourselves hoarse at their exploits. Many a father longs to see his son a famous football player, a leader in some gallant fray and is disappointed when that boy cannot make the grade.

Sports are fine for young people. They take them out into the open and physically strengthen them and enable them to find good companions.

There are rules in every sport and when the players are taught to obey those rules scrupulously, they learn a splendid discipline. Too, they learn good sportsmanship. That is a proud title, Sportsman, and one could wish that all who would bear it could earn it by being just what it calls for: skilled, scrupulous in obeying the rules, helpful to fellow players, honest in accounting. Sadly enough this is not always so. Then the sport is not sport nor the player a sportsman.

It is so easy to add a point to the score, easy to argue that it went over when it just failed and the referee was doubtful; easy to cheat a good sportsman who takes for granted the other's rightness.

This sports play starts early when small boys organize to play football and baseball and mill around yelling for the greater part of the time. School takes them over soon and starts teaching them team play. That is a great help in disciplining the boys and girls so they learn the rules and abide by them. So far so good.

Youngsters Break Rules

Next step is the contest games between schools and right there the trouble starts. If the children are too young, as is often the case in the junior high schools, for contest play, they break rules, fight, mess things up generally. It is best to keep them on the home grounds and instill the rules of good sportsmanship in them so that when they reach the upper schools they abide by them.

Sports are fun only when they are played honestly. They are good for children and youth only when they are played by the rules, and scrupulously. Better lose than cheat because cheating is to tal loss.

Angelo Patri offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning child training. If you would like to have his leaflet "Crying Children," send 10 cents in coin to him, in care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

FOR OLD TIRED LINOLEUM

It's so easy to put new wear and life in old linoleum. A bright shining coat of Glaxo is the answer.

A Glaxo floor is glass like in appearance, yet is non slip. It practically cares for itself since it seals out dirt and a swish of the mop is all that's necessary. You don't wax a Glaxo floor. Make the old linoleum do with Glaxo.

SEAMS TO ME Sloper Can Save Time

By Patricia Scott

I'd hate to take a poll of the number of women who have given up making their clothes because of ill-fitting patterns. We may all like to blame the pattern companies for this, but let's face it, it's us and not the patterns, for they are made from standard measurements and each size is perfectly proportioned.

How many women fall into this flawless category? I certainly don't. In fact, I can safely say I am at least three different sizes. But this is no reason to give up sewing. Altering a pattern before cutting out the fabric is easy. With all basic patterns, it's a cinch.

If you use a basic one, you can alter the pattern to fit perfectly and then use it as a model to adjust any others you work on in the future. In the clothing manufacturing field this adjusted pattern is called a sloper. A sloper is not a necessity, but it is a saver of time.

There are many ways of altering patterns for different figure problems. So, from time to time I'll explain two or three, as I am doing today, until all have been covered.

I won't go into the shortening and lengthening of tops, skirts and sleeves because these procedures are illustrated on commercial patterns. Let's take, instead, a problem many of you luckier ladies have. If you are endowed with a bust proportionately larger than your other measurements, you have no doubt had trouble in finding a pattern that fits. Rather than buy a larger size to fit only the bust, as you may have been doing, and thus throwing everything else off kilter, choose the size closest to all of your measurements and enlarge the bustline to fit.

waist piece straight across the front below the end of the dart, from center frontline almost to the underarm; slash vertically from the top through the center of the shoulder dart down to the bottom edge. Lay over a sheet of paper. Spread pattern pieces the necessary amount and pin to the paper.

For pattern with underarm dart (fig. 2): Slash front waist piece straight across the front just below the underarm dart. Slash from the bottom edge to just below the shoulder. Lay over a sheet of paper. Spread the edges of the slashes the necessary amount and pin to the paper.

For pattern with diagonal dart: Slash front waist piece diagonally from just below center front neck through center of the dart. Lay over a piece of paper. Spread pattern pieces the necessary amount and pin to the paper.

In Good Taste Guest on Diet Should Tell Hostess

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: The other evening I invited a couple to dinner and prepared what I thought was a delicious meal. However, the wife just picked at the food and ate very little of it. I thought perhaps something was wrong with the food but I found out later that she was dieting. I was very much put out over this and thought her very rude. It seems to me that when people accept an invitation to dinner and the hostess goes to the trouble of preparing a good dinner, that guests should forget their diets that one night and eat the food that is served them, or else decline a dinner invitation. Don't you agree, Mrs. Post, or am I taking an unreasonable attitude?

Answer: You should not expect anyone who is on a serious diet to go off for your dinner, but I do agree that before accepting your dinner invitation the wife should have explained that she was on a diet.

Parents Only

Dear Mrs. Post: Our parents will soon celebrate their golden wedding anniversary and we, their children, are planning a reception for them at a hotel. There are six of us. I would like to know if it would be proper for all the children to stand in the receiving line with mother and father?

Answer: Mother and father receive alone. The children walk around talking to the guests.

Wear Hat

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it ever permissible for a woman to go to a funeral without a hat? To my mind any funeral, however small, is a formal service or ceremony since certain rites are followed and that a hat should be worn, even if the service is not held in a church. Will you please tell me if I am right?

Answer: I could not agree with you more. A woman whose head is uncovered at a funeral would be shocking.

A Lovelier You By Mary Sue Miller

Neck Neglect

The feminine face and neck often tell conflicting stories. The face has a rosy glow; the neck has a deathly pallor. The effect is pure Jekyll and Hyde, and just as scary!

When do you suppose we girls will remember that the neck is really part of the face, and should be treated with the same amount of care? These are the minimum requirements:

For good color and refined pores, the neck needs the stimulation of a daily massage with a soft, sudsy brush. Smooth skin is contingent on a bedtime application of night cream or lotion, the one used on the face. Or if the skin is crepey, a throat cream may be indicated. Such creams are formulated both to lubricate and firm.

When powder base is applied to the face, it also should be applied to the neck. Otherwise, there's a stop-and-start line at the chin. Then the face looks unnaturally madeup, and the neck appears altogether uncared for.

star dash

To firm and uplift sagging facial muscles and flesh, use my 4-way method. It works wonders through corrective exercise, posture, skin care and make-up. Procedures are detailed in the leaflet, "Ban-

West opened the nine of spades, and dummy's queen lost to the king. Back came a spade, and dummy's ace was forced out.

The normal play of the hand is very clear. South should try the heart finesse at once and the diamond finesse later. If the heart finesse succeeds, South makes three heart tricks and can afford to lose the diamond finesse. If the heart finesse loses, South will have to rely on the diamond finesse.

The trouble was that West had led an obvious "top of nothing" to begin the defense. South suspected that West was short in spades and clubs and might therefore be long in hearts. If so, the heart finesse would probably lose.

Diamond Finesse

South thought he would need the diamond finesse, but saw a way to improve his chances. After winning the second trick in dummy with the ace of spades he returned a low diamond from dummy.

East played the 10 of diamonds without any sign of surprise or indecision. South thus discovered first that East didn't have the singleton king of diamonds, and second that East probably didn't have the doubleton king.

Bert Sizer, Wega Board Member, Quits

Raps Lack of Communication With Public

Weyauwega — Unrest over operation of the public school system has resulted in the resignation of Bertrand Sizer, town of Weyauwega, from the Union High school board of education.

Sizer said he was "not in sympathy with the manner in which the board of education is conducting its affairs" and "because I can't seem to do anything about it, I resigned."

The resignation, submitted April 19, was accepted Tuesday and Kenneth Dobbert, also of the town of Weyauwega, was appointed to Sizer's seat. Mrs. George Wohlt was appointed treasurer, the board post Sizer vacated.

Sizer said, "There has been a complete loss of communication between the board and the people of community resulting in a raft of hearsay and rumors."

Not Healthy Situation

He termed the condition "not a healthy situation." "Closer contact with the people through the publication of the minutes of the board meetings and the opportunity for the board to examine complaints or suggestions from the people, he said, would prevent the unhealthy situation and prevent the present state of affairs by keeping events under better control."

Sizer was a member of the original Union High school district board created in July, 1897. He was elected to a 3-year term in July, 1958.

Although he had a nearly perfect attendance record at board meetings, Sizer absent himself after some 200 parents met with the board protesting the unrest between the school superintendent and the faculty, which the parents felt was affecting the children's education.

"My resignation hasn't been a hasty thing," Sizer said. "I've been worried about the way the board was acting for about a year, but I could find no way of doing anything about it. The electors will have a chance to act this July. Two board members will be up for election and I believe my replacement on the board will have to stand for election, also."

Chamber Tours Tractor Firm

Company Began As Family Project, Now Employs 205

About 85 members of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce toured the Fox River Tractor company Thursday in the last of a series of industrial tours.

Fox River Tractor, a manufacturer of forage harvesters and truck boxes used for spreading sand on roads, was started in 1919 as a 7-man family operation to build tractors.

The firm now employs 205 people and had discontinued the tractor line. It occupies five shops in Appleton, and last year paid $43,000 in state and federal taxes and over $24,500 in personal property taxes, according to Erwin Saiberlich, general secretary and treasurer.

Sales have expanded into 50 states and 26 foreign countries, and the company uses over 44 million pounds of steel a year. There are now 26 stockholders, Saiberlich said.

Chamber members toured the eight departments where the machinery is assembled. They also followed the production of one of the company's new products, a self-propelled forage harvester, through the assembly-line process.

The blaze was confined to the closet. Clothing in it was destroyed. The loss is not covered by insurance, Chief Paul Neumann said. Firemen battled the fire about 25 minutes.

Retreat House Addition

Plan $300,000 Wing For Monte Alverno

Plans for a $300,000 addition to the Monte Alverno retreat house, between Appleton and Little Chute, have been announced by the Rev. Alcuin Schutkovske, O.F.M. Cap., director.

The addition will house an additional 22 retreatants, bringing the total capacity to 70 persons. A fund drive incorporating a 3-year pledge system will be conducted, and construction will begin when funds make it possible.

Present plans call for an addition extending west from the present building. It would house a large lounge, two conference rooms, an elevator and 22 private rooms.

Monte Alverno is the only full-time retreat house in the Green Bay diocese, and the new addition is expected to increase the yearly capacity by 1,500.

The additional room will be used by retreatants until the staff is increased. Two priests now serve the house, and an average of 2,500 Catholics use its facilities yearly. The retreat house was opened in 1935.

George Narovec and Associates, Appleton, will design the addition.

Door Closed On Pay Hike

Committee Refuses To Discuss Raise Until Budget Time

Appleton council's finance committee said Thursday it is not willing to have any further discussions of a proposed 3 per cent pay raise for street and sanitation department workers until the new budget is made.

This consensus was expressed when Teamster Business Agent Robert Schlieve asked when he might discuss the pay increase. He was told, "We don't want to discuss it until fall because we don't have the money for it now."

Schlieve said he respected the committee's opinion, but contended this was not a valid argument. "You know that if unforeseen expenses arise for other reasons it is customary to transfer funds from another source to take care of them," he said.

Discuss Hour Cut

The proposed hike was approved by the street and sanitation committee, and was referred to the finance committee last week.

Committeemen agreed, after lengthy discussion, that the work week for street and sanitation men had been cut from 44 to 40 hours. They first contended all items related to the union agreement had been sent back to committee, but after studying the official council minutes decided the hour cut was granted and the pay increased referred to the finance committee.

This reduction in hours constitutes a 10 per cent hourly rate increase, committee members said, and they felt this should satisfy the men until budget time. The men have the same take-home pay but work four hours less.

Will Be Back

Schlieve said he knows his union members are happy with this arrangement, but also disappointed in not getting the 3 per cent hike.

He assured the committee he would be back to discuss the pay hike in plenty of time before the new budget is made and commented, "Maybe then we'd better start thinking in terms of 4 or 5 per cent."

Committee Okays Stop Signs at Three Intersections

A four-way stop at Spring and State streets, and arterial signs on Summer and Commercial streets at State will be recommended by the public safety committee.

The plan is in place of one proposed by Ald. Loos, which would have made State a through street by putting arterials on Spring, Summer and Commercial, giving north-south traffic preference.

A petition last January, signed by 36 property owners, asked that something be done to alleviate hazards from fast moving cross traffic.

The alderman proposed to eliminate the hazards by stopping east-west traffic at the three intersections, but committee members felt State should not be a through street.

Hints GOP Needs Catholic Candidate

Sullivan Cites Kennedy's Success In April Primary

Post-Crescent News Service
Elkhorn — An Outagamie county assemblyman last night asked the Republican party to take a hint from the success of Sen. John Kennedy in appealing for votes among Catholic Republicans in the recent Wisconsin presidential primary election.

Assemblyman W. T. Sullivan's remarks at a district Republican caucus here were interpreted as a reminder that the Republican party needs a Catholic on its ticket this year. He's an announced candidate for the Republican nomination for state treasurer and is campaigning for the endorsement of the state GOP convention next month.

For the second time at a district party rally, Sullivan referred to the recent success of Kennedy in carrying normally Republican districts.

GOP Sensitive

Then he said that "I hope we can crown a new champion in November," referring to himself as a candidate on the state GOP ticket.

Republicans in state headquarters tend to be sensitive about the Kennedy vote success in the Fox valley and elsewhere, because of the third place showing of Republican vice president Richard M. Nixon in the April primary.

Meanwhile, Republican district attorney George Greisch, Appleton told the first district politicians last night that "this is no longer a Republican state and it is time to take off the silk gloves and put on the work gloves."

Greisch is running against District Attorney George Thompson, LaCrosse, for the party nomination against Attorney General John W. Reynolds of Green Bay, Democrat.

Sullivan is opposing for the party nomination Mrs. Dena Smith, Milwaukee, Former Acting state treasurer and widow of former treasurer Warren R. Smith. Sullivan is a third term member of the state legislature.

More Drownings Noted in 1958 Than in 1959

Madison — With the 1960 water use season getting underway, the state conservation department noted today that Wisconsin recorded 180 drownings in 1959, six more than in 1958.

The department's report was based on investigations by wardens and it detailed activities that resulted in death.

Fifty-nine drownings occurred in calm waters, the department said.

It also noted that 13 victims were intoxicated. Thirty-one of the victims were from out of state, 18 of them from Illinois.

Of the entire toll, 159 victims were male, 21 were female.

Swimming and wading mishaps took the most lives — 54. Boating accidents claimed 34 lives and mishaps while fishing 27. Falls from piers, banks, abutments and bridges meant death for 20.

Little Girl Dies

Milwaukee — Pamela Kay Tompkins, 3-year-old daughter of Mrs. Cordi Tompkins, died Thursday at a Milwaukee hospital of burns suffered a month ago when her clothing caught fire from a cigarette lighter.

Consultants Named To Study Enforcement

Legislative Committee Probing Into New Friction Between County, State Patrol

Madison — A panel of consultants has been chosen by the legislative interim study committee assigned by the legislature to an appraisal of the relations between the state traffic patrol and local police agencies, especially county sheriff's deputies and county traffic patrols.

The legislature asked about duplications of service between the state and local officers, and opportunities for coordinating their work.

Old Concern The concern about lack of coordination is of long standing. Renewed evidence of friction led the legislature to command an investigation last year.

The parent highways committee is led by Assemblyman Robert Huber of West Allis, who has named these consultants for the enforcement study:

Louis Bannick of Superior, sheriff of Douglas county.

Edward Kelzenberg of Madison, a Dane county traffic officer.

Howard O. Olson, Milwaukee police chief.

Legislators Also M. C. Olsen of Stevens Point, an officer of Hardware Mutuals Insurance company and a leader in the Wisconsin Council of Safety.

Sen. Frank Panzer of Dodge county, Frank Nikolay and Elmer Nitschke, assemblymen from Clark and Dodge counties, will also serve with the study group as representatives of the parent highway committee.

Favors Home Sex Education

Pastor Says Schools Ignore Spiritual Aspect

Sex education should be taught in the home, not in schools, the Rev. Stephan M. Sak, pastor of St. John Lutheran church, Cudahy, told Christian marriage clinic Faith Lutheran church.

"The school cannot give the proper spiritual approach he said.

"Sex is God-given and beautiful," he said. Children need to learn this gradually, not in one movie or filmstrip package, but as their natural curiosity develops, he declared.

Parents, he said, are the only ones in a position to satisfy this gradual curiosity. "Sex is only one aspect of love," he said, "there are many others." The pastor added that "sex has its spiritual side. It can contribute to marriage happiness if used rightly, it can destroy marriage if abused." He said it often over-emphasized today and especially in our country.

The pastor took issue with a statement by an Illinois professor who said he favored pre-marital sex activity. "The human body is a temple. God. No Christian should permit sexual garbage to be dumped before its altar."

The final session in the clinic will be at 8 p. m. Wednesday. Dr. Martin P. Sime, editor of "Christian Parent" magazine will speak on marriage adjustments in marriage.

Old Buildings To Net $416 For Schools

Must be Removed To Make Room for Building of Edison

The Appleton board of education will get $416.50 from the sale of two houses and two garages that must be removed to make room for the new Edison school, bids accepted by the board Wednesday indicate.

For the Carl Bertram house and garage, the board accepted the bid of Berg and Henn House Movers, Inc., who would pay the board $250 for the two buildings.

Berg and Henn offered to pay the board $10 for the Sara Baker residence. For the Baker garage, the board accepted the bid of $156.50 by James P. Meiers.

Both garages can be moved. The Bertram house is four feet, two inches above the city's height limit for moving buildings and also is too wide. The Baker house is even larger.

The highest separate bid on the Bertram garage was $126.50 by Meiers, but the highest separate bid on the Bertram house was only $100. The board therefore accepted Berg and Henn's combined bid.

The low bids, from the board's point of view, were from Madison Moving and Wrecking, which would have charged the board $330 for removing the Bertram buildings and $384 for removing the Baker structures.

Excavation equipment has been moved to the Edison site. Business Affairs Director William R. Knuth told the board, and work on the $925,000 building is scheduled to start soon.

Faith Offers Hope for World

Dr. Michalson Explains Promise Of Christianity

Hope for the world and an ultimate meaning to history is the promise of the Christian faith, Dr. Carl Michalson, professor of systematic theology at Drew university, Madison, N. J., said in the last of his series of seven addresses at First Congregational church.

Dr. Michalson has been speaking daily on the theme "Our Faith and Our Lives." This is the second post-Easter lecture series by noted theologians sponsored by the church.

Man's capacity to live with meaning and with moral energy depends upon his ability to answer the questions of his origin and his destiny, the theologian said. History begins in God's creation and ends with God's fulfillment, he said. The New Testament adds content to the linear picture of history, for at its center is God's manifest purpose, or Jesus Christ, in whom God calls the world to obedience and extends mercy. He added that in Christ, God fights the battle of meaninglessness.

Victory Over Injustice Dr. Michalson explained four aspects of Christian faith in history. First, Christian faith means the ultimate victory of justice over injustice; "God vindicates death in the resurrection," he said. "One can bear anything if he knows it won't last forever."

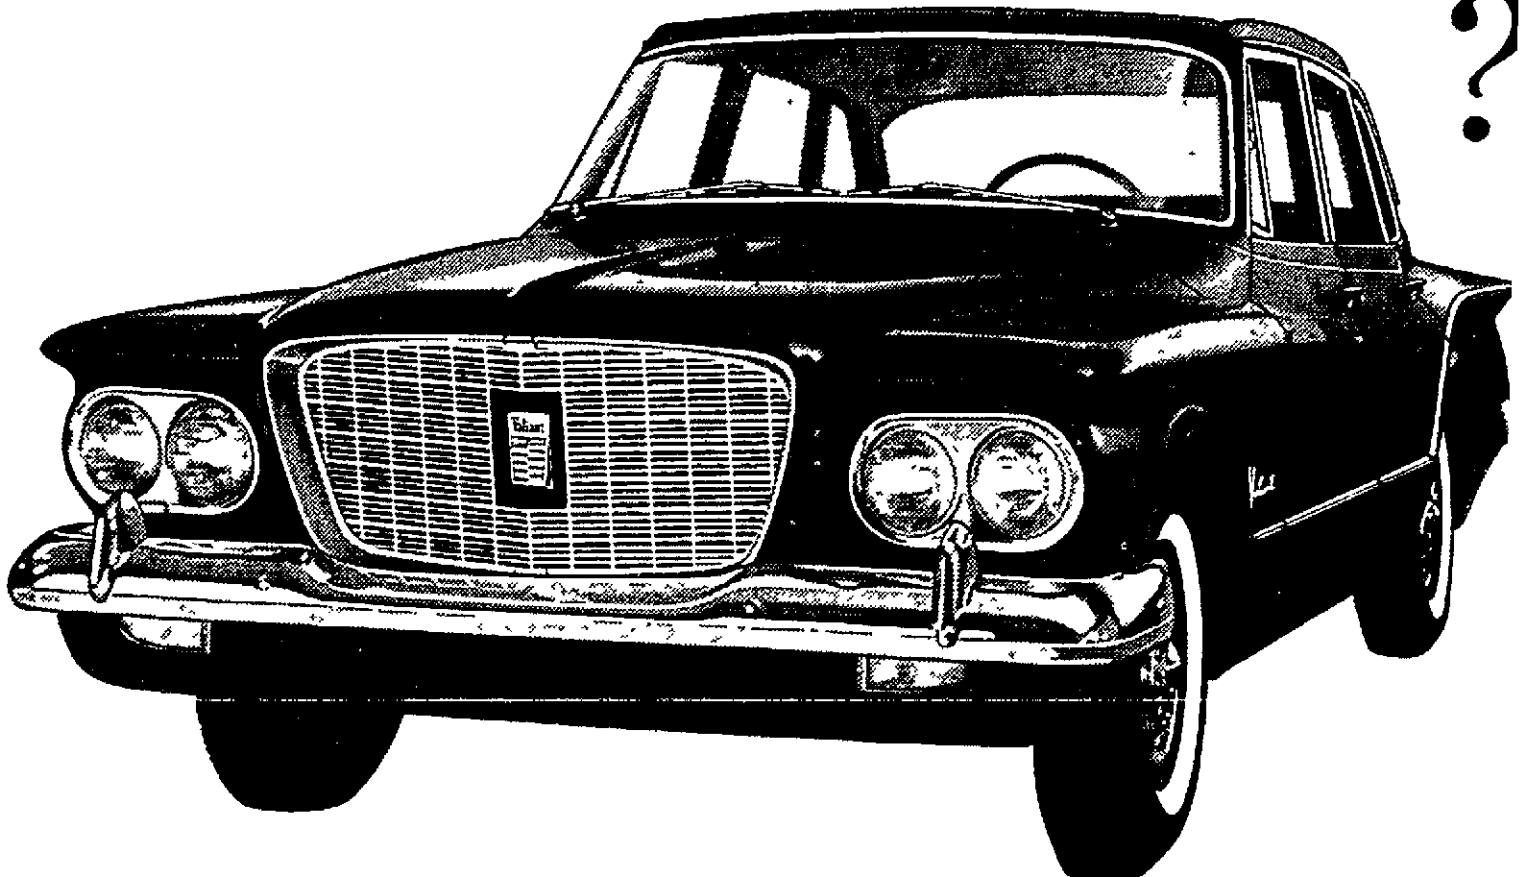

Love will be victorious ultimately over force and violence, Dr. Michalson said; the future of man is tied up with the force of love—this is the promise of Jesus.

The theologian cautioned against the mythology and sentiment which surrounds the belief that life ultimately will be victorious over death. He pointed out that the Christian's concern is not the geo-politics of life after death but rather to realize that the human drama is not complete in this life and to turn the mystery of the life beyond over to God, which in turn releases man to live responsibly in this world.

Finally, Christian faith means victory of forgiveness over moral burden, for only the figure of Christ in human history represents forgiveness.

WILL SUCCESS SPOIL NOBODY'S KID BROTHER?

In January, Valiant (Nobody's Kid Brother) got the New York Couture Group's Design Supremacy Award. They just think it's the best-looking car on the road, that's all. In February, Valiant went to Florida. Not for the sun. It had a road test scheduled with Falcon and Corvair. It left them panting in a big cloud of Valiant dust. In April, Valiant did it again, beating the carburetors off good old car "F" and car "C" in the Mobilgas Economy Run. Got better than 27 miles to the gallon. ## Farm Men Discuss Future of Co-ops

Sees Need for Co-op Leaders, Future Farmers

Speaker Calls for Stepped Up Program To Train Youth

Wittenberg — A need for future farmers and cooperative leaders was stressed in a talk by C. H. Bonsak of the state board of vocational and adult education.

"Our training for leadership must be stepped up," Bonsak said. Schools today too often think of today, not tomorrow. We must train farm replacements.

"If we figure 30 years as the average lifetime of a farmer, we will need 3,600 replacements a year. There are 16,000 agriculture students in 283 high schools. If 4,000 complete their courses and only half go into agriculture, we still need twice the present enrollment to keep up replacement," he said.

Bonsak spoke at a marketing conference at the high school here. Floyd Doering,

Implement Show Discussion Set

Chilton — The possibility of sponsoring a farm implement demonstrations will be discussed at a meeting of Calumet county implement dealers at 6:30 p.m. Monday at Hotel Chilton.

The demonstrations would include hay conditioning and a combine clinic or any other display of the use of machinery that dealers feel will attract the interest of farm operators.

Also slated for discussion is machinery exhibiting at the county fair. Members of the fair board have been asked to attend.

Orrin Berge, college of agriculture machinery specialist, will provide background information and lead discussion.

Freedom From Want Is Force Motivating People to Enter Cooperatives, Leader Says

BY ROY F. VALITCHKA II
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

Wittenberg — Cooperatives, their past, present and future were discussed at a Wisconsin Council of Agriculture cooperative marketing conference here Tuesday.

The force that lights a fire starts a cooperative effort, Neil McBeath, Consolidated Badger marketing specialist, told extension agents, cooperative leaders, farm administrators and vocational agriculture leaders.

"This force is friction," he said. "There is an inner spark by which all people are motivated — that is the desire for freedom from want, recognition and security."

"Start a cooperative and it will take care of itself," he said. A co-op is fundamentally a business and needs all the successful practices of business, McBeath said. Just because something is started and it is called a cooperative doesn't mean it will flourish, he went on.

Traces Development

McBeath traced development of cooperatives. The first years of the movement he called the "brick and mortar era." This was providing of physical facilities. Today the brick and mortar era has been carried to cooperative marketing, he said.

"A farmer who sees a substantial building doesn't worry about his money," McBeath said. The building of a market, however, leaves nothing tangible, he noted.

"It's better to have a market than a mill I once was told," he said. "But a cooperative has to have a mill, too."

Natural Desire

The natural desire of freedom from want provides us with a market, he said. But when the market shifts, other products have to be processed to keep a market.

You have to spend lots of money and have lots of men to have a market, he said. Marketing today has surpassed the time of placing a product in another's hands to sell. Cooperatives are now doing their own selling and branding, he said.

"Cooperatives are a matter of realism," Milo Swanton, executive secretary of

Byrnes Calls for Bigger Soil Bank

Representative Wants Land Production to Equal Food Needs

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington—Rep. John W. Byrnes, Green Bay, introduced legislation to expand the soil bank acreage to a point where, he said, "cropland in production would be in balance with land needed for foods and fibers."

In a speech on the house floor, the Wisconsin Republican congressman claimed his bill would pave the way toward the solution of the farm surplus problem "within two or three years."

Keystone Program

Byrnes added: "We can end the rigidities of government controls supports and subsidies and let the free market bring its challenges and rewards to the American farmer if we can successfully reduce crop acreage to the point where land in use meets our needs."

"The soil bank can do this job if we make it the keystone of our agriculture program. It can reduce surplus acreage in a purely voluntary manner. It can do so with the least red tape. "It can do so without subsidy, since its payments to farmers present only the fair value of what their land would bring if in use. It can do so at one fourth to one half the cost of the present price stabilization program. "Most important, the annual cost would represent a far seeing national investment of our water and wildlife resources."

"This Democratic congress will not accept the president's farm recommendations," he said. The difference between the parties lies largely in methods or systems of price support operations and the degree of control to be exercised by the federal government over production or marketing.

"I propose that we go ahead and enact what can be enacted. It would be tragic if we failed to seize this opportunity to make substantial progress in eliminating the farm problem through the extension and expansion of the soil bank—the one farm program which is actually producing results."

Gov. Nelson Asks Support of Milk Sanitation Bill

Madison—Gov. Gaylord Nelson has asked business, labor farm and civic groups throughout the state to join him in support of a national milk sanitation bill pending in congress.

Nelson said the measure would "eliminate some of the worst of the artificial trade barriers which now prevent Wisconsin milk from entering some out-of-state fluid markets."

Nelson said today he had mailed letters to the groups asking they forward written statements in support of the legislation or assign a representative to appear at congressional hearings in Washington April 27.

Rep. Lester Johnson (D-Black) River Falls introduced the milk sanitation bill in the house. Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) offered a companion measure in the senate.

The legislation would stop local health and sanitation regulations from interfering with milk shipments that meet federal health service standards.

Causes of Deaths

Machinery, drowning, fire, arms and falls are the leading causes of death on farmland and around farm buildings, reports the national safety council.

Move to New Home

Sugar Bush—Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wensel and family, who purchased the Frank Heideman home, moved to their home this weekend.

Suggestions Given for Best in Crop Results

Stay Off Wet Soil, Fertilize, Check Drainage, Spray, County Agent Says

BY VERNON PEROUTKY
Winnebago County Agent

It's planting time on farms and gardens. Let's be sure not to be on the soil when it's too wet. The first week in May is high time to get grain in ahead of hot weather, but seeding in wet heavy soil may be disastrous.

There won't be a breather Peroutky after grain planting. It'll be time to plant corn. Farmers here plant a 95-100 day maturity corn as a rule. Outagamie growers may prefer a 90-95 day maturity. Soil conditions may make a variance from farm to farm. Growing a later maturity increases chance for frost, while maturity earlier than the seasonal average, will cause less yield.

Soil Test

Farmers like to plant corn for maximum efficiency. In establishing a yield goal, the first step is to have the soil tested. With known fertility, your county agricultural agent may make a fertilizer recommendation based on your intent to raise 75 or 100 or more bushels of corn to the acre. Alfalfa and barnyard manure in the rotation, may ease the need for nitrogen in the fertilizer.

Fields high in organic matter and fields which are teraced or strip cropped will normally produce more because water and soil is conserved. Shallow ditches are frequently installed to drain off surplus surface water. In level land with heavy soil, tilling may be the solution.

Spray Trees

Hundreds of city folks, suburbanites, as well as farmers, are interested in raising home fruits which have high food value and add variety to the menu. I will center my suggestions on fruit trees. Fruit trees need seven to 10 sprayings for insect and disease prevention. Your county extension office has complete spray recommendations. A fungicide, such as captan, needs to be applied at seven to 10 day intervals when the first green tips appear.

Back yard fruit growers may wish to add Diazinon, as an insecticide, after the petals have fallen. Farm and commercial orchards may alternate with arsenate of lead and DDT as the insecticide, in place of Diazinon.

Dwarf Replacements

Replacement fruit trees for urban or rural folks, may well be dwarf trees. Dwarf trees in my opinion, are the only trees to plant other than for a commercial orchard or in special orchard enterprise. They can be grown in a limited space, growing about seven feet high and six feet wide. One will get fruit in three years and the fruit is larger. You can spray the tree from the ground and easily pick the fruit. The trees need good soil, plenty of moisture and they should be staked.

Malling IX is the truest dwarf. Be sure to note the dwarfing rootstock when purchasing dwarf fruit trees.

Users of chemicals need to be careful to read the label on insecticides, fungicides and herbicides. There is no danger to human health, nor is there danger of injury to plants, if one follows directions given on the label of the product.

Follow Directions

Insecticides and some herbicides (weed chemicals) will have a tolerance stated on the label. Tolerance is that amount of the chemical which safely can be on a food at harvest time and not affect health.

Here are suggestions to intelligently use chemicals. Use only on crops listed on the label, use only within amounts listed, not double strength. Recognize time limit specified, such as, do not use within 10, or 30 days before harvest. Use according to methods advised, such as drop the council of agriculture, declared.

"We're interested in better services at a lower cost and control over the blood lines we operate," he said. "Either a cooperative is making me money or saving me money. Co-ops belong to us. We're selfish and like to keep them," he said.

Co-op Membership

Greater farm efficiency and production is putting more and more stress on marketing, the secretary said. The basic problem today is food and agriculture.

"It is difficult to rationalize our western civilization with a responsive birth rate and high farm production to China with a cancerous birth rate and inefficient agriculture."

Membership in the cooperative is varied, he said. "Some in a co-op are like wheelbarrows — they need pushing around. Some are like a kite — always getting away. Others are like a football — always bouncing around, and some are like the sun — always there, rain or shine."

Better Climate

"Cooperatives, to continue, need an improved legislative climate," he explained.

There is a drive to treat a cooperative as a corporate enterprise. These people will not recognize it as a multiple enterprise.

"They do not realize a cooperative is an institution by which American agriculture is trying to strengthen the social and economic position of the farmer."

D. H. Williams, University of Wisconsin extension member, told the gathering why the cooperative image is bright in this state.

Wisconsin farmers are co-op minded, leadership has been outstanding, farm groups have recognized the value of cooperatives and education in cooperatives has long been a part of the state education program, he said.

Cooperative progress is limited only by a shortsighted concept of the marketing job, by farmers' unwillingness to work together and by our unwillingness to recognize changes taking place in agriculture technology.

Packers, Stockyards Act For Protection of Farmer

BY JOHN E. POWERS
Outagamie County Agent

The packers and stockyards act, enacted in 1925 and amended in 1958, prescribes rules of fair competition and fair trade practices in livestock marketing. The act is administered by the U. S. department of agriculture through the agricultural marketing service.

Livestock producers are protected against any unfair, discriminatory or deceptive practices that would deprive them of the true market value of their livestock.

G. H. Hooper of the Chicago district office, in explaining the law to a group of Outagamie county farmers, said that the same number of violations have been noted at auction markets as at terminal markets. Farmers in Outagamie county became concerned about discriminatory prices and practices during the recent TB survey of dairy cattle. Farmers were required to ship animals under special permit if a TB reactor or suspect was detected in the herd.

Major Violations

Hooper pointed out that no price reduction should be made by packers or buyers for TB reactors, TB suspects or other animals shipped under the TB shipping permit, unless a certain portion of the useable part of the carcass had to be discarded. This same statement holds true for Bang's reactor animals.

At the farmers' meeting in Outagamie county, major violations noted were false weights, unrealistic dressing percentages and price reduction on the animal because of the TB shipping permit. Farmers were advised to report any dissatisfactions to the Chicago district office within 90 days of shipping the animal. The district office is located at 999 Exchange avenue, Union Stockyard, Chicago, Ill. In order to facilitate the complaint, dressed weight and live weight slips are needed. A statement from the farmer as to what hap-

Bulk Milk Hauler Role Becoming More Important

With more than 17,000 bulk milk tanks now in operation in Wisconsin, the role of the bulk milk hauler is becoming increasingly important. The hauler has had to accept many added responsibilities.

Among these responsibilities are accepting or rejecting the milk, measuring the amount of milk and the obtaining of samples for butterfat, sediment and bacteriological tests.

Reject Milk

The bulk milk hauler can reject milk if it has an off-odor such as sour, barny or weedy, or if it appears abnormal in color or has extraneous matter.

He must be exacting in his methods, for correct reading of the measuring stick is of the utmost importance.

The hauler must know the amount of agitation time necessary for the collection of fat, sediment and bacteri-pened and what he observed is also required.

For those farmers shipping to direct markets, Hooper says, it would be profitable for farmers or a representative of a group of farmers to go with the livestock and observe what happens. Ask for the scale to be balanced, have the weigh master weigh the farmer and then stay with the weigh master and observe him while he weighs and records the animal.

There should be no price or weight reduction made to farmers from direct markets unless a prior agreement has been made with the farmer.

The district manager stated that although discrimination has been taking place, if the farmer will do a better job of policing for a short time, the number can be greatly reduced.

ological samples. A representative sample from each tank for fat test must be obtained at each pickup. Sediment test samples are required once each month and bacteriological samples at least twice each month.

Keep Truck Clean

Along with his responsibilities during the pickup process goes that of keeping his truck clean and sanitary.

The importance of the hauler in the bulk milk picture can best be emphasized by calling attention to the fact that the Wisconsin legislature a few years ago enacted a law requiring the licensing of all bulk milk haulers.

In fact, a bulk milk hauler has taken on added responsibilities and has become a mobile dairy plant intake man.

Farmers Can Now Incorporate and Keep Taxes Down

Man May Still Pay Individual Rates While Under New Plan

Farmers with small and moderate-size farms can now incorporate without facing higher income tax rates. Recent federal legislation lets a small owner in on the advantages of incorporating while allowing him to pay taxes at individual rates. This means that he no longer has to pay the corporation rate of 30 per cent assessed on any taxable income below $25,000.

Instead, the small income farmer who is incorporated can now figure his federal income taxes on an individual rate. These rates begin at 20 per cent and increase on each $2,000 of taxable income. Now corporate profits can be taxed individually as if they had already been distributed. For example:

John Jones, who recently incorporated his farm, makes $8,000 over his farm expenses. He decides to be taxed as an individual, using the standard deduction, and he and his wife file a joint return. His final tax rate averages about 15 per cent of the $8,000 income—15 per cent less than he'd have paid under the flat corporate rate of 30 per cent.

Farmers with small operations can also benefit from the capital gains provision under the new law. Originally, incorporated owners paid 25 per cent of their total capital gains profit.

Now members of a corporation can pay at their individual income tax rate. It will pay an incorporated farmer to figure his income tax on capital gains at individual rates — providing (1) his income doesn't go over $36,000, (2) part of it results from capital gains, and (3) he's married and computes his income tax jointly with his wife.

Other Benefits

Farmers will obtain a number of other benefits by incorporating, the law specialist says. (1) Incorporated farmers transfer easier to children through sales of stock in the farm. (2) The corporation can offer a practical retirement plan.

At present, a farmer gets social security benefits based on income he earned before retiring. For maximum benefits, he must earn at least $4,800 per year. If his income is low, the corporation may be able to make up the difference, thus increasing his future benefits.

To supplement social security benefits, the corporation can use a "profit-sharing" plan. Such a plan offers income tax savings, too. Under the corporate plan, a farmer makes income tax savings three times when he puts his money into a retirement fund. Here's how:

Points to Know

1. When it goes into the fund—income put into a retirement fund isn't taxable.
2. While it's there—interest earned by the fund also escapes income taxes.

3. When it comes out—a retired owner pays a lower rate on his income by putting it into the fund and drawing it out later. After retirement, he usually earns less and drops to a lower bracket.

And the incorporated farmer can be assured of an income when age slows him down. Before retirement, he is a corporation employee and draws a salary. Upon retiring, he may continue working with the corporation and earn a reduced salary. He may also collect dividends from his stock. With these benefits, he doesn't have to rely on his children for support.

Ownership Transfer

Incorporating makes ownership transfer easy. For example, a farmer may want to divide his farm among several children. Normally, he would sell the farm and distribute its assets as cash. The son who continues to farm has to re-invest, usually at a loss. Such loss could be avoided by distributing shares of stock instead of cash. This arises

Co-op Schedules Annual Meeting

Shawano — Judson P. Mason, director of the economics division of the national milk producers federation, Washington, D. C., will speak at the 29th annual meeting of the Consolidated Badger cooperative here at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday.

Mason will discuss the "quota system," a means of keeping milk supplies in balance with demand.

President of the board of directors, Edmond Engebretsen, will give the annual message. George W. Ruppel, general manager, will make his report on the cooperative's operation for 1959.

Last year the co-op processed more than a half billion pounds of milk. This was an increase of 15 million pounds from 1958.

Other activities scheduled are an appearance by the Schmitt brothers, Two Rivers barbershop quartet, and Jacee Klein, a young entertainer.

Household Milk Use Declines on Farms

The amount of milk used in households on farms where milk is produced has declined more than 50 per cent — about 11 billion pounds — over the last 20 years.

The trend is apparently continuing because the amount used in farm households dropped nearly one billion pounds in each of the last two years.

The quantity fed to calves, however, has been approximately constant at a little under 3 billion pounds.

Meanwhile, the sale of milk in whole form to plants and dealers in 1959 exceeded 100 billion pounds for the first time on record.

Transferring stock also enables the farmer to make gifts to his children during his lifetime. In this way, he can pass on ownership interests without losing control of the farm himself.

Shares can be willed to family members who aren't living on the farm.

Expanding operations by buying more land or by combining several farm units can be done without incorporating, but such expansion usually works more smoothly if the business is a corporation. By incorporating, several owners can combine their operations in a clear cut manner. This cuts down on confusion and disagreement that might arise.

Sees Need for Co-op Leaders

agriculture instructor at the school, was chairman of the afternoon and evening meeting.

Donald E. Wilkinson, of the state department of agriculture, noted there are many mergers or consolidations going on. There is an increase of interest and confusion over enabling legislation and market orders. Farmers must more and more consider ways of being professional sellers to meet demands of professional buyers, Wilkinson said.

We don't need small cooperatives anymore, he said. Larger co-ops can do business in larger volume and have more bargaining power. The old idea of keeping a co-op because it has been in a place a long time isn't right, he added.

"We must try to have the farmer understand what is best for him," he said.

Farmers Must Obey Regulation

Every farmer who has cropland under a conservation reserve contract this year must be sure to comply with any acreage allotments on the farm and also to observe his permitted acreage of soil bank base crops.

The permitted acreage on a soil bank farm is the amount of land on which grains, oilseeds, and row crops may be produced. It consists of the historical acreage of such crops less the amount of land placed in the conservation reserve. A farmer who exceeds this permitted acreage of any acreage allotment on the farm may lose his annual rental payment and also be subject to a civil penalty.

When all eligible cropland on a farm is in the soil bank, the permitted acreage is zero. The home garden area on such a farm may be used to produce crops for home use, for setting out forest trees or for non-agricultural purposes. Production of a soil bank base crop on such land is a contract violation.

Warm Winter Hurts Alfalfa

Plant Uses Up Food Reserves More Rapidly

Warmer periods during our cold northern winters may bring relief to us, but they're hard on alfalfa and red clover fields.

That's because the plants use up their winter food reserves more rapidly during warm spells.

Too many warm periods during the winter could result in serious winter damage because alfalfa and red clover under normal conditions generally have barely enough food reserves to see them through to spring.

Measurements of cold hardiness and food reserves have been made for several years on plants at 28 degrees.

These plants kept their cold resistance longer than plants do in the field, where the ground thaws out and refreezes frequently.

Food reserves are measured by the plants' contents of total available carbohydrates. Alfalfa and red clover held at the constant low temperature took 6 to 9 months longer to use up as much of their food reserve as the plants under field conditions had used by early April.

These findings show why a winter we would consider "hard" is actually fairly good for overwintering of alfalfa.

Wisconsin Cited for Knocking Out Disease

Madison — Wisconsin was cited by the federal government today for quick action several years ago in stamping out vesicular exanthema, a swine disease.

The certificate of recognition was accepted for the state by Dr. A. A. Erdmann, federal-state veterinarian. It was presented by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Investigation in 1953, the year of the outbreak of the disease, showed it was closely tied to feeding of raw garbage to swine. The legislature that year passed a law requiring cooking of garbage used for feeding. There have been no outbreaks in the state since.

Wisconsin Dairy Herds are Getting Bigger Survey Shows

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The dairy herds of Wisconsin are rapidly getting bigger.

The typical herd today consists of about 20 milking cows, which is a gain of about a third in the last fourteen years. Five years ago the average was 17.6 cows. Fourteen years ago it was just under 15.

The trend has been implied in the rapid reductions

Precise Statistics

But the state-federal crop reporting service has nailed down the precise statistics, after peeking at the returns of town tax assessors.

Since 1955, some 49,000 dairy herds have "disappeared," as separate identities, as the trend for larger farm units and correspondingly larger operating herds has accelerated.

The statistical report called the average decline of 2.3 per cent yearly in the number of Wisconsin farms since World war I an "amazing" one.

The emphasis has been on more efficient herd operation, and thus the ratio of decline has been most severe among the smaller herds. Nor is there any easing off of the rate of decline, the economists said. The herd of the future is likely to be even larger than the one of today and the small herd more and more scarce in the Wisconsin rural landscape.

Three Bills to Hike Beet Sugar Production Out

Washington — (AP) — Three related bills designed to increase domestic sugar beet production were introduced by Rep. Walter Rogers (D-Texas).

The first would eliminate the present acreage allotments on sugar beets. Sugar production in the United States now is limited to 55 per cent of the domestic demand. Marketing quotas are given to sugar manufacturers who in turn have to contact American producers with sugar beet acreage quotas.

The second increases sugar marketing quotas for domestic producers from the present 55 per cent to 65 per cent, thereby decreasing offshore sugar quotas from 45 per cent to 35 per cent of domestic consumption.

The third provides for the allocation of 85 per cent of the increase in domestic sugar marketing quotas each year to states presently growing sugar beets and having a potential production sufficient to permit the profitable operation of a sugar manufacturing plant.

Protect Cattle Against Drafts

Protect your cows against drafts, dampness and sudden changes in temperatures in early spring and you'll be eliminating a common cause of mastitis.

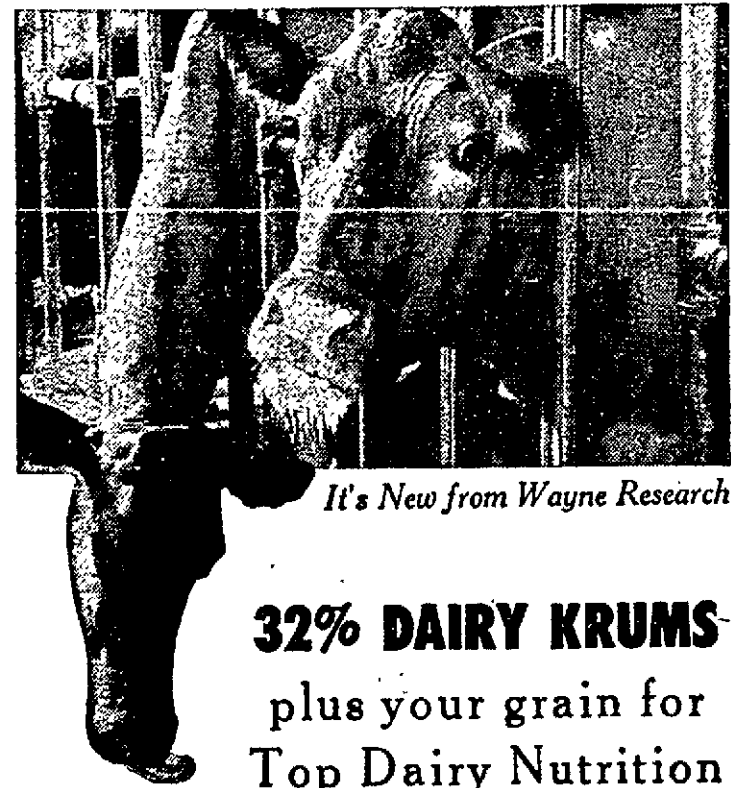

Anything that lowers a cow's resistance to disease makes her a likely target for the many different kinds of organisms which can cause mastitis.

Some dairy farmers are taking a big step toward controlling mastitis by providing plenty of dry bedding and reducing drafts in the barn.

In the barnyard, special hazards are mud and snow. A cow can easily fall if it's slippery underfoot, and get an udder injury leading to mastitis. Anything that reduces the danger of slips and falls indirectly provides protection against mastitis.

Keeping the cow's resistance high and avoiding injury is necessary protection against mastitis, because it's almost impossible to completely prevent mastitis-causing organisms from coming into contact with the udder. In most cases, they are present in the udders of healthy cows.

Solons Encouraged at Fate of Milk Code Bill

Senate Subcommittee Member Turns 'Sympathetic' Ear Toward Measure

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington — Two Wisconsin congressmen who co-authored legislation providing for a national milk sanitation code which would permit fluid milk to be shipped in interstate commerce today were more encouraged over the fate of the measure than they had been since it was first introduced last year.

Reps. Melvin R. Laird, Marshfield, and Lester R. Johnson, Black River Falls, both of whom testified during hearings in favor of the measure before a house interstate and foreign commerce subcommittee, believed the chairman of the group and other members appeared "sympathetic" toward it.

Enough Guide Posts
They based much of their optimism on the attitude of the subcommittee chairman, Rep. Paul G. Rogers (D-Fla.), who not only was extremely cordial, but took the time and interest to ask detailed questions about the bill, which would establish the uniform federal requirements fluid milk must meet in sanitation and quality, thus eliminating the "artificial" barriers set up to prevent its interstate shipment.

For instance, Rogers wanted to know if the bill contained sufficient "guideposts" for the U. S. public health service to follow in its cooperation with the state public health officers to work out a uniform milk code.

He also wanted to know the exact amount of money it would take to administer the bill, and how many additional persons would be needed to do the job.

Money Authorized
Laird, who said that $1.5 million was "authorized" under the act, pointed out that this estimate was somewhat higher than those given by the department of health education and welfare, which placed the estimated cost of administration at $631,000 for the fiscal year 1961; $834,000 for fiscal '62 and $905,000 for fiscal '63. He said the number of persons employed by the federal government to administer it would include about 76 in addition to the 38 already working on milk sanitation problems.

Laird pointed out that "at no time has the percentage of whole milk moving out of our state exceeded 14 per cent of our total production" adding that Wisconsin dairy farmers feel strongly that their milk products are arbitrarily being discriminated against through the use of hundreds of separate, unrealistic milk sanitation codes which have sprung up around many of our metropolitan areas.

Engineers Testify
A representative of the conference of state sanitary engineers, who also testified in favor of the bill, in criticizing these same "unrealistic" sanitation laws commented, "if economic control is found to be necessary to foster a segment of the dairy industry in a particular area, such controls should be designed and worded as economic controls

State Turkeys Worth $14 Million

Wisconsin's turkey producers last year received nearly $14 million cash income, according to a report released today by the Wisconsin crop reporting service. Turkey sales value in 1959 was the largest on record for the state and exceeded the previous record in 1955 by 21 per cent.

Turkeys are an important segment of the state's agriculture. Each year since 1946 Wisconsin growers have marketed a new record volume of turkeys. The 1959 sales of 3,994,000 birds exceeded 1958 sales by 47 per cent, and Wisconsin now ranks fifth in the nation in the number of turkeys raised. This is fast progress for a state which 10 years ago ranked 15th, and as recently as 1955 it ranked ninth in production of turkeys.

Production of the heavy breeds accounts for the greatest proportion of the turkeys grown in Wisconsin. Last year there were 3,872,000 turkeys, 97 per cent of the total production, of the heavy breeds. In 1954 the heavy breeds made up 54 per cent of the total production.

Holdings of breeder hens on Wisconsin farms on Jan. 1, 1960, amounted to 86,000 birds—a decrease of 10 per cent from the previous year. The number of all other turkeys (market birds and breeder toms) on farms on Jan. 1, 1960, was 143,000 birds, 6.5 per cent below a year ago.

and not camouflaged as being health requirements." Johnson said that the senate interstate and foreign commerce committee had agreed to have hearings for the first time on the measure about the middle of May and that "it could be possible" it would be passed by the congress before adjournment.

Answers Given In Surplus Row

Report Issued
Showing Where
Materials Go

Washington — (AP) — The agriculture department came up today with a statistical answer to those who say U.S. farm surpluses should be made available to needy at home and abroad.

It issued a report stating that during the past 7½ years, a total of nearly 14 billion pounds of these surpluses have been donated to the needy at home and abroad. These foods cost the government $2,701,900,000 under farm price support programs.

Americans Receive

Of this amount, about 5,361,000,000 pounds — costing $1,326,400,000 — went to needy in this country, and 8,431,900,000 pounds — costing $1,375,500,000 — went to the hungry abroad.

The department said that at present about 3,627,000 Americans are receiving surplus foods through local welfare agencies. No estimate was given on the number of persons abroad that are being helped. The foreign distribution is made through recognized international welfare agencies.

Pat On Back

The department gave a pat on the back to the domestic distribution through welfare agencies. Some members of congress have urged the establishment of a food stamp plan that would channel food to needy through regular grocery stores, with the needy using government-issued stamps as currency.

"The present method of operation gets the job done at a minimum cost," it said. "States and communities hold expenses down by using state and city food handling and transportation facilities and, in some areas, volunteer labor is available to further reduce out-of-pocket costs."

Principal foods donated the needy include flour and wheat and beef products, pork and products, dry beans, butter, pork products and poultry cheese, nonfat dry milk, rice, products.

Farmers' Use of Oil Products Rising

Madison — As mechanized agriculture advances, Wisconsin farmers are using more petroleum products than ever before.

Petroleum consumption on the Wisconsin farm has virtually doubled during the last 2 years, the state department of agriculture has found. Gasoline remains the most important fuel in farm operations, but diesel fuel has taken over second place in volume as a result of the increased use of diesel tractors.

Cattle Screening May Help Fight Against Disease

Cull-Dry Cow Test Cheaper For Government, Aids Farmer

A screening procedure for beef cattle, as effective as the development and application of the brucellosis ring test for dairy herds, would be economical for the government and convenient for the herd owners, Dr. A. A. Erdmann, chief veterinarian of the animal health division, Wisconsin department of agriculture, said today.

For this reason, a program known as cull and dry cow testing, developed through the cooperation of state and federal officials and various livestock associations, is under study in some areas of Wisconsin.

The national brucellosis eradication program has made great strides in recent years, Dr. Erdmann said.

The development and application of the brucellosis ring test for dairy herds has been one of the significant factors in the fight against the disease. The test serves effectively in restricting blood testing to only those herds which are suspicious to the ring test.

Uniform Rules

The cull and dry cow testing program which has been developed in western states by USDA over the last four years, entails the identification, by tagging, of cull cows at the time they are loaded at the owner's farm. Blood for testing is then drawn at the slaughter plant.

The identification tags are plastic impregnated and are oval in shape. Each tag has an eight digit number, which indicates the state of origin and the owner of the herd. The tags are placed on cull and dry breeding cows and bulls three years of age and over in an area approximately six inches back of the shoulder and four to six inches below the median line of the back. They are secured to the animal by use of a rubber-type, waterproof cement.

Uniform methods and rules of the United States Livestock association have been revised to allow recertification of areas on the basis of testing blood samples collected from cull and dry cows at slaughtering establishments.

100 Participate

The meat inspection division of USDA has indicated its full support of the program in the collecting of blood samples at federally inspected slaughtering plants. Meat inspectors will collect the samples and identify them in accordance with the back tag. The samples will then be forwarded to the regular state-federal brucellosis laboratory for testing. The results will be reported to the state-federal office and the owners notified of the result.

Establishments under federal meat inspection slaughter 91 per cent of Wisconsin cattle that go to market. Thus nearly complete results on the brucellosis status of these an-

New Products May Lengthen Canning Season

Some new food products seem promising for lengthening the operating season of Wisconsin canning plants.

Fermented pickled onions, parsnips, beet greens and rhubarb - apple sauce are possibilities.

Many canning plants operate only two or three months out of each year. Addition of new products at idle times of the year would allow plant managers to absorb cannery imals could be obtained through this system.

Veterinarians have long known that animals culled for health reasons are more apt to show the true brucellosis status of the herd. For this reason it is believed that the cull and dry cow testing program may be superior to testing a herd that is being retained on the farm. Livestock officials think that the cull and dry program will be of vital importance to the ultimate eradication of bovine brucellosis.

There are presently 100 Wisconsin beef producers participating in the trial cull and dry cow tests, during which regular herd blood tests will be conducted at farms. After a study period of two or more years, results of slaughter house and farm testing will be compiled. If the data proves the system effective, steps will be taken to replace periodic farm testing with the new system.

Before the cull and dry cow results can be incorporated officially into the Wisconsin eradication program, the statutes will have to be modified. The trial project should provide data which can be used to justify the necessary change in the law.

It is expedient, according to Dr. Erdmann, that the 100 cooperating beef producers identify all cull and dry cows over three years of age which are shipped to slaughter. They should otherwise follow all instructions which have been given them, he said.

The onions could be packed in late winter because storage is easy. Onion set growers produce some onions too large for sets; market growers produce some too small for the market. These "in between" sizes are just right for pickled onions.

Parsnips could be canned at either end of the season—early in the spring or very late in the fall. The flavor of fall-harvested parsnips was more bland and less sweet than for the spring pack. But spring-harvested parsnips had a slightly bitter flavor.

Canned beet greens offer an early-season crop for plants which don't process peas, and a possibility of getting two crops from the same plant ing.

formation he needs, the legislature was told last week by a leading expert in the field.

Prof. F. B. Trenk, widely known as the chief extension forester of the state college of agriculture, testified before a legislative interim committee. It was asked by the legislature to make a study of timber pricing practices in Wisconsin with special emphasis upon pulpwood.

Trenk told about a market news service for timber producers which was started by his office nearly 30 years ago, and now is recognized as the best of its kind in the country. The legislators were also told that the state conservation department is nearly ready to launch a market bulletin that will serve both buyers and sellers of timber products of all kinds, with listings available at a fee for both.

Grading Practices

Trenk also reported grading practices for the marketing of saw-logs in the state are fairly uniform under a voluntary code developed by the Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Manufacturers association.

But there has not yet been developed a grading system for pulpwood sticks, although the rules of acceptability of the mills are widely known by the producers, involving both size and quality.

Other college specialists testified that there are great differences in the buying of pulpwood according to weight or volume. Some producers have complained to the legislature that there ought to be a mandatory rule on the selling of pulpwood according to weight.

Fastest Market

The foresters told the legislators that the largest and fastest growing market for Wisconsin timber products is that for pulpwood, and especially since the mills have developed processes for the use of hardwoods, notably the abundant aspen. But they added that pulpwood prices for most species, including those in short supply, have not risen in relation to prices of all commodities in recent years.

About 60 per cent of the aspen used by Wisconsin mills is cut in Wisconsin. Most of the higher quality wood is im-

Machine-Age Onions on Their Way

Machine-age onions are here. Still more are on the way.

The specialist says there are now a dozen varieties of onions especially adapted to machine harvesting, storing and prepackaging. The modern onions grow to a more uniform size for easier handling. Their heavier scales withstand machine jostling.

Ten years of tests at the University of Wisconsin have revealed superior traits for all these hybrids. And soon even newer machine-type hybrids will be available.

Popular Hybrid

A popular hybrid, Autumn Spice, takes to the marshes of northern Wisconsin. Tests show it stores well and stays firm.

Three high-yielding onions—Abundance, Elite and Premier—thrive farther south in the state. They're outstanding for their uniformity and hybrid vigor, but can be too soft for bulk storage at times.

Trapp's Hybrid and Spartan are the newest members of the hybrid onion family. Both varieties store well and do fine in Wisconsin.

Early Harvest

Early Harvest matures in time for early fall marketing, either from seed or transplants. However, it doesn't store well.

Four others, Epoch, Aristocrat, Encore and Elite, round out the list of popular hybrids for Wisconsin. The hybrids give sets that flower too easily instead of developing bulbs. This is due to their extra vigor.

Two dependable, open-pollinated onions keep up with the hybrids in yield and storage quality. Trapp's Downing and Indian Queen store well, but lack the desired uniformity for machine harvesting, storing and prepackaging.

ported. Wisconsin mills typically get only 5 per cent for their spruce from local producers, and import more than half of it from Canada, according to the technicians' findings.

Union Organizes Poultry Farmers

New York—Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa began unionization of New Jersey poultry farmers who had called on him for help, but he offered only an indefinite program of action to boost sagging egg and poultry prices.

Mrs. Miriam Katz was appointed to complete organizational details with the Teamsters by more than 1,000 farmers meeting with Hoffa in Atlantic City. She said he mentioned "legislation as one of the first things we must work on."

However, she indicated no specific legislative program or other courses of action had been mentioned by Hoffa. "He said we have to act together, in kind of a co-op," she stated.

New Jersey poultry farmers have been protesting against depressed prices in the chicken and egg markets. Several groups have sought congressional aid in Washington.

Hoffa said he would urge Teamster councils in other states to press campaigns to recruit farm groups for the union.

Carleton E. Heritage, president of the New Jersey Farm Bureau, said he didn't think unionization was the answer to low farm prices. "It is against the law for unions to bargain for prices," he said, "and would be more effective adding that supply and demand than unionization."

Benson Didn't Wean Men From ACP

Limestone Institute Head Makes Remark At Senate Hearing

Washington—(AP)—The president of the National Limestone institute has told a congressional group that Sec. of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has failed to wean his state farmer committeemen from the controversial Agricultural Conservation Program, ACP.

The committeemen are appointed by the secretary of agriculture to help administer federal farm-aid plans, including price support, crop control, subsidy payment and soil conservation programs.

Little Support

Robert M. Koch, Washington, limestone institute president, recently told the house agriculture appropriations subcommittee that Benson's efforts to reduce the scope of the ACP program is supported by a very small minority of the state committeemen.

Summer Work Plans for Soil conservation cooperators were inspected at a meeting of SCS officials, county board representatives and contractors. From left are Vern Geiger, SCS planner; Harold Schmeichel, agriculture committee, county board; Joe Wieckert, ASC officer manager, and Floyd Acheson, contractor.

Under the ACP program, authorized in 1936, the department makes payments to farmers carrying out approved soil and water conservation practices. The law authorizes annual payments totaling half a billion dollars, but in recent years congress has approved only half that much.

Benson, on the other hand, has sought to trim the program to $100 million a year. Congress has refused to cut it to that level.

In urging continuation of the program at the quarter of a billion dollar level, Koch said: "It seems to me particularly significant, in view of his (Benson's) and this administration's adamant position concerning ACP since they took over in 1953, that these state committees are almost unanimous in their opinion that the ACP is an excellent program."

Planting Help Sought

Outagamie County Forester Ron Herman has issued a call for help in planting some 4,000 trees at Plaman park Saturday. Jaycees, Boy Scouts, Kiwanis and other service clubs have been asked to help, he said.
